Session Late in Getting Started—Prospects of All Day and Night Session

OLISEUM, Chicago, June 11.—Nominated by Governor Allen of Kansas and seconded by Frank Knox of New Hampshire, and Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York, the candidacy of Major General Leonard Wood was placed today before the republican national convention.

Late, again in getting underway, the convention met today with prospects of an all day and possibly a night session.

The demonstration which followed General Wood's nomination lasted 40 minutes. When it quieted down, Frank Knox of New Hampshire, the Wood floor leader, and Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York, made speeches seconding General Wood's nomination.

Senator Lodge announced amid cheers that the time had come for the convention to hear nominations for the presidency. Alabama passed when the roll call of states began.

One of the most abominable practices—wasteful of money—destruction of property—inhuman to the sick and the dying—was the old noisy way of celebrating the Fourth of July. It's the wise young man or woman who is now putting aside his or her money—not to burn up on Fourth of July—but to place to a Savings Account.

CONDEMNS LABOR PLANK

Pres. Gompers Denounces Action of Republican National Committee

MONTREAL, June 11.—The labor plank adopted by the republican national convention was condemned here today by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. He referred especially to the section of the plank providing for the settlement of public utilities strikes by tribunals similar to the Esch-Cummings transportation act of 1920.

The plank, Mr. Gompers asserted, is directly contrary to what labor has demanded of the republican party. "We had asked the convention to go on record in favor of the repeal of the compulsory arbitration sections of the transportation act," he added, "but the republicans appear to have not only refused our suggestion, but would extend it to all utilities."

When asked what would be the result of the rejection of labor's demands by the republican party, Mr. Gompers' only comment was: "You may draw your own inference."

He declined to comment on the possibility of labor abandoning its non-partisan political policy by putting a labor party in the field.

"A plain blunt man, with a blunt belief in facts," Governor Allen said of General Wood, "he is today the best known American."

Lowell Dealers Have No Hard Coal and Orders are Piling Up

Lowell coal dealers have practically no anthracite fuel in their bins. They do not know when they will get any, nor can they do more than estimate its retail price when it is received. Orders will be taken for eventual delivery, but only subject to the condition that the consumer must pay the price in vogue at that time.

"It is absolutely impossible for us to do business any other way," said one dealer this morning. "We are not trying to fool the public. If the coal were here, we would sell it and could sell it, for orders are piled up as they never have been before."

With his hard coal bins empty, some of his employees temporarily laid off and

Name of Illinois Governor Placed in Nomination by Cong. Rodenberg

Declares State Again Ready to Furnish Nation With Another Great Leader

Says Lowden's Brilliant Record Best Guarantee That He Will Meet Test

CHICAGO, June 11.—Likening Governor Frank O. Lowden unto Lincoln and telling the delegates to the republican national convention that once before many years ago Illinois was called upon to furnish a man when the nation was in dire distress, Congressman William A. Rodenberg, of Illinois today placed the name of Illinois' ex-governor in nomination for the presidency of the United States.

"Three score years ago," Congressman Rodenberg said, "at a time when the passions of men were stirred to their depths the nation turned for leadership to Illinois. We gave them Lincoln and grandly, nobly, he met the test. Illinois in 1820 stands ready to consecrate to the service of the republic another of her great sons. We present the patriotic governor of a patriotic state, Frank O. Lowden."

Congressman Rodenberg's speech follows:

Mr. Chairman, delegates to the republican national convention, ladies and gentlemen:

At no time since the birth of the republican party has there been greater need for the exercise of calm, deliberate and dispassionate judgment in the selection of a standard bearer than there is today. A spirit of rebellious unrest is abroad in the land. On all sides are heard murmurings of discontent. The times are pregnant with the prophecy of gloom and despair. Confidence has disappeared and the splendid optimism of former days, once our proudest national asset, has given way to an ever-present fear of impending disaster. For seven years the ship of state, straining in every timber, has been drifting in a sea of uncertainty. Its pilot confused and bewildered by strange voices in the air and lured on in its vacillating course by false lights along the shore. Nine anxious months still lie before us and if, perchance, it should be our good fortune to avoid the rocks of destruction it will be due solely to the mysterious workings of a merciful Providence, that guides and protects the destiny of a chosen people in their time of trial and tribulation.

I know that I voice the sentiment of every patriotic American when I express the hope that God will speed the day when a better and braver pilot shall be placed at the helm—one who is ready and willing in times of stress and storm to tread the chart and compass of experience, one who can restore discipline among officers and crew and inspire the courage that is born of confidence, one who will steer a straight and steady course through the troubled waters of national disorder and again find refuge in the harbor of national safety and security. To find such a pilot is the imperative duty of the republicans assembled in convention today.

Session Opened Earlier This Morning in Hopes of Reaching Decision Today

CHICAGO, June 11.—Animosities of the platform battle swept away by the roar of affirmation which wrote the republican creed for 1920 into history, delegates to the national convention gathered early today to fulfill their chief duty and name a presidential candidate.

Who would receive this highest honor in the party's gift, was an issue in the lap of the gods as yet. From Johnson and Lowden—expressed confidence. They made no specific claim to more than the votes pledged to their candidates by primary action.

The balance of power still lay with the more than 500 uncommitted delegates. Despite days of preliminary work among them, the making of the leading candidate had learned little of their state of mind. It remained

The jitney situation in Lowell will not be materially affected by the decision made yesterday by the department of public utilities to the effect that any jitney license issued prior to May 1 of this year, or issued under any local ordinance adopted prior to that date, is valid and of no effect.

It will be remembered that the local municipal council adopted an ordinance several months ago providing that no jitney should be operated on streets within the city on which cars of the street railway company are operated. This, of course, had the effect of wiping out the jitney service in Lowell for it would be impracticable for jitney owners to attempt to map out routes

DISCUSS COAL SHORTAGE

Home Rule Committee Members in Regular Session at City Hall

The street railway home rule committee at its regular meeting late yesterday afternoon voted to ask the two senators from Massachusetts to give their consideration to the present coal shortage confronting the country and which is daily proving more serious to the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co.

Mrs. Burke were absent. Mr. Sullivan was appointed temporary chairman. Manager Lees said that Chairman Loring of the trustees of the road had been in Lowell recently and said that the company was now paying over $16.50 a ton for coal that before the war cost $10. So serious had the situation become, he said, that the company's purchasing agent had been sent directly to the mines in an endeavor to get enough coal to continue operation. At the present time the Lowell division is using about 34 tons of coal per day.

been in the service for many years and said that he had no intention of being discourteous. A letter from the vice president of the road relative to the serious coal shortage confronting the road was read. Mr. Sullivan believed the committee should write to the Massachusetts senators at Washington asking that they give their consideration to the matter. Mr. Durfee made a motion to this effect and it was so voted. The receipts for the month of May, approximately, and without the adjustments with other cities' lines, which may make a few hundred more or less of difference, were presented by Supt. Lees as follows:

Moody-Anderson St., $168.46; Highlands-High St., $211.15; Broadway-High St., $208.74; Moody St.-Highway sq., $208.74; Chestnut St. Centre, $572.32; Westfield St., $224.21; Lawrence St., $572.32; Pawtucketville- Christian Hill (May 1 to 15, inclusive), $1526.55; Pawtucketville - Oakland (May 16-31, inclusive), $1636.21; Varnum Ave.-Oaklands (May 1-15, inclusive), $1461.45; Varnum Ave.-Christian Hill (May 16-31, inclusive), $2154.52; Hillieria Centre, $1255.51; Tyngsboro, $1180.15; Lowell-state line, $795.62; Lowell-Reading, $5610.24; Lowell-Lawrence, $2337.14; Lowell-North Chelmsford, $11,637.28. The total of these amounts is $31,916.94, these being cash fares paid. In addition there was received from tickets the sum of $15,847.25, making a grand total of $47,764.19. No line is credited with the tickets, because sold on one line they are, in many instances used almost entirely on other lines. The holder of a ticket is entitled to ride on any, or all, lines. It is difficult, therefore, to credit any line with receipts from the sale of tickets.

Figures, obtained by a conductor of the company at the request of Mr. Sullivan, were presented to show the amount of traffic on the Gorham street line. At the last meeting of the committee Mr. Sullivan had asked for 72-minute service on the Gorham street line because of the large amount of traffic there. The figures collected by a conductor stationed at the court house showed that on June 9, between the hours of 11.15 a. m. and 8.25 p. m., 1450 passengers traveled on outbound cars and 1255 on inbound cars. They used RED PILLS and testify to their value

Very grateful
Circumstances compelled me to start working at a very early age, so that at sixteen, I was so weak that I had to stop. In reading the newspapers, I learned of the excellent results obtained through the use of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women, and decided to try my luck. I took good care of myself and used RED PILLS for two years, and soon recovered my strength. Indeed, I was then stronger than ever. To-day I am married and mother of seven children. I do all my own housework with ambition and courage, and am feeling fine in every way, thanks to RED PILLS, which I still take whenever I feel myself getting run-down.—Mrs. DIDACE LAJEUNESSE
64 Clinton St., North Side, Cohoes, N.Y.

Nervousness after "La Grippe"
I have been using RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women since last January, and am pleased to say that they have helped me wonderfully by strengthening me and by relieving me of the nervousness which had remained since I was taken ill with the Spanish Grippe last fall. I like RED PILLS so well that I intend to take them again, so as to keep myself constantly fit and in good health.—Miss ALICE DALY
363 Pond St., Woonsocket, R.I.

Her only medicine
It is quite a while now since I started to take RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women, and I have always found them very satisfactory. I could do nothing without them. As soon as I stop taking them, I find that I cannot sleep regularly, I feel ill at ease, and excessively nervous. RED PILLS are the only remedy which can keep up my strength, for I am always overworked. Through seeing so many recommendations published in the papers, I got to know RED PILLS, and now, in turn, I consider it my duty to tell others what they have done for me. Trusting this may be the means of helping some other women who may be weak and suffering.
—Mrs. ESTHER POIRIER
464 Cartier St., Manchester West, N.H.

Dizziness, headaches, palpitations
For over a year I had been suffering from general weakness, dizziness, headaches, palpitations, and was also coughing quite a bit. As may be imagined, I found it rather difficult to attend to my household duties in this state of health, so that all my family was suffering thereby. I was determined to do my utmost to get better, and so started taking RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women which helped me right away by toning up my system and by ridding me of the headaches and dizzy attacks which had been the cause of such worry to me. In fact, I am now feeling fine, thanks to their beneficial effects.

PUT HOME ROOF OVER EVERYBODY'S HEAD

age. They make many suggestions, which, they think, will put roofs over homeless heads. Some of these—the most important—are:

Exemption of real estate mortgages from federal and state income taxes.

REALTORS THEY ARE
A few years ago when one thought of get-rich-quick boys invariably the term "real estate sharks" popped into mind. And to down this slur, to lift the great run of real estate men out of the sphere of the "shark" the real estate dealers formed boards and a member of the board is called a "realtor." Yet it's perfectly legitimate word and you'll find it in Webster.

C. N. Chadbourne, Minneapolis, is given credit for getting the word accepted by real estate men. Four years ago while riding to his office one morning Chadbourne read in a paper an account of a St. Paul woman being defrauded out of $1500 by a "real estate man."

"I immediately called up the St. Paul real estate board and learned that the man was not a member of the St. Paul board," says Chadbourne. "Yet every member of the board was hurt by the act. I decided what we needed was some way to distinguish between a bona fide member of a real estate board and a curbstoner."

From this Chadbourne struck upon the word "realtor" and it was accepted at the next national convention at New Orleans. It's pronounced "real-tor."

Building materials should be placed next to food and fuel in railroad priority by interstate commerce commission. Loaning of money by three financial institutions, such as life insurance companies, upon long terms for home building.

Back to the farm. Keep hands off the rent question, for decreasing rentals by law stops investment in building of renting properties. Community house building companies. Co-operative house building associations. Building materials on installment plan. Realtors believe capital is being attracted from house building because other industries offer larger returns. This they would overcome by removing income taxes from real estate mortgages, which, they insist, would make it easier for the home builder to borrow money. Freight congestion has caused a serious hold-up of building materials, and this realtors would get around by placing these materials upon a preferred standing. Some real estate men pointed to the growing number of deserted farm houses, and dwellings in rural towns, vacated by men drawn to large cities by big wages. This, they said, reduced food production while it aggravated the city housing problem. The convention took a firm stand against two housing solutions: The congressional program of federal urban banks, patterned after the farm loan banks, which would furnish home building money upon long terms at low interest rates to city people, and the plan advanced in congress by Representative Nolan of California, who would take large land holdings so heavily that the owners would be forced to sell them. This, Nolan insists, would make it possible for prospective home builders to purchase land more cheaply and thus would reduce the initial cost of building a dwelling. Real estate men believe the campaign to lower rents and to bring about legislative restrictions on leases and rentals will have a harmful effect upon home building. They declare that lowering rents will stop building except by those who desire to live in the dwelling erected; that it will keep capital out of the building industry, because as they point out, capital isn't going into building in a low rent era when it can make considerable more in other industries. Major W. C. Piper of Detroit, former president of the national board, told of his co-operative scheme, tried in Detroit, where workers pooled their labor after hours and built homes on the co-operative plan. "If a man can buy an automobile or a plane, or a suit of clothes on the installment plan, why shouldn't he buy material for his home on the same plan?" Piper asked.

MISS FLANAGAN WAS GUEST OF HONOR

Miss Mary Flanagan, a member of the 101st Ladies' Auxiliary, was the guest of honor at a surprise party given by members of the organization at their rooms last evening in honor of her coming marriage to Frank Merritt, former bugler of Co. M and son of Mrs. William H. Merritt, president of the auxiliary.

The affair followed a regular meeting of the auxiliary. At the close of the meeting Miss Flanagan was ushered into a darkened ante room where the other members of the auxiliary had assembled. Lights were flashed on and there appeared a beautifully decorated table on which there rested a valuable traveling bag. Miss Mollie O'Sullivan presented the bag and a purse of silver to Miss Flanagan on behalf of those present and extended the best wishes of the members of the organization. Later in the evening an enjoyable program of entertainment was carried out with Miss Margaret Flanagan and Miss Josephine Murphy acting as accompanists.

Those in charge of the affair were Mrs. George Underwood, Mrs. Winifred Burke, Mrs. John Hanley and Mrs. Michael Ready.

WHY HESITATE? All around you is evidence of what prices are. Stores think nothing of asking you $50, $60 and up for ready-made clothes, and they've got to do it to get their margin of profit when they bought these goods in the highest clothing market in history. This offer lasts only as long as the goods in this lot stick around. The woollens I talk about were bought last week, when a wholesale woolen house needed ready money; got them at my own price, and at $25.00 for suit to order I promise you I don't make any money—but I will make some friends and eventually customers, which is the reward I seek in this special offer.

sickness, was asserted by Rev. Andrew J. Graham, a member of the board of trustees of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, in a lecture delivered under the auspices of the local church of the denomination last evening in Colonial hall. The speaker gave as the reason that Christian Scientists die in a physical sense that diseases have to be overcome one at a time and that the last step in the progress will be the overcoming of death which, he said, is the supreme culmination of error of which there is the greatest dread. When in the course of time, the speaker claimed, Christ's truth is sufficiently known, even death will become a thing of the past.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Murray Pratt, who quoted from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and said that "in the history of the world there has never been greater need of clear thinking and right thinking than today."

IT WAS A GOOD CIRCUS
Sells-Floto Show One of the Best Ever Seen in Lowell

Giving a big show that easily ranked with the best circus performance ever staged in this city, the Sells-Floto extravaganza entertained thousands of people on the old fair grounds last in Garden street yesterday afternoon and evening.

Perhaps the comfortable weather had a lot to do with the feeling of satisfaction voiced on every side at the conclusion of each show, but more than that, the actual merit of the performances stood head and shoulders above any other contributing incident in a complete success.

The big top was quite as big, or quite as well as some raised, or other circus combinations, but it was adequate in every way and acts of only the highest grade were shown in the three rings and on the central platform. The wide variety of animals in the menagerie that were perfectly groomed and made up a splendid looking lot of contented beasts. The elephants might have been given more chain to allow them to come a little nearer the ropes and make part of the performance a matter of horse-hall skill, but the men management undoubtedly had its good reasons for limiting the length of leading chain, and it is not for the layman to criticize.

All through the program the three rings were occupied by artists of unusual ability and running a long and varied gamut of exhibitions of skill and nerve. The tight and slack wire work of Lillie Victoria and Myrtle Beeson was particularly good, while there was some fine aerial work by the Codona family. The prancing and beautiful to look upon and it hardly required the admittance of the announcer—"Let all eyes be upon them"—to keep these splendid animals in the spotlight.

Never, within memory, have elephants performed so smoothly and cleverly as did a troupe of five directed by Henry Boucher and Blanche Wells. The latter did most of the trick work and as a finale perched herself on the head of one of the largest of the quintet while he marched down the tent on his two hind legs. World distinction is claimed for him because of this feat.

But, in the midst of all this pleasure and entertainment there was a discordant note, which twanged so loudly at times as to actually threaten the existence of more than one happy home. Much has been said of vampires during the past few jazzed-up years, but none ever worked so cunningly as a heavily veiled young lady who paraded up and down before the reserved seat sections prior to the opening of the show. A pair of questioning eyes, shone out from beneath the broad brim of a black picture hat and they were home-wreckers and no mistake.

Young and old fell for her, while real wives and sweethearts hugged at their arms of susceptible males and endeavored to drag them beyond the mystic spell. The siren on the rock of Lowell never wrecked 'em any faster than did this creature. Yes, she, or rather he, for it was Freddie Biggs, was a circus attache, but few there were who realized it before being tricked into tying an unlaced shoe or attempting to revive her from a fainting spell.

Two boys in khaki provided the most fun for the audience last night when they actually picked "her" up in their arms and hurried toward the back of the tent as "she" pulled the most realistic faint imaginable.

It was new stuff, put over to perfection and just one of many features that characterized an exceptionally good circus.

G. O. P. PLATFORM FLAYS LEAGUE

Plank "Acceptable to All,"
Says Wilson's Covenant
Has Signally Failed

Promises to Restore Peace
Time Laws—Chief Points
of Platform

The plank of the platform adopted by the republican convention at Chicago, dealing with the League of Nations, occurring in the general section on foreign relations, reads as follows:

Foreign Relations
The foreign policy of the administration has been founded upon no principle and directed by no definite conception of our nation's rights and obligations. It has been humiliating to America and irritating to other nations; with the result that after a period of unexampled sacrifice, our motives are suspected, our moral influence impaired and our government stands discredited and friendless among the nations of the world.

We favor a liberal and generous foreign policy founded upon definite moral and political principles, characterized by a clear understanding of and firm adherence to our own rights and unfailing respect for the rights of others. We should afford full and adequate protection to the life, liberty and property and all international rights of every American citizen and should require a proper respect for the American flag; but we should be equally careful to manifest a just regard of other nations.

A scrupulous observance of our international engagements when lawfully assumed is essential to our own honor and self-respect and the respect of other nations. Subject to a due regard for our international obligations, we should leave our country free to develop its civilization along the line most conducive to the happiness and welfare of the people and to cast its influence on the side of justice and right should occasion require.

Mandate for Armenia
We condemn President Wilson for asking congress to request to empower him to accept a mandate for Armenia. The acceptance of such a mandate would throw the United States into the very maelstrom of European quarrels. According to the estimate of the Harbord commission, organized by authority of President Wilson, we would be called upon to send 55,000 American boys to police Armenia and to expend $276,000,000 in the first year and $756,000,000 in five years.

This estimate is made upon the basis that we would have only roving bands to fight, but in case of a serious trouble with the Turks or with Russia a force exceeding 200,000 would be necessary.

No more striking illustration can be found of President Wilson's disregard of the lives of American boys or American interests.

No Mandate in Europe or Asia
We deeply sympathize with the people of Armenia and stand ready to help them in all proper ways, but the republican party will oppose now and hereafter the acceptance of a mandate for any country in Europe or Asia. The republican party stands for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world. We believe that such an international association must be based upon international justice, and must provide methods which shall maintain the rule of public right by development of law and the decision of impartial courts, and which shall secure instant and general international conference.

CHIEF POINTS IN PLATFORM
The chief points in the republican platform, adopted yesterday, follow:

The treaty plank finally adopted declares for a League of Nations to "preserve the peace of the world," but says the Wilson covenant signally failed to accomplish this purpose. It says the covenant repudiated the policy of Washington, Jefferson and Monroe and that the senators performed their duty faithfully in rejecting it.

The industrial relations plank recognizes the justice of collective bargaining, advocates government initiative to prevent strikes and lockouts and denies the right to "strike against the government." In private industries the principle of compulsory arbitration is not favored, but tribunals for conciliation and mediation are favored.

Platform declares for adequate farm representation among government officials and commissions, for co-operation in marketing farm products, against unnecessary price fixing, and for such use of the farm loan act as would facilitate the acquisition of ownership of farm lands.

The Mexican plank declares the policy of the administration ineffective and pledges the republican party to a consistent, firm and effective policy that shall enforce respect for the American flag and protect the rights of American citizens.

A republican congress reduced the administration estimate for 1920 almost $3,000,000,000. Greater economies could have been effected had it not been for the stubborn refusal of the administration to co-operate with congress in an economy program.

The president clings tenaciously to his autocratic wartime powers. His veto of the resolution declaring peace and his refusal to sign the bill repealing wartime legislation deserve the severest condemnation. Had not our associates protected us on both land and sea during the first 12 months of our participation in the war and furnished us to the very day of the armistice with munitions, planes and artillery, our unpreparedness would have been punished with disaster. It directly resulted in unnecessary losses to our troops.

Eighteen months after the armistice, with its wartime powers unabridged, its wartime departments undischarged, its wartime army of peace holders still mobilized, the administration continues to flounder helplessly.

Mandate for Armenia is condemned.
Prime cause of high cost of living is declared to be depreciation in the dollar due to "gross expansion of our currency and credit, reduced production and swollen profits."

Simplified form of income return advocated.
No definite pledge on soldiers' bonus but stands on party's generous policy of past.
Urges prompt ratification of surfrage amendment by states which have not already done so.
Irish plank dropped, fearing offense to British relations.

Whenever peace shall be threatened by political action, so that the nations pledged to do and insist upon what is just and fair may exercise their influence and power for the prevention of war.

We believe that all this can be done without the compromise of national independence, without depriving the people of the United States in advance of the right to determine for themselves what is just and fair, when the occasion arises and without involving them as participants and not as peace-makers in a multitude of quarrels, the merits of which they are unable to judge.

"Covenant Intolerable"

The covenant, signed by the president at Paris, failed signally to accomplish this purpose, and contained stipulations not only intolerable for an independent people, but certain to produce the injustice, hostility and controversy among nations which it proposed to prevent.

That covenant repudiated to a degree wholly unnecessary and unjustifiable, the time honored policy in favor of peace declared by Washington and Jefferson and Monroe and pursued by all American administrators for more than a century, and it ignored the universal sentiments of America for generations past in favor of international law and arbitration and it rested the hope of the future upon mere expediency and negotiation.

The unfortunate insistence of the president upon having his own way without any change, and without any regard to the opinion of the majority of the senate, which shares with him in the treaty making power, and the president's demand that the treaty should be ratified without any modification, created a situation in which senators were required to vote upon their conscience and their oaths according to their judgment upon the treaty as it was presented, or submit to the commands of a dictator in a matter where the authority under the constitution was theirs and not his.

Approve Senators' Stand

The senators performed their duty faithfully. We approve their conduct and honor, their courage and fidelity, and we pledge the coming republican administration to such agreement with the other nations of the world as shall meet the full duty of America to civilization and humanity in accordance with American ideals and without surrendering the right of the American people to exercise its judgment and its power in favor of justice and peace.

Pointing to its history and relying upon its fundamental principles, we declare that the republican party has the generous courage and constructive ability to end executive usurpation and restore constitutional government; to fulfill our world obligations without sacrificing our national independence; to raise the national standard of education, health and general welfare; to re-establish a peace time administration and to substitute economy and efficiency for extravagance and chaos; to restore and maintain the national credit; to reform unequal and burdensome taxes; to free business from arbitrary and unnecessary official control; to suppress disloyalty without denial of justice; to repeal the arrogant challenge of any class; and to maintain a government of all the people as contrasted with government for some of the people; and finally, to ally unrest, suspicion and strife, and to secure the co-operation and unity of all citizens in the solution of the complex problems of the day, to the end that our country, happy and prosperous, proud of its past, sure of itself and its institutions, may look forward with confidence to the future.

The United States has only 6 per cent of the world's population and 7 per cent of the world's land.

DISCOVER KOREAN PLOT OF ASSASSINATION

HONOLULU, June 10.—The Japanese secret service has discovered a plot by Koreans against the lives of Prince Li of Korea and Princess Masako, who recently were married, and Baron Sato, according to a Tokio cablegram to the Nippon Jiji.

The alleged plot which included the bombing of the foreign and interior offices and the Tokio police bureau was intended as a protest against the marriage the despatch stated.

Two Japanese believed to have been implicated have been arrested.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX REGULATIONS

BOSTON, June 11.—More than $5,000,000 has been paid on the second installment of federal income taxes due at the office of Internal Revenue Collector John J. Mitchell on or before the close of business, 5 p. m., June 15, but of this amount at least $300,000 has been received from about 6000 taxpayers who sent their remittances without the bills which were mailed to them last week.

Payments on 200 different classes of tax are being received at the internal revenue office daily and when remittances are received without the bills it is necessary to go through thousands of records before the payment is properly identified and a new bill prepared. Persons who call at the office to make payments without their bills cause the same delay and duplication of accounts.

"Waa, waa, waa!" cried Mrs. Woodchuck to have the surprise of their lives, for not only were the little chicks all in bed, but who should be rocking them and singing (in a voice about as soft and sweet as the electric cleaner when it's going), but Wally Woodchuck himself, and looking like pie. He was singing—

"Hush-a-bye, my little ground diggers, With woolfiken fur and such fat little fingers, Daddy will watch by the button-tree all night, And chase Mister Fox should he chance to come nigh."

"No doubt that's true," said Tingaling quickly. "In fact, I may as well tell you, Mrs. Woodchuck, that my little friends and I heard only today that your husband Wally had put out the children to shift for themselves, as he wished all the food for himself!"

"You can go upstairs, and see them," answered Mrs. Woodchuck tartly. "If all four children aren't safe and sound in bed, I'll strew my new spring hat for dinner, and I like it pretty well, being the most becoming one I ever owned."

So up they trooped, all of them, and peered into the bedroom. But they were

He pretended not to see the people crowding into the room, and seemed awfully surprised when the fairymen landlord shook his bells and said "Ahem" quite loudly.

"Why, I declare!" yawned Wally. "Did you get tired waiting for the sassafra for your tea, folks? I heard the children fussing, so I came upstairs. I was nearly asleep myself."

Tingaling looked stern. He knew Wally was not telling the truth.

Can't Beat "Tiz" When Feet Hurt

"Tiz" for Sore, Tired, Puffed-up, Aching, Calloused Feet or Corns

You can be happy-footed in a moment. Use "Tiz" and never suffer with tender, raw, burning, blistered, swollen, tired, smelly feet. "Tiz" and only "Tiz" takes the pain and soreness out of corns, callouses and bunions.

As soon as you put your feet in a "Tiz" bath, you just feel the happiness soaking in. How good your poor, old feet feel. They want to dance for joy. "Tiz" is grand. "Tiz" instantly draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause sore, itchy, aching, sweaty, smelly feet.

Get a box of "Tiz" at any drug store or department store. Get instant foot relief. Laugh at foot sufferers who complain. Because your feet are never, never going to bother or make you limp any more.—Adv.

law. Every other regular army officer holding emergency rank will be in the same boat.

A provision of the bill makes it mandatory upon the secretary of war to honorably discharge all officers of the regular army from their emergency rank on that date. Consequently Gen. March's head will drop into the basket along with those of all other regular officers still enjoying advanced emergency rank.

In fact, the provision was especially designed to reach the chief of staff, who antagonized various senators and representatives by insisting, during the war that military efficiency was the prime requisite.

If a senator or representative wanted any favors shown a friend he must demonstrate that the individual concerned was militarily fit, or sufficient.

Such Pretty Waves and Curls—In Three Hours!

Have you tried liquid silmerine? If not, by all means do so. Within three hours you can have just the loveliest curls and waves! They will appear so perfectly natural and you will be surprised how long they will last. When the hair is combed out it will be beautifully fluffy.

Silmerine should be applied with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair. It may be used before retiring. If preferred, a few ounces of the liquid from your drugstore will last many weeks. This will also be found to be a splendid dressing, keeping the hair soft and glossy. It is entirely harmless, of course, and is neither sticky nor greasy.—Adv.

for a cold turnaround at the hands of the chief of staff.

The only chance that Gen. March will in future enjoy higher rank than that of major general is that congress will pass a pending bill authorizing the appointment of three lieutenant generals. If this legislation is passed, Gen. March, Bullard and Liggett undoubtedly will be given appointments at the high grade.

Lieut. Gen. Bullard, commanding the eastern department, will be Maj. Gen. Bullard after June 30, and the same will be true of Lieut. Gen. Liggett, commanding the western department.

UNUSUAL

It's so long since we had an opportunity to present a real tooth brush bargain, that we have decided to sell a portion of our 35c to 50c for 23c. Every brush guaranteed as when sold at regular prices.

This sale will continue for not more than two weeks, possibly less than that. No soda, no candy, but everything in drugs.

PLYMOUTH, June 11.—Charles W. Eliot, president (emeritus) of Harvard university, has been appointed chairman of the committee on education of the Plymouth tercentenary committee, which is planning the celebration to commemorate the landing of the Pilgrims in 1620.

Other members of the education committee as announced today are Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university; W. H. P. Faunce, president of Brown university; Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale university; David Starr Jordan, chancellor (emeritus) of Leland Stanford university; Henry Lefavour, president of Simmons college; Henry N. MacCracken, president of Vassar college; W. A. Nelson, president of Smith college; Ellen F. Pendleton, president of Wellesley college and Kenneth M. Sills, president of Bowdoin college.

Dandruff Soon

Ruins the Hair

Girls—If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

TO SELL LEVIATHAN

Bids to be Opened June 30—
Injunction Nullified by New
Marine Act

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Bids for the sale of the Leviathan, the largest ship in the American Merchant Marine, will be opened June 30 by the shipping board. The Leviathan, which was taken over from Germany at the outbreak of the war, was built in 1914 at Hamburg by Blohm and Boss and has a gross tonnage of 54,252. The vessel has accommodations for 985 first class passengers, 525 second class, 816 third class and 1600 stowage.

Announcing its decision to sell the giant liner the board stated that the injunction obtained by William Randolph Hearst prohibiting the sale of the former German passenger ships was nullified by the new merchant marine act which gives the board authority to dispose of its entire fleet. The ship will be sold "as is and where is," it was stated.

Forty-six vessels with an aggregate of 255,400 deadweight tons were constructed during May, according to the board's report yesterday, making a total of 2039 vessels of 11,357,603 deadweight tons constructed for the board.

During last April, the mills of the United States consumed 66,900,000 pounds of wool.

Teamster's Life Saved

Writes Letter That is Worth Reading
Very Carefully

Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.: I was afflicted with a very severe sore on my leg for years. I am a teamster, I tried all medicines and salves, but without success. I tried doctors, but they failed to cure me. I couldn't sleep for many nights from pain. Doctors said I could not live for more than two years. Finally Peterson's Ointment was recommended to me and by its use the sore was entirely healed. Thankful yours, William Hase, West Park, Ohio, March 22, 1915, care P. O. Reitz, Box 143.

"Peterson says: 'I am proud of the above letter and have hundreds of others that tell of wonderful cures of Eczema, Piles and Skin Diseases.' Peterson's Ointment is 35 cents a large box at all druggists, and there isn't a broad-minded druggist in America that won't praise it. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. LOAN OF $45,000,000 SEEKS HER STOLEN BABY

Additional Credit Extended to Germany by American Packing Firms

WASHINGTON, June 11.—An additional credit of $45,000,000 has been extended to the German government for the purchase of meats and other foodstuffs by large American packing firms, said a report received today by the department of commerce from the American commissioner at Berlin. This credit which is $10,000,000 more than that extended by the same firms last year will cover deliveries during the next 22 months.

The foodstuffs thus made available, together with the scheduled delivery of several hundred thousand tons of corn from Argentina, should greatly relieve Germany's food shortage, it was said.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

A special town meeting for the citizens of Chelmsford will be held this evening in the town hall, Centre village, at 8 o'clock and it is expected the various articles on the warrant will entail considerable discussion. Most of the articles have to do with school matters as a survey of the town schools was recently made by the school board and this evening the latter will make their report and offer suggestions. In order to explain thoroughly conditions in the town schools hearings were held this week in the North and Centre villages with Rev. Charles H. Ellis, chairman of the school board as the presiding officer. Interesting remarks pertaining to school conditions and the improvements needed were made by Chairman Ellis, Supt. Walter K. Putney and Dr. F. E. Varney, who in the course of their remarks explained that it was not their intention to advocate the expenditure of a large sum of money, and they stated it was up to the voters to decide which course should be adopted after giving consideration to the suggestions which the committee had made during the course of the survey.

The total estimated agricultural wealth of the Dominion of Canada for 1919 amounts to $7,375,299,000.

Mrs. Coughlin Makes Dramatic Appeal to Mothers and Children to Help

NOHRISTOWN, Pa., June 11.—Mothers and children throughout the country are appealed to by Mrs. George H. Coughlin, mother of 13-months old Blakely Coughlin, who was kidnapped nine days ago, to help her find the baby. When she concluded writing the appeal, which was blotted with her tears, the mother collapsed.

"If there is a strange baby in your neighborhood, please, Oh please, find out who he is and where he came from, for he may be my child," she wrote.

Mrs. Coughlin appended a description of the stolen baby, which she said was 22 inches tall, weighs 30 pounds, has large blue eyes and light hair and is stockily built for a child of his age. He had four upper and four lower teeth, with two others about to make their appearance.

DOMESTIC ARTS

Exhibition Opens at the Girls' Community Club

A domestic arts exhibition including work done in dressmaking, millinery and embroidery classes opened at the Girls' Community club in the Runkel building last night, with Hugh J. Molloy, president of the Lowell Community Service, Inc. present as a special guest. The exhibition continues this afternoon and evening and the public is cordially invited to inspect it.

Very useful and pretty dresses are shown by the girls who studied dressmaking under the direction of Miss Eleanor Kivlin, while excellent results are apparent along millinery lines as taught by Miss Mary Kelley. The hats on exhibit combine taste, good style and careful workmanship. Beautiful indeed are the embroidery pieces on display and there also are samples of knitting and crocheting.

A veteran Australian miner has produced samples of ore found in Point Grey, Vancouver, which show gold assay values of over $1000 a ton.

A Wise Mother and a Good Dessert

"I wish I could find something for the children that they would like as well as cornstarch pudding or blanc mange," said Mrs. Matthews, as she and Mrs. Edmonds sat talking one afternoon. "They're such a nuisance to make, and one never knows whether they are going to turn out right."

"Why don't you make Pudding? That always turns out right," replied her friend.

"Pudding?" questioned Mrs. Matthews, with interest. "What is it? Another dessert that sometimes is a success, but generally isn't?"

"No, indeed," said Mrs. Edmonds emphatically. "Pudding is a perfectly wonderful dessert that always turns out right. You just add milk and sugar to it and boil for three minutes, and you know that when it has cooled you will have a nice, rich mold of delicious creamy dessert."

"It sounds wonderful," interrupted Mrs. Matthews.

"It is wonderful," replied Mrs. Edmonds. "You can get it in a number of flavors—chocolate, vanilla, orange, lemon—and you can use Pudding for all sorts of things. It makes the most luscious cake and pie fillings, and smooth, velvety ice cream."

"Is it expensive?" asked her friend.

"Oh, no, indeed. You can serve seven helpings from a 10c package or fifteen from a 15c package of Pudding. And then what I like about it is that I can let the children have as much as they want, because it is pure and wholesome."

"I certainly shall get some Pudding," said Mrs. Matthews. "I'm glad you told me about it."

A week later the two friends were talking together on the phone. "By the way," said Mrs. Matthews, "my whole family simply loves Pudding. I think they'd like to have it for every meal. I certainly am glad you told me about it."

THE STRAND

William Farnum in another of his vigorous roles in "The Adventurer," is pleasing large audiences at all performances at The Strand. It's one of the star's best roles and may rightly be classed with the best creations of his kind shown recently. Madeline Travers in "The Iron Heart," is another commendable dramatic effort by one of the real favorites of the screen. Besides these there is a good comedy and an excellent Weekly. See it all at our new summer prices.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Clayton the Mystic, the only crystal gazing expert on the vaudeville stage, is a subject of much comment at the B. F. Keith theatre, where he is living daily demonstrations of his remarkable powers. His work is easily the smoothest ever seen here, and he is completely mystifying in what he does. He is the big feature of the week's bill, although there are several other specially good acts, including "Skeet" Gallagher and Irene Martin, who are giving a little comedy and dancing novelty. Bessie and Baird are also sure-fire comedy makers, who

A. F. OF L. CONVENTION

Administration Threatened by Progressive Element, Headed by Seattle Man

MONTREAL, June 11.—The administration of the conservative wing of the American Federation of Labor was threatened today by the progressive element. The progressives, headed by James Duncan, of Seattle, who yesterday overthrew two major reports of the organization committee, were prepared to again contest the Gompers forces for power.

The progressive element, including the Pacific coast delegates and those of the garment workers' organizations planned today to fight for radical recommendations for the relief of the workers. They also seek the release of political prisoners, lifting of the Russian blockade, recognition of the Russian soviet government and a declaration against the League of Nations. They will, however, support the Irish resolutions.

Progressive leaders declared they would contest any mild recommendations that may be presented by the committee on the executive council's report that have to do with the high cost of living, profiteering and other economic problems.

WOMAN TO SPEAK FOR GOVERNOR COOLIDGE

CHICAGO, July 11.—Mrs. Alexandra Carlisle Pfeiffer of Lexington, Mass., has been told by the leaders of the Coolidge boom to prepare her address seconding the nomination of the governor before the convention.

The decision to have her make the seconding speech came suddenly after prolonged consideration. It had been planned to place Governor Coolidge's name before the convention in a single, brief speech by Speaker Gillett. Mrs. Pfeiffer is a speaker of force and experience and it is felt that she will make an excellent impression on the assembly of delegates. One of those who has most strongly favored her appearance is former Senator Weeks.

MRS. CATT NAMED

Re-elected Despite Declaration of Retirement

GENEVA, June 11.—(By Associated Press).—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was unanimously re-elected president of the International Woman Suffrage alliance at this morning's session of its congress here. She has agreed to accept the office. It was announced, despite her declaration in a speech yesterday that she felt compelled to retire.

THE OWL THEATRE

If you like a picture that is out of the ordinary, if you like a picture that shows strange things as they are, if you like Griffith methods, and about everybody does that, then by all means, see "The Owl Theatre," now playing at the Owl Theatre. For here is a picture worth seeing. Charlie Seymour as the dancer is a revelation. She is true to the type—half French, some Java blood in her, the dancing force of centuries in her blood. She breathes the very spirit of Terpsichore in her wonderful dance between the two young men, one a beach-comber, a wreck of manhood, the other a Puritan youth who later dies fighting the savages. "The Owl" has the picture this week.

All next week—a Curwood story, "The Courage of Marge O'Doone." Other critics say it's great. Very likely you'll agree.

Clothing Prices Busted

O'Brien's offers entire stock of spring Suits—including Stein Bloch's at Reduced Prices

Apparently, the clothing market is demoralized. Big merchants and manufacturers alike, with big stocks on their hands, and a lack of buyers, are trying to unload—to cash in. Hence the mark-down sales.

We're not overstocked, because we haven't gambled. Except for an occasional lull, caused by unfavorable weather, our business has been satisfactory. But we recognize conditions as they are, and offer our customers advantages equal, at least, to those offered by others.

So you can come here today or tomorrow, and for the balance of the season, and select any Spring Suit in our stock at a marked reduction from the first price. The fancy suits show reductions averaging about 15%—the staple blues, blacks and browns a flat 10%. These reductions are as liberal as is consistent with good business methods.

First and Only Woman Bank
President in the United States

MRS. F. J. RUNYON

"SOMEBODY SUGGESTED WE START A BANK AND WE DID"

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., June 10.—"I thing about banking. They elected me will lend money to a woman just as quickly as I will lend to a man," says Mrs. Frank J. Runyon, the first and only woman bank president in the United States. She doesn't show any favors to either sex, she claims, but bases her loans entirely on the collateral the borrower is able to offer. Mrs. Runyon is president of the First Woman's bank in Tennessee, a local institution, capitalized at $15,000. Deposits total $24,000 and the bank is only a little over six months old. All officers and members of the directorate are women, and by agreement they use their husbands' initials instead of their own. Even the bank's porter is a colored woman.

"Starting a bank was rather an accidental circumstance for us," Mrs. Runyon said. "When the war ended I was county Red Cross chairman and most of the women now in the bank were associated with me. Somebody suggested that we start a bank and we did, although none of us knew anything about banking. They elected me as president."

Mrs. Runyon had posted a set of books for her husband, who is a physician, but knew nothing of finance. For two months before the bank was opened, she and the present cashier went to a neighboring town and studied in a small bank there, without stating their intentions.

All the bank stock, by agreement, is held by members of the directorate families, no one person being permitted to own over $100 worth. The women say they did this to keep any other bank from getting control of that institution.

SUCH IS LIFE IN A CAMPAIGN YEAR

BY O. B. JOYFUL

The delegation from the state of excitement got in this a. m., booming the Hon. Oscar Gosh for the presidency. They bore a banner upon which was inscribed:

The candidacy of William Running Brook has been re-mentioned.

Other candidates may come and go, but as the poet so aptly remarked, Brook runneth on forever.

It was to be expected that when W. Running Brook got into the race the wet-dry problem would bob up again.

A new scheme has been hatched. The militarists have gotten together and decided to run Gen. Apathy for the vice presidency if they win out on Gen. Humidity as the presidential candidate. If Apathy and Humidity are named the New Third party will select the hookworm as the party emblem.

Rural delegates arriving are saying by hook or a farmer doesn't land a place on the ticket they will start another third party and this turns the spotlight upon the Hon. Josh Wise as a likely candidate for vice president, which gets Mrs. Tom Duff all fussed up. She had the vice presidential nomination attached for Mr. Duff yesterday. But when Mr. Wise got going Mrs. Duff called another meeting of the suits and the tide again turned Duffward.

For president, Everett True, 326; Gen. Humidity, 174; Santa Claus, 98; William Running Brook, 17; O. Gosh, 8; uninstructed, 731.

For vice president: Tom Duff, 236; Josh Wise, 235; Gen. Apathy, 42.

Latest figures obtained by the federal bureau of education show that between 300,000 and 400,000 children in the United States last year were without schooling.

AT THE CHELMSFORD STREET HOSPITAL

There are 31 less inmates at the Chelmsford Street hospital at the present time than there were at this time last year, according to Supt. Martin Conley. The present enrollment of the institution totals 232, while in 1919 at this time there were 313 inmates. In 1918 on the corresponding date there were 246.

Prohibition and the fact that a large number of the older inmates have died in the past year are given as reasons for the decrease by Supt. Conley.

The shortage of labor at the hospital has resulted in the necessity of hiring outside labor this year. The various crops are coming along in a satisfactory manner.

Hottest Day of Convention

Nominating Speeches

First on the program came the nominating speeches. To get these swiftly out of the way, the convention met at 9 o'clock instead of 11, as on previous days. Further steps toward short circuiting useless and often tiresome oratory were taken in connection with seconding speeches.

Under the rule adopted, each candidate may be seconded in two five-minute addresses. He may have as many seconders as he likes, but if he elects to have more than two, none of those who speak for him may talk more than two minutes.

Curb on Eulogists

Under this ruthless curb on eulogists the "first ballot" should be reached by mid-afternoon. Indications are that it will show the instructed strength of the major candidates lined up virtually solidly as the mandates the instructed delegations carry direct.

It will bring out, too, the full "favorable" strength already discounted by the announced purpose of various delegations to thus compliment man of their own state allegiance. It will formally enter a whole string of "dark horses" in the race, but the overshadowing interest in this first direct step toward the nomination lies in what it may disclose as to a current among the uninstructed toward one of the big three to supplement his instructed strength.

Trading and Dickering

With the first ballot recorded and its half and quarter votes tabulated, workers for the various candidates will have material on which to work intelligently. On the next vote, favorite son strength will begin to disappear, the delegations, their duty of courtesy done, being free to join in the fight on candidates possible of nomination. Then will begin the round of quick floor conferences, the trading and dickering that oils the wheels of a political convention toward the ultimate choice.

The second ballot is certain to show some changes, always providing that the wholly unexpected development of a nomination on the first ballot has not made further voting unnecessary. From the second on, step by step, strength of the leading candidates may be expected to wax or wane, until either a deadlock occurs or one of the trio emerges as master of the situation.

Dark Horse Movements

Dark horse movements spring out of deadlocks. Up to the time the convention assembled today, there was every indication that a triangular deadlock between Wood, Johnson and Lowden would be shown on the first counting of votes. For that reason, dark horse promoters had been busy through the night, planning and working in order to be prepared to attempt a coup when an opportunity came. Out of these activities and also of the vigorous maneuvering of leaders and lieutenants of the leading candidates came a new crop of reports over night.

Wood Claims Gains

Wood supporters affirmed that he would show strength in excess of 300 on the first ballot. Some placed it at 350 and it requires 193 to nominate. Previous Wood claims had not exceeded 250. The source of the expected additional 50 or 100 votes was not disclosed by the claimants.

Lowden Supporters Also Active

They asserted that they needed only the adherence of a strong eastern delegation to the Illinois governor's standard to put him over. It was an open secret that they were stirring with the big New York representation pledged to Nicholas Murray Butler at the outset and with some known Wood strength in its ranks, but with the ultimate action of the majority as yet undecided.

Johnson Forces Active

Johnson supporters were very active openly during the evening hours yesterday, treating the convention camp to a taste of old time methods in the way of bands and banners and stump oratory at the curb. What they were doing otherwise toward torpedoing rival booms without warning was not so clear.

They made no claims beyond asserting that the Californian would show a steadily growing strength as the balloting proceeded.

Dark horse activity was very deep beneath the surface. Workers for Gov. Sprout of Pennsylvania; for Butler, and darkest of them all, Charles Evans Hughes, were reported as conferring and negotiating; but there was no outward evidence of their labors. One report had it that a group of men who hold important places in the party councils had caucused in preparation for putting Judge Hughes forward at the right moment with sufficient initial strength to give the movement a winning impetus. If so, they were careful to obliterate the traces of their operations.

There was a marked quiet among the avowed adherents of Herbert Hoover. In fact, doubt seemed to prevail that he would be placed in nomination at all, but plans of his supporters were not revealed.

Platform Unanimously Approved

Delegates were busy today with press copies of the platform as it was adopted. The great majority had caught only its general drift when Senator Watson, chairman of the resolutions committee, presented the draft that was unanimously approved. Relief over the fact that an open rupture on the League of Nations issue had been averted and party harmony restored outweighed all other considerations at that time.

Undoubtedly the struggle on the league issue has had an effect on the candidacy of the chief aspirants to the nomination. It brought the party to the brink of disaster and the aftermath, the chips and shavings and discarded league planks left by the platform framers when they finished the job, has not all been swept up, but none of the candidates professed to be anything but elated by the result, radically differing as their views on the league question may be. There was no means of assessing the strength any of the chief trio may have gained or lost because of that outstanding clash of the convention.

Senator Lodge, chairman of the convention, did not expect that the presidential nominee would be selected in time to permit balloting on the vice presidency before Saturday. There are almost as many vice presidential nominees as there are presidential candidates, but they have received only passing attention in convention circles at large thus far.

The question of naming a candidate for vice president is interwoven with the result of the presidential race. Political considerations, based on the part of the country from which the two candidates hail and the party's strength therein always influence the vice presidential selection. As a rule it has been the custom of all parties to

WILL VISIT OLD HOME IN FRANCE

Word has been received in this city to the effect that Rev. Bro. Chrysostom of Montreal, who was the first director of St. Joseph's college in this city and Rev. Bro. Priscillanus of Quebec, who succeeded Rev. Bro. Chrysostom at the Lowell school, will leave next month for France.

The two brothers, who are natives of France, have not been abroad for a great many years and the voyage they are soon to undertake was planned three years ago, but the war prevented them from carrying out their plans.

BRISTOL NO LONGER IN STATE OF INSURRECTION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 11.—Lieutenant and Acting Gov. Emory J. San Souci today issued a proclamation declaring the town of Bristol to be no longer in a state of insurrection. The proclamation was issued upon the representations of the sheriff of Bristol county and of the president of the town council of Bristol that the town is now in a condition to warrant the withdrawal of the proclamation of insurrection issued by Gov. Beekman on May 25.

Col. Luke E. Callan, an overseas veteran, has been appointed chief of police of Bristol to succeed Thomas Dwyer, who had been chief for 21 years and who has resigned.

BARBERS OUT FOR MORE PAY—NEXT!

We want more money! Since more the election city is being sounded in Lowell and this time the men in white coats who cut hair and wield the razor—officially known as the Barbers' union, Local 320—are on the transmitting end.

The local barbers feel that they are underpaid—that their wages have not advanced proportionately with the high cost of living. Accordingly, at the regular meeting of their union next Tuesday evening a sub-committee appointed to consider the wage situation and to draw up a new scale to be presented to the barber shop proprietors for consideration will make its report.

Its recommendations will be in substance as follows: That the wages of barbers employed in union shops in Lowell be advanced from the present scale, which provides a fixed wage of $20 per week with one-half of all receipts over $25, which the barber takes in, to a new scale providing for a fixed wage of $25 per week with half of all receipts over $33.

In discussing the situation this morning a local barber, who happens to be a member of the wage scale committee, said that the cost of living had affected the barbers as well as everybody else and they felt something should be done about the matter. He pointed out that the advent of the safety razor has reduced anywhere from 50 to 75 per cent the number of men who formerly were shaved at the barber shops, and this means a reduction of receipts. Barbers must depend mainly on haircuts for their percentage over and above their regular salary. It is also probable that some action will be taken at next Tuesday's meeting to secure a reduction in the number of hours which members of the local union are called upon to work each week. At the present time the union shops are open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. on Mondays; from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays; from 8 a. m. to 12 noon on Thursdays; and from 8 a. m. to 3.30 p. m. on Saturdays. The barbers hope to reduce the Saturday "grind" by at least half an hour and possibly bring about shorter hours on other days.

stated outside branch offices in various parts of London to house the bank's growing army of clerks and newly created departments.

Established in 1691, the Bank of England is the oldest national bank in Europe. Millions of people throughout the world know the outside of the low, black building which for more than two centuries has been the empire's financial centre. Its central part was erected in 1732-4 but the outer part, which one sees from adjacent streets, dates from 1785.

The present building spreads over 4 acres of what is perhaps the most valuable real estate in the world, in the heart of London's world training centre. At least once, in December, 1825, it saved the country from bankruptcy. During the Lord George Gordon riots of June, 1780 it withstood a two-days' attack by a mob which was driven off by soldiers stationed outside and clerks and bank officials who mounted the walls.

Since that date the bank has been guarded every night by a detachment of 36 soldiers who, commanded by an officer, march down from London tower and take up their positions on the walls at sundown.

A number of windows, which broke the blank solidity of the bank's outer walls, were closed with huge blocks of granite after the rioting, but their outline is traced by the remaining sills.

SEMI-EVENING DRESS OF NET AND TAFFETA

BY CORA MOORE
New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, June 11.—At the opening performance of a new play recently, this very attractive gown of black taffeta, net and jet was worn by a pretty blonde. The skirt was wired to a moderate bouffancy at the hips and enclosed a front panel composed of ruffles of black net two and a half inches wide set across. The shoulder lines as shown in the sketch, decorated along the edge with small ball buttons of cut jet were held up by straps of silver ribbon. Two rows of the jet buttons zoned to a ribbon band, served as a belt.

1 KILLED, 8 INJURED IN NEW YORK "L" CRASH

NEW YORK, June 11.—George E. Adams, motorman of a northbound Lexington avenue subway express, was killed and eight persons were injured yesterday when the express crashed into another Bronx train standing at the Freeman street station of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, which last Monday began celebration of "no accident week."

Ambulances and fire apparatus were rushed to the scene of the accident, which occurred on the elevated structure a short distance from the point where the subway comes to the surface. Ladders were raised and the injured removed from the wreckage with difficulty.

Herman Hannot, a waiter, with his left leg pinned down, made a brave effort to aid firemen in removing him but his pain was so great the doctors had to administer an anesthetic before he could be removed.

Officials of the road, after a preliminary investigation, said they were unable to account for the collision as signals were set against the express.

A screen of sparks and smoke billowed up when the two trains crashed and the first car of the Lexington avenue express telescoped the rear of the standing train a distance of 20 feet.

Adams was not instantly killed and the Rev. Hugh Cronin climbed over the wreckage and administered the last rites of the church before the motorman died.

ANNUAL LADIES' NIGHT

About 200 people were in attendance at the annual ladies' night held last evening in Highland hall under the auspices of Highland council, 270, R.A. The early part of the evening was taken up with an entertainment and later general dancing was enjoyed till a reasonable hour. Those who entertained with musical or literary numbers were Miss Janet Hersey, Pietro Mordella, Miss Jane Golding and Miss Lorman, all members of the Venetian Musical Co. of Boston, and Miss Louise Bonan of this city. The committee in charge of the event consisted of Richard Durkin, Fred E. Jones and Oscar Phinney.

BULGARIA DETERMINED TO STAND BY TREATY

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 11.—Bulgaria will keep the peace despite the loss under the treaty of her provinces of Dobruja and Thrace, Premier Alexander Stambouliysky has told the Associated Press correspondent.

America and the allies may be assured that we shall maintain order and quiet and bear our burdens and trials stoically," he said. "We will face the harsh sentence the peace conference has imposed upon us with courage and fortitude and rely upon internal reconstruction and persevering labor to gain what we have lost in the war. Bulgaria for the moment may be crushed, but she will rise again with new strength and be an example to the world of what patience, industry and national patriotism can accomplish."

The premier referred to Bulgaria's relations with Greece, Serbia and Rumania. "We desire, of course," he said,

"to live in harmony and good-will with our neighbors, but some of their territorial demands are so excessive that any cordial and enduring relationship seems well-nigh impossible. How can our friendship with Greece be permanent while Mr. Venizelos denies us the right of a seaport on the Aegean? And how can our friendly feeling toward Rumania be anything more than a selfish and transitory while she insists on holding the Southern Dobruja? With our other neighbor, Serbia, we desire to live on the most agreeable terms; but in the absence of a permanent government there we have not been able to take the necessary steps toward establishing the elements of future friendship."

M. Stambouliysky then discussed America's participation in the war and the peace negotiations and lamented the failure of the Peace Conference to apply President Wilson's 14 points. "It was Mr. Wilson's promise that we should gain by peace all that we were striving to gain by war that caused our soldiers to lay down their arms and to capitulate to the great powers. But what did the Peace Conference do? It trampled under foot all the high principles which your president had enunciated. And Bulgaria was thus completely misled."

"However, with all the tremendous burdens that have been imposed upon us by the allies," M. Stambouliysky concluded, "we have not lost hope. I look optimistically to the future. The world is in a process of regeneration and recreation. Mr. Wilson's principles which were flaunted by the allies are being taken up by the peoples of the earth, whether conquerors or conquered. Inevitably a popular movement will be created which will enforce a revision of the peace treaty. Even in the allied countries there is much dissatisfaction with it."

SUGAR PROFITEERS

FINED $35,000

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 11.—The Schon-Stevenson company, a wholesale grocery concern of Huntington, yesterday was fined $35,000 upon conviction of profiteering in sugar, in federal court here.

Judge Pritchard said he was imposing the heaviest fine the Lever law permitted.

He was treated at the Lowell Corporation hospital. The automobile that figured in the accident is owned and was being operated by Omer Deschateaux of 465 Moody street.

From Lakeview at about 10 o'clock the party hiked around to Willow Dale, where various races were held. $100,000 FOR AROUND THE WORLD AIR DERBY

BOSTON, June 11.—A first prize of $100,000 for the fastest time made in circling the globe by aircraft will be offered in the first aerial derby around the world, by Maj. Charles J. Glidden of the commission organizing the contest. Other prizes are expected to bring the total of awards to $1,000,000. The announcement was sent by Maj. Glidden from Ceylon, where the commission was stopping during April. Members of the board have since traveled through Europe to London, where at their suggestion the world's board of aeronautical commissioners is to be organized for promoting aerial navigation throughout the world. This world board will be composed of leading men from the colonies and countries. It is expected that all of these countries and colonies will be represented in the aerial derby, the dates for which appear to have been changed. Whereas originally it was intended to start the contest July 4 and continue it until Jan. 3, 1924, it is now announced that the derby will take place in 1921 and contestants will be allowed the entire year in which to make the flight. In its organizing journey the commission will have traveled 40,000 miles when it returns to New York. It has been instrumental in the appointment of many special commissioners for the derby, in the organization of foreign aero clubs and the establishment of aerial transportation lines. Its members predict that by the end of 1922 aerial service will have been established to all the principal and many of the remote parts of the world.

NO WONDER SHE SMILES

Mrs. Babe Ruth Says That King Swatter is Some "Home Boy"

N.E.A. Staff Special
NEW YORK, June 10.—This story is about the side of Babe Ruth's life you seldom hear mentioned.

But it's the side that comes first with Babe, nevertheless.

Every time Babe steps up to the plate there's a woman back in the grandstand who's pulling just a little harder than anybody in the park for another one "over the fence!"

You guessed it—Mrs. Babe.

Calls Him "Hon"
She calls Babe "Hon"—short for "Honey"—and Babe calls her "Hon" sort of a mutual agreement.

She is the wife of the man who is more talked of today than the president of the United States.

She has two big interests in life—to see Babe hit home runs and to provide over their home life.

She's so ardent a fan that she goes home after a game just as tired as Babe. But she and Babe are both "home folks" and their home life comes first, in spite of all the glory and the excitement and the success of Babe's 1920 performance.

She Wants to Cook
Hotels—Babe doesn't care for 'em.

He's strong for the home brand of living.

The Ruths want to get settled down

In some quiet little apartment home where Mrs. Babe can broil Mr. Babe's steaks, fry his potatoes and fix just the kind of fancy dishes she knows he likes best.

They are to take an apartment on Riverside Drive soon and settle right down to real old-fashioned housekeeping like they used to live before Ruth became a celebrity and was just a common every-day ball player.

Babe's a Homebody
"Babe's going on the road," says Mrs. Ruth, "and when he comes back I'll have a little place all fixed up for him. He certainly is a homebody if there ever was one."

"Of course, I realize that Babe's interests are divided just like any other man's must be. Half of his life is baseball and the other half is me."

"I go to every game at the Polo grounds and work just as hard as he does. Then, when it's over, we are both worn out and tired. It is going to be great when we get settled in a little home," she says.

Ruth's slugging example has not only converted the Huggins' crew into a gang of terrorists with the bludgeon, but has plunged the whole Ben Johnson orchard into a clouting "house."

More long-distance hits are being recorded this season than modern baseball is used to tasting. The only answer to it is that the home-run psychology, which has been introduced so potently by Ruth, is having its effect on all other players.

'Sweet' Letters Amuse Mrs. Babe
Like all idols of the public Ruth's mail has grown to be a regular feature service. Among the daily "income" are many "sweet notes" from admiring young girls. Babe and Mrs. Babe have lots of fun reading them.

OBSERVE FEAST OF THE SACRED HEART

A pretty ceremony in observance of the feast of the Sacred Heart was held at the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street this afternoon. It consisted of a procession through the spacious grounds of the home, followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at the grotto.

The procession was formed in the chapel of the orphanage at 3 o'clock and those who participated, the clergy, altar boys, children and sisters of the orphanage, marched through the grounds of the institution as far as the grotto, where benediction was held. Rev. Eugene Turcotte, O.M.I., pastor, officiating. During the procession and service appropriate hymns were sung by the children. The grounds were handsomely decorated for the occasion with the papal colors and red, white and blue bunting, while here and there long banners of the Sacred Heart. The altar at the grotto was beautifully decorated with flowers and incandescent lights.

LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL FRATERNITY BUYS HOUSE IN N.Y.

VERNON STREET

The property at 115 Mt. Vernon street, consisting of a 12-room house and 7175 square feet of land, was recently purchased by the Lowell Textile School fraternity. The building was formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. Salois, who occupied it as their residence. They have vacated the premises and it is expected that within a short time or after five or six rooms have been added to the house, the students of the school will occupy it. The property is assessed for $5000 and the land at $2150. It is understood the price paid for the property was $7500.

THE FIRST REAL TOUCH OF SUMMER

A high temperature record for 1920 was reached in Lowell today when a majority of downtown thermometers hung just a fraction under the 90 mark at 1 o'clock. Only a slight breeze stirred to temper the exceedingly hot and sultry air. It was the first real blast of summer and was generally welcomed as preferable to unseasonable chilliness and lowering skies.

JUVENILE COURT

There were no cases in the open police court today, but 13 minors appeared before Judge Enright in the juvenile session. Out of the entire number one boy received a direct sentence to the Lyman school, five were put on probation for one year with the agreement that they make restitution of $12 each. One of the two boys, who were charged with breaking and entering the bakery of Hart & Co. on Merrimack street two nights ago, was given a probationary sentence to the Lyman school while the other, on parole from that institution, had his case placed on file.

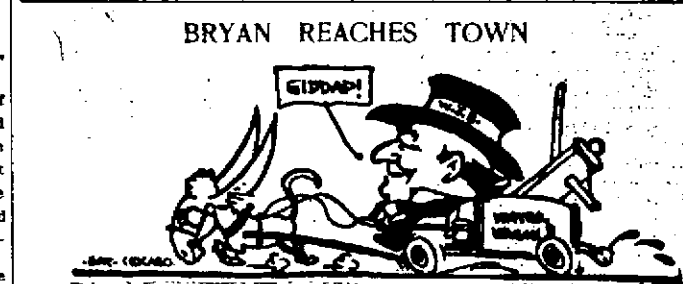

NO RECOUNT OF BOSTON CENSUS

BOSTON, June 11.—The federal census bureau at Washington is satisfied that no mistake has been made in tabulating the population of the city of Boston. In a letter to the chamber of commerce Director Samuel L. Rogers declared: "The bureau considers itself justified in the belief that the census of Boston was taken with a reasonable degree of accuracy and completeness."

He further writes that no recount will be ordered, although the bureau will correct any obvious errors that might be called to its attention. Mr. Rogers adds that his investigation shows few if any errors in the tabulation which gives Boston a population of 747,923.

VERMONT GOVERNOR TO CALL LEGISLATURE

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 11.—Gov. Percival W. Clement announced last night his willingness, under certain conditions, to call a special session of the Vermont legislature for the purpose of voting on ratification of the suffrage amendment. In a telegram to Alexander Bennett, chairman of the Vermont delegation to the republican national convention, he said he would take this action if the convention should adopt a plank embodying a suggestion made by the governor, which would favor a popular vote on all future amendments to the federal constitution.

The governor's telegram was sent in response to an appeal from Will H. Hays, republican national chairman; Gov. Sprout of Pennsylvania, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. and Mr. Dunnett that he call a special session. The telegram was as follows:

"Your telegram. Changes made in the federal constitution without being referred to the people of several states are a menace to state rights and free institutions. The resolution proposed by me will correct this and be immensely popular. If the republican party sees fit to adopt this resolution I should be justified in calling a special session and I will do so. Of course this resolution would not be retroactive and would in no way change what has been done."

FRISCO PREENING FOR BIG CONVENTION

(N.E.A. Staff Special)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—If you're going to be one of the 40,000 at the coming democratic national convention in this town the week of June 25th, there are certain things you ought to know. Charles W. Hays, postmaster of San Francisco and general head of the local reception committee, is trying to make the little party worthy of the occasion of the Pacific coast's first national convention in history, and he wants the east to know just what the west is doing to make the visitors comfy.

"Bring your light wraps and overcoats," is his only request. He'll attend to the rest. California summers about San Francisco bay are not the sweltering things they are in eastern cities. The bay breezes often make it very cool and the evenings far from balmy.

Don't fear the profiteering landlord, is his confident assurance. The hotel men's association is going to show the delegates what western hospitality means, and they have agreed on a one price program. This means that a room with a bath can be had for from $5 to $15 a day.

The railroads have arranged for a one-and-a-third fare from eastern points. For instance, the round trip from Chicago will be $55. There will also be excursions from here to other California points so that delegates and their families can combine the occasion with a sightseeing tour.

At three big hotels of San Francisco the activities of the week will center. The Palace will be the executive center, and much of the lobbying will go on in the big corridors of this hostelry. The celebrities will stay at the Fairmont and St. Francis.

There will be over 20 governors and at least seven members of the president's cabinet here. Bryan, who is sure to be the storm center of the week, will be at the St. Francis. So will Gov. Edwards, the "wet" candidate of New Jersey, Gov. Cox of Ohio, and Vice President Marshall. The 35 United States senators and 150 members of the lower house who are expected will be divided between these two hotels, while the state delegates will be scattered over the city in other hotels.

There will be 1093 delegates, of which about a fourth will be women.

The largest delegation will of course be New York's, of 96 delegates and alternates and over 200 members. Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona will have but three apiece. Porto Rico, Hawaii, District of Columbia, the Philippines and Alaska will each send three. Besides the delegates and their alternates, there will be 510 members of the press, whose comforts will be cared for by "Jim" Preston, who presides over the congressional press gallery at Washington.

The big meeting place of the convention is the Civic Auditorium, which holds 12,000 people. The Coliseum in Chicago and Madison Square garden in New York are said to be the only two larger halls in America. Seats for 5500 are being arranged on the ground floor and the rest will be seated in the galleries.

The convention is likely to last the entire week. Unlike the republicans, the democrats require two-thirds to nominate, or 735 votes. The republicans need only a majority out of their smaller representation of 492, or only 198 votes. It is doubtful whether the democrats will mean their candidate before July 3rd.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. James Mulligan and Miss Cecile Daignault were married Wednesday afternoon at St. Joseph's rectory, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Joseph A. Bolduc, O.M.I. The bride was attended by Miss Bertha Daignault, while the best man was Mr. Leo Cor. At the close of the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Hubert Daignault, 12 Common street and later the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to Boston and New York and upon their return they will make their home in this city.

In two months, this year, Greece exported more than 16,000,000 pounds of currants, nearly 2,000,000 pounds more than was exported during all of 1919.

Nominated By Gov. Allen

the great war. Old ways are lost and leadership, hesitant and indecisive, drifts upon an uncharted sea.

"Under the weak hands of a timorous government the social disorders and class minded isms caught from the world struggle have grown to alarming proportions.

Fortunate to Have Such a Man

"The unchecked encroachment of sinister greed, the appalling waste of public money, the immoral pandering to class interest and class prejudice have brought us to a point where the nation demands and the world expects from this great country a leader chosen out of the great need and not through the cunning of political expediency.

"In seeking for the initiative and the prophetic wisdom to guide us in an hour that must be wholly constructive we are fortunate in a candidate whose record reveals the qualities needed for the task.

"It is not necessary to ask for assurances from General Wood. There is the witness of his service.

Points to Record in Cuba

"You ask for a business man. We present to you a record of four years as governor of Cuba, a record which gained him international fame as the most successful civil administrator the country has known. Leonard Wood's services in Cuba constitute a page of history which records the clearest and most unselfish thing one nation ever did for a needy people. Chosen to work out the benevolent policy of McKinley toward the people of the island for whom we had sacrificed our sons, he was given a free hand.

"He reorganized the island and framed a model of government which stands today as proof of his sanity and constructive genius. His wisdom encompassed all the activities of the people. He touched with his vital interest its dead agriculture, developed its railways, taught the Cubans how to make just laws relating to everything from municipal administration to general taxation. He built American intelligence into a school system, reorganized the struggling forces of civil life into orderly government, made roads, introduced sanitation and hygiene, stamped out yellow fever and pernicious malaria and fashioned it all with humaneness and a stability that has withstood the strain of the changing years.

Work of a Statesman

"Possessing the highest degree of business capacity, it was something more than the work of a business man. It was the work of a statesman who had not narrowed his vision to the purely business life. It was the accomplishment of a great national organizer.

"A president must be a business man and more. He must be a statesman. He must have a broad view of the internal situation. He must know politics for politics is what gives us our government, be it good or bad. Government is not better than its politics and to improve the one you must improve the other.

"The vague longing for a business man for president will not be satisfied by one who knows only business. The president must understand world affairs and the crossing and recrossing currents of social and economic aspirations. It was the possession of this broad capacity that brought to Leonard Wood at the conclusion of his work in Cuba the commendation of the leaders of the period.

Wood's Great Foresight

"A president must be able to interpret the shadow of coming events. We do not need to speculate concerning Leonard Wood's foresight.

"When the great war broke upon the consciousness of the American people with a terrible shock, it found that Leonard Wood had been preparing. We heard from him no platitudes about a million men springing to arms overnight. On his own initiative he established the Plattsbury training camps; created the first line of the national defense and gave it to the thousands of magnificent young American men who volunteered a new definition of loyalty, a new opportunity for service, a new vision of their national obligation.

"We saw him accepting whatever task was given into his hands with the cheerful obedience of those who submerge self in service. In our state, where he trained many of our splendid young men, inspiring them with his spirit, fashioning them into the 89th Division, the people witnessed his work with such pride that when the governor of our state, my honored predecessor, made him by proclamation a citizen of Kansas, every other citizen applauded.

Best Known American

"We watched him go away to the point of embarkation and then at the last moment we read with consternation that his great desire to take his division to the field was not to be granted.

"This man was no whimperer. Not an hour was lost in sulking. Not a word was wasted in criticism. Not an instant spent in mourning over his personal disappointment. We see him coming back to train another division. 'If we can' he said, 'we'll make it even better than the one with which I had hoped to serve in France.'

"The American soldier is a citizen soldier. Leonard Wood holds fast to the traditions of the great citizen soldiers of the republic. A plain, blunt man, with blunt belief in facts, he is today the best known American. In the frank expression of his belief there is no hidden motive. No candidate for high office has ever gone to the people of this nation with soul and mind so frankly revealed as Leonard Wood.

Great Achievement at Gary

"No endeavor of his life presents a truer colors his calm and steady strength than the work at Gary. It was the old quarrel that took him there—the struggle between those who hire and those who toil, the only form of civil strife which government still allows to menace a helpless public. He carried to that district the guarantee of fair play. He had been advised not to go to Gary. He was told the situation was full of dynamite. He could have sent a subordinate, but he went in person and dominated the situation by the force of absolute justice. Not a shot was fired or a bayonet used. His calm decision at that hour not only brought security to Gary, but assurance and profound relief to the waiting country. The success of his sane and just endeavor brought back to men their faith in government.

"Again at Omaha, in the racial riots, in West Virginia, in the labor troubles, he visualized not military power, but the peculiar determination which should be always the American pledge to protect the rights of all by firm and righteous government.

Hospitable to Advice

"No man can know him without recognizing the liberality of his mind, his openness to conviction. As Root once said of him, 'He is hospitable to advice.'

"As president he will not seek to create for himself a neutral background out of mediocre men. The nation will have that to which the people are entitled in its councils—the united brain power of real leaders.

"The sum total of preferential expressions marks him as the outstanding candidate in the minds of the whole people.

"The choice that is made now may mould the character of the nation for 50 years and perhaps longer, for restive minds are plastic and the leadership that comes now will go far to determine the character of our government henceforth.

Wood "Man of the Hour"

"There isn't an American worthy to be here who does not believe in the future leadership of this country. We'll have that leadership when we are worthy, and that leadership will not depend upon any international society we may join. It will depend upon the success which we make of the experiment of human government.

The Choice of Hat Is Matter For Very Earnest Thought

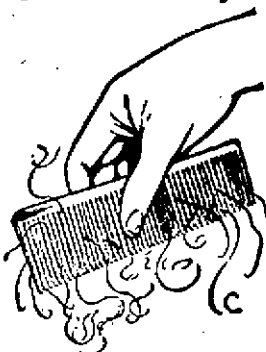

JANE COWL

BY CORA MOORE
New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, June 11.—To Jane Cowl, star of "Smilin' Through" at the Broadhurst theatre, spring and hats are synonymous.
Every woman anticipates with eager joy the acquisition of summer headgear—a hat or two, or maybe three, if she's reckless. But to Miss Cowl it means 20 or 40 millinery creations, for hats are her great obsession. They are the one extravagance she indulges in without reason.
"I do think," Miss Cowl confides, "that the looks of a hat is a matter for most earnest consideration. The line of it can bring nondescript features into a clear, definite profile, or vice versa; transform too pronounced features into a most becoming indefiniteness; the color of it can bring out or subdue complexion tints and brighten or detract from the beauty lights in eyes.

WALSH SOUNDS WARNING

Tells Elks U. S. Will Face
Revolution Unless Prices
Come Down

BOSTON, June 11.—The Massachusetts State Association of Elks' convention in Cambridge Wednesday and yesterday, closed last evening with a brilliant ball in the Elks' ballroom at Central square, Cambridge. More than 1200 attended.

More than 300 visiting delegates from up-state were the guests of the Cambridge board of trade at a luncheon, held in the board of trade headquarters, at which Senator David I. Walsh was the speaker.

Senator Walsh gave a solemn warning that the United States will face a revolution unless the government acts at once to prevent continued profiteering and high prices; that governments in Europe had been overthrown through the hatred of the people toward public officials who failed to keep their oaths, and that the rule would work here.

"President Wilson," said Senator Walsh, "could relieve the coal shortage facing the country in one hour by placing an embargo on the exportation of coal. But he hasn't done so and the coal supply of this country is on the auction block as a result of inaction."

"It is the duty of this country to take care of its own people and stop the exportation of coal. Our business men are making big money now, but in a short time they will be face to face with a serious situation."

In speaking of the newspaper paper shortage, Senator Walsh said every small paper in the country is facing ruin within the next six months, unless the government intervenes and such intervention, he said, is opposed by the business men of the country. "The only reason for this trouble," he said, "is the fact that this country came out of the war without a reconstruction policy, imagining that the country could resume peaceful operations where it left off in 1914."

"Instead we have gone from bad to worse. Executive departments and congress are spending too much time trying to settle the troubles of other people rather than our own."

Dr. Frederick L. Hayes, PER, Brookline lodge, was elected state president; Dr. Thomas Tierney, PER, Hudson lodge, John P. Brennan, ER, Cambridge lodge, Col. John H. Dunn, ER, Boston lodge, vice presidents; Jeremiah J. Hourin, Framingham lodge, secretary; Bernard E. Carlin, PDD, Lynn lodge, treasurer; Dr. William T. McFee of Haverhill lodge, Henry W. Clark of Melrose lodge and Henry C. Hoyt of Somerville lodge, trustees.

The women friends of visitors were taken on an automobile trip to points of historical interest in Cambridge, Arlington, Lexington, Waltham and Belmont.

MRS. CATT RESIGNS

Quits as President of Suffrage Alliance

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 11.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt resigned the presidency of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance at the session of that body held yesterday afternoon. She delivered a sympathetic speech, saying that though she felt like a mother to all after 15 years as president of the alliance her age and her diminished energies compelled her to relinquish the task, which, in her opinion, required a younger woman.

The delegates, on proposal of a British delegate, protested against Mrs. Catt's withdrawal and asked her to reconsider her judgment. Her decision however, appears to be final.

REACHES BUENOS AIRES

Arrival of U. S. Shipping Board Steamer Celebrated With Luncheon

BUENOS AIRES, June 10.—The arrival of the United States shipping board steamer Huron on June 4, after a voyage of 194 days from New York, was celebrated today with a luncheon aboard the vessel which was attended by representatives of the North American colony and prominent Argentinians.

The Huron, which is under allocation to the Munson line, beat the liner Vasaris' time for the trip from New York by five days. American Ambassador Frederic J. Stimson declared that now the North and South American passenger line had been established under the Stars and Stripes it was important to accentuate the advantage of travel in the United States in order that the ships of the line might carry a stream of South Americans to the United States to get acquainted with the country, where formerly they only went to Europe. The culture, scenery, art and music in the United States were equal to those of Europe, he asserted.

The Huron which is described as the finest merchant ship under the flag of the United States that ever entered Buenos Aires harbor, will sail for New York Saturday. The passengers will include Manuel Gendra, president-elect of Paraguay, who is going to Washington to bring back his family.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC TOMORROW

Members of the Sunday school class of the Immanuel Baptist church will go on their annual picnic outing tomorrow afternoon to Mulligan's grove in Wilmington. Special cars will leave the corner of Blossom and Gorham streets at 1 o'clock and will make the return from the grounds about 5 o'clock in the evening. Most of the Sunday school pupils have planned to go. Sports and games will be enjoyed. Supt. Harold R. Entwistle of the Sunday school will be assisted in the arrangements by an adult committee.

The same Sunday school students will assist in the special services in the Immanuel church on Sunday morning when the subject of the sermon will be "The Children's Day Message." The Bible school will assemble in the church at 10:30. In the evening the children will participate in the annual children's day concert.

The Sunday school class of the All Souls' church will leave Merrimack square tomorrow morning at 8:45 en route for Nabeset where it will spend the rest of the day.

STILL WAITING FOR THE INSPECTOR

The Inspector which United States District Attorney Herbert J. Hoynton was to have sent to Lowell several weeks ago to investigate the local sugar situation and to collect evidence relative to "combination sales" of sugar and other articles has not yet put in an appearance, according to Warren P. Riordan, secretary of the Lowell fair price committee, the organization which requested some action in the matter.

Numerous cases of merchants compelling customers to buy various articles in order to get a small quantity of sugar were brought to the attention of Mayor Thompson about a month ago and he immediately called the fair price committee into session. At its meeting the committee authorized Secretary Riordan to communicate with Mr. Hoynton and also asked that the general public report all such combination sales. Mr. Hoynton promised to send an inspector and a few cases of alleged combination sales were reported by the public, but there the matter has rested.

FOR CONTROL OF ALCOHOLISM

MONTREAL, June 10.—Agitation of the liquor question in Uruguay has resulted in a committee of the senate undertaking a study, with the minister of the interior, of two proposals for the control of alcoholism. One proposal would limit purchases of alcohol, while the other would prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of distilled liquors, allowing four years for their complete suppression.

Hottest Day of Convention

pick a man for the strength he would add to the ticket at a crucial point, so leaders generally were not inclined to attempt to cross the vice presidential bridge until they came to it and knew what river they wanted to cross.

Delegates Arrive Early
In spite of the sweltering temperature inside the convention hall, the delegates began to file into their places a full hour before today's session was to begin. All seemed anxious to have it over and the possibility that the nominations might be made today and the convention ended seemed to take some of the edge off their distress from the heat. It gave promise of being the hottest day of the convention in all respects. The sun got to work with a vigor exceeding even the feverish efforts of candidates' managers in their eleventh hour efforts to line up a winning combination.

Most of those on the convention floor and in the galleries came with fans and many of the delegates stripped off their coats before they took their seats. For the time being at least, the hot weather was the big feature in the convention picture.

Delay in Starting

At 9:30 o'clock, however, when the convention should have been called to order, there still were great patches of empty seats in the delegates' section, and the platform was almost empty. The crowd sent up an ever-growing rumble of conversation while it was waiting for the party leaders to get through with their conferences in their hotels, a mile away.

During the wait, the delegates still were wondering who would be nominated. The managers for all the candidates tried to outdo one another in confidence over the result. The Wood people were claiming a victory by the third or fourth ballot. The predictions of the others were less definite.

The Wood managers who had planned to have a string of second speeches for their candidate, revised their program at the last minute so that only Frank Knox, of New Hampshire, and Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York would second General Wood's nomination.

When 9:45 passed, the delegates' space was pretty well filled, but not a single one of the first line leaders had put in his appearance.

For the first time since the convention began, candidates for the presidency were missing from the floor. The friends of Senator Johnson said they did not expect their candidate to show himself in the Coliseum.

Delaware delegates said the plan to nominate T. Coleman Du Pont had been abandoned, but the delegation would vote for him on the first ballot.

DRY PLANK GOT LOST IN SHUFFLE

The plank does not mention prohibition, but is a "law and order" declaration for impartial enforcement of all laws.

HELD JOHNSON RALLY

Johnson Urge Delegates to Vote for Him

Lowell supporters of Senator Hiram Johnson endeavored to bring to bear such influence as possible in favor of the nomination of their candidate for the presidency by voting to send immediately by wire to the Massachusetts delegates at Chicago a strong endorsement of Johnson's candidacy at a meeting held in Carman's hall in the Luncheon building last evening. The delegates were urged to vote for Johnson for the country's and for the party's sake.

The meeting was highly enthusiastic and the qualifications of the California senator for the presidency were set forth in glowing language. Some of the speakers even went so far as to predict that Johnson would be the man to secure the largest number of votes at the November election regardless of whether he obtains the Chicago nomination.

Smith J. Adams called the meeting to order. He announced that the purpose of the gathering was to form a tremendous organization that should work for the election of Johnson in the fall. Charles H. Hobson was introduced as chairman of the evening.

Mr. Hobson made an address in which he recounted some of the outstanding features in the history of the republican party during the last ten years. He referred particularly to the steamroller methods that resulted in the party being snuffed under at the polls eight years ago. He said that if Theodore Roosevelt were alive the nomination would go to him without serious opposition today. Roosevelt, the speaker said, was the greatest American of his day, and Hiram Johnson is worthily following in his footsteps. He expressed the hope that Johnson would be nominated before many hours had elapsed.

Daniel Cosgrove told of the experiences of a friend who had campaigned with Johnson in 1912. He said that this friend found Johnson to be a plain, democratic man whose platform of "pure democracy" was good enough for the American people. America, the speaker continued, has prospered under its isolation for over 110 years and he saw no reason why it could not get along under that same isolation today. He said that he was glad to stand for a man who supported the principles of Washington, Monroe and Lincoln, and who would favor governments chosen by their own peoples, and would help Sinn Feiners to govern their own country. In conclusion, he said, that he could see no old-time Americanism in the acts of the present occupant of the presidential chair.

James O'Sullivan presented the senator Johnson. The motion to adopt the resolution was seconded by Daniel Cosgrove.

In his remarks advocating the adoption of the resolution, Mr. O'Sullivan said that he considered the meeting a timely one as the result of the convention at Chicago was still in doubt. "Place the convention of 60 years ago," when Abraham Lincoln was nominated, there has been no situation so serious as that which confronts us now. It is possible for the delegates making up this convention to make a mistake and it is possible for them not to make a mistake. They are there to give the American people the representation that they desire and that representation, in my belief, is Hiram W. Johnson, who will be our next president.

GIFTS For Graduates

We've made special preparations to provide you with appropriate gifts that will win appreciation from graduates.

For the girl—lastly, modest designs in rings, wrist watches, necklaces, pins or other vanities, or novelties. For the young man—watches, stick pins, fobs, cuff links, cigaret cases, belt buckles, gold knives, and pens or gold pencils.

Wood-Abbott Co.

135 CENTRAL STREET

There is no man in this meeting or in this state who has the best interests of the republican party at heart that wishes to see a split in the convention because we all want to get rid of the present dynasty, as Senator Lodge called it in his speech at Chicago. The people are looking to the Chicago convention to nominate the next president. To accomplish that is as simple as falling off a log—give the country Hiram W. Johnson and then go home and wait for the result when the ballots are counted."

Other speakers during the evening were William P. Cox, John P. McCoy and P. J. Mahoney.

HURLED TO HIS DEATH

Aviator Instantly Killed at
Revere—Parachute Jumper
Seriously Injured

BOSTON, June 11.—Thomas H. Haver, of 23 Maiden street, Everett, an experienced and capable airplane pilot, was almost instantly killed, and Henry A. (Daredevil) Smith, a parachute jumper, of Beacham avenue, Cliftondale, was seriously injured, when the Curtiss biplane which Haver was driving, in order that Smith might make a parachute jump, crashed to the Revere beach boulevard, near the West Lynn narrow gauge station, late yesterday afternoon.

Thousands See Fall

Haver was pronounced dead upon arrival at Lynn city hospital and Smith was immediately placed upon the danger list with a possible fracture of the skull and multiple injuries. Haver was a pilot and partner in the Johnson Aeroplane company in Lynn.

Smith had been engaged to make exhibition jumps during the season. The two men made a trial trip earlier in the afternoon and climbed to an altitude of about 1000 feet. Thousands of spectators were on hand to witness the jump. The plane circled in a slow glide with the engine throttled down, but they landed without making the jump.

Think He Lost Control

While Smith was adjusting the parachute paraphernalia Haver took three passengers for flights and the machine worked perfectly. Shortly after 6 o'clock Smith and Haver again went up for a parachute jump. They climbed steeply and at an altitude of 1200 feet the plane seemed to stall, hung for a second and then whirled into a nose spin.

After a drop of 300 or 400 feet Haver managed to straighten the plane. Almost immediately, however, the plane dove into another nose spin and crashed into the centre of the boulevard.

To spectators, several of whom were experienced aviators, it seemed as though the plane invariably started to dive when Smith started to climb out to make his jump, and that eventually the parachute became entangled with the control wires, and Haver lost all control of the machine.

Haver, seated in the front seat of the plane, crashed head first into the motor, and it was obvious he was mortally hurt when he was dragged out by Melvin Hodgson of Somerville, a licensed pilot. Smith, in the rear seat, did not suffer so badly, and at the Lynn hospital late last night hope was held out that he might recover.

Haver, who lived with his mother, Mrs. Sarah Haver, in Everett, joined the Tuffs Ambulance Unit when war was declared, but after six months overseas service with this outfit, was transferred to the air corps and served throughout the remainder of the war in the United States air service. He was one of the few non-college men who received aviation commissions. Smith has been parachute jumping for the past nine years, but for the most part from balloons, and was practically non-experienced in jumping from motor driven planes. He had been engaged to make exhibition jumps by the Johnson people this coming summer. Smith has thrilled thousands of people at Nantasket beach with his jumping from balloons, one of his most famous stunts at that resort being his leap from a burning balloon in the summer of 1916. Although he has figured in several mishaps, he has never before been seriously injured.

PUMP FOR WEST SIXTH STREET STATION

John Dayer, an erecting engineer of the Worthington Pump and Machinery corporation, has arrived in Lowell and was in conference with Commissioner John P. Salmon of the water department this morning, planning for the erection of the new 10-million gallon slow cross-compound pump at the West Sixth street pumping station.

Three cars containing sections of the new pump have arrived here from Buffalo, N. Y., and they will be transferred as soon as possible to the pumping station where the erection of the pump will be supervised by Mr. Dayer. The work is scheduled to last several months. Mr. Dayer has had extensive experience in the work, having supervised the erection of pumps in all parts of the country. He is accompanied by his wife.

FOR BRITISH GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

BIRD FOR BRITISH
MURFIELD, Scotland, June 11.—Robert A. Gardner, of Chicago, began his battle with Cyril Tolley of the Oxford university team for the British amateur golf championship today by taking an early lead, being two up on the fourth hole. Thirty-six holes will be played today.

Tolley squared the match at the turn, holding long putts on the 8th and 9th for two fine fours. The American took one stroke more in each case. Gardner was 1 up on the 15th hole, however, and two up at the end of the first round.

Last year, there were 351,495 sheep in Alberta, which produced 2,115,000 pounds of wool valued at $1,250,000. The proceeds.

WOMAN'S HAT IN POLITICS

Famous Artist Pictures Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns and Her Chic Chapeau

(By JANET FLANNER)

CHICAGO, June 11.—A few axioms, a potent personality, fine melancholy brown eyes and Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns. This combination heads the Woman's National committee for Gov. Lowden at the Chicago convention. The anxious are concise and match the look of intelligent effectiveness in the eyes. "The hat," Mrs. Dobyns admits, "is in politics. Not so much as yet in the ring where men's hats have been for years because altruism rather than office-holding is making women take part in politics now. But the hat,"

"I shall be happy to think on my birthday that I have helped make things easier for some little soul in far-off Serbia," Mrs. Wilson wrote to Mrs. Elkus. Michajlo is now in the association home at Quachak, Serbia. He lost his leg as a result of tuberculosis caused by neglect.

BERMUDA TO CELEBRATE TRICENTENARY

HAMILTON, Bermuda.—Bermuda, the oldest remaining British "plantation," is preparing to celebrate its tricentenary this autumn, for which purpose $2,900 have been appropriated. Since the Prince of Wales announced the other day that he meant to pay a call on his loyal subjects, they hit on the scheme of combining two festive occasions and having one grand affair on October 7 when the Renown, with the help to the throne aboard, is to cast anchor here.

It was August 1, 1620, that the Colonial parliament held its first sitting, but as the royal engagements cannot very well be altered, it was thought wise to set back the gala date. For nearly 300 years the business of governing this little outpost of the empire has gone on under the same forms without material change. It is but natural that the 20,000 inhabitants of this 20 square miles of coral rock should wish to honor their aged constitution.

Originally founded by a shipwrecked company under Sir George Somers, destined for Virginia in 1609, the islands have remained continuously under British rule.

Revenues are raised chiefly from tariff duties. No land taxes are levied by the colony. There is a very light tax on realty in the parishes and the proceeds are used for maintenance of the poor.

There are no divorce laws in Bermuda and only one breach-of-promise case was ever tried here. Most of the cases on the calendar involve bicycle stealing, assault, petty theft; there is little serious crime, though in a region where everyone rides a wheel the theft of a bicycle is regarded somewhat as horse stealing was in the west a few years ago.

There are old-timers here who have never set eyes on a train or a trolley car; but of late they have had the satisfaction of seeking flying-boats circling through the air. Innovations of any kind are apt to be looked on with some suspicion. The majority is conservative and that is

CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the first local open air boxing bout will be staged at Spaulding park, under the auspices of the Crescent A. A.

In arranging for the big event the management has secured a crowd that is attracting attention throughout New England, and with favorable weather, a record attendance is expected.

Phineas Lowell and Johnny Downes of South Boston are the pair signed to appear in the feature event and according to past performances, it would be difficult to secure a better pair of battlers. Both have ascended the pugilistic ladder with remarkable rapidity during the past few months. Both have met and defeated some of the best fighters in the east, and the winner of the bout will be regarded as the logical contender for the New England lightweight title, when the Brockton boy held the title and naturally claimed the championship. But Frankie Britt also claims the honor of having defeated some of the best here in Lowell last February, only to have the referee call it a draw. Since that time he has been unable to again get the referee to call a fight. Consequently whoever wins tomorrow afternoon's match, will be recognized by the fans as the rightful holder of the title.

Both Train Hard

According to all reports coming from Diamond City, L. J. Downes, who has been working out there in preparation for the Boyle bout, has never engaged in more earnest training. He has been working for weeks according to the dope he has boxed with Frankie Callahan. Joe Thomas and many others and he has also put in much time on the road.

Boyle had been doing light training for a month before signing up to meet Downes, but the moment his manager notified him that the match was on, he immediately got down to brass tacks and worked as never before to be at top form for the meeting. He has been up at 5 o'clock in the morning for a long time, and has been in the gym engaged in gym work. He has boxed with Young Nerney, Jack Leahy, and several others, and all reports from the gym say that Boyle is in the best shape of his career.

International Fame

In addition to landing on the top among the New England lightweights the winner of Saturday's encounter will have an opportunity to jump into the international ring. The winner has been promised a match, two weeks hence with Georges Papin, the lightweight champion of France, who is now in the city.

The assessments for tomorrow have been placed at one, two and three, plus the war tax.

Leahy Talks

Jack Leahy, manager and the man greatly responsible for Boyle's sensational "come back," announced this morning that he has no doubts as to the condition of his life and confident of victory. Leahy says that with road work, handball playing, and boxing with Young Nerney, Tommy Fain, and other good boys in the gym, he stated that Boyle would be at the required weight at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

To Name Referee

The managers of Boyle and Downes will get together this afternoon to decide on the referee to handle tomorrow's bout.

The Preliminaries

Frank Molins and Kid Mercher will meet on one round and number tomorrow and a pair of heavyweights, Indian Joe Betts of Montana and Eddie Randall will appear in the other. In six round bouts, Ed. O'Brien and Young McBride will perform.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Beacons would like a game with the best 19 or 20-year old teams in the city. Reply through this paper.

The Crystals will cross bats with the Oakleaves Sunday afternoon on the North common at 3 o'clock. The Crystals would like to play the Flyers a week from Sunday.

The K. of C. nine will go to Lawrence tomorrow to play the council team of that city. The trip will be made by automobile and all riders wishing to accompany the team are asked to meet at the local rooms at 2:30 o'clock.

The Abbot Worsted Co. team will line up against the Watton A. C. of Pineburg at Abbot park in Graniteville tomorrow afternoon. Game called at 3 o'clock.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE

Saunders' market defeated the Bon Marche team yesterday on the South common in Mercantile league game by the score of 8 to 1. Home runs smashes by Foudy, Corcoran and C. Donohoe featured the attack of the marketmen off J. Pace. The score: Bon Marche... 1 2 1 0 0 0 1—133. Saunders... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—1. C. Donohoe and T. Foudy; J. Pace and Rhodes.

VANITIE WINS FIFTH RACE OVER RESOLUTE

NEWPORT, R. I., June 11.—Vanitie's 54 seconds victory over Resolute yesterday increased perceptibly the interest in the sixth contest today which was planned to be another triangular affair. Several large yachts arrived in the harbor during the night and among the fleet which went out to the start today were the commodores of three of the oldest yacht clubs in the country, Commodore J. P. Morgan of the New York Yacht Club on the steam yacht Corsair; Commodore H. F. Sears of the Eastern Yacht Club on the schooner Constellation and Commodore C. H. Williams of the Boston Yacht Club on the power boat Hibbard V.

A light southwest wind was blowing with every indication of increasing, when the yachts made sail.

On getting out to the lightship, the commodore decided to send the yachts on another windward and leeward course, with the wind about southwest and blowing six miles an hour, but increasing. The Resolute won the honor at the start, Vanitie being over the line and having to return. The starting times seen from shore were: Resolute, 11:01:14; Vanitie, 11:01:54.

At 11:30 both yachts were standing for Narragansett with the Resolute about an eighth of a mile ahead.

PLAN GOOD RACES AT GOLDEN COVE

The Lowell Driving club plans to stage some pretty classy races at its Golden Cove park track July 5, and other blanks are now ready for the big meet. The program of races will include a 245 class, heat of mares, for purse of $200; a 220 class, trot or pace, purse $150, and a 230 trot, purse $150. The entries close June 21. For entry blanks address Secretary, Arnold J. Ryan, Postoffice Box 1010. The local club is now a member of the N.T.A. and the rules of that association will govern the meet July 5.

INFANT MORTALITY RATE

Lowell's infant mortality rate for the month of May as compared with the number of children born in that period was fairly low, according to figures which have just been compiled by Agent Francis J. O'Hare of the health department. There were 239 births during the month and of this number only 13 infants died.

PRESIDENT EBERT NOT TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

BERLIN, June 11.—The Lokal Anzeiger declares today it has learned from authoritative sources that President Ebert will not again present himself as a candidate for the presidency. The newspaper says his decision is the outcome of personal objections raised against him within his own party ranks, which he resents because his critics overlooked the fact that the president of the republic is required to serve the state and not party interests.

Coal Shortage Here

his trucks standing idle, one of the city's largest dealers today is marking time, hoping for the best, trying to beg or borrow at every possible opportunity and so far can see no silver lining to the cloud.

Local coal dealers are unanimous in saying that they cannot possibly see how Lowell is to get all the coal it needs for next winter and that there is absolutely no chance of a drop in price.

"Anthracite miners are not working," said a dealer today, "and will not begin to produce in adequate amounts until the government adjusts their scale of wages just as was done in the case of the bituminous miners."

Feeling that the situation in New England has grown so serious as to constitute a menace for the future and that the industry of Lowell will suffer irreparable loss next winter unless drastic action obviates an impending shortage, the Lowell chamber of commerce last night sent the following telegram to Hon. John Jacob Rogers, and copies of the same to Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and David I. Walsh:

June 10, 1920.

Hon. John Jacob Rogers, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir: Realizing the serious fuel situation which confronts New England unless relief is forthcoming, the Lowell chamber of commerce, through its board of directors, urge upon your representatives in congress the need of some immediate action. From information secured by the chamber, it is largely due to the exportation of coal and that this shortage which would be eliminated by a temporary embargo on shipments of coal to foreign countries. While we realize that no action can be taken by congress which would relieve the situation this season, we do believe that some action should be taken by the proper authorities which might alleviate the danger of not only the closing of many of our industries, but the actual suffering of our people during the coming winter.

Yours very truly,

GEORGE F. WELLS,

Manager, Lowell Chamber of Commerce.

While local dealers feel that exportation has some bearing on the present scarcity, they say, that insufficient production and a shortage of coal cars are two vitally poignant factors in the situation and until they are relieved the menace of a coal famine next winter will continue to grow.

The Jitney Situation which did not include at least some territory covered by the street cars.

Accordingly, the special act approved by the legislature on Dec. 23, 1919, which makes inoperative all licenses issued prior to May 1 has no direct bearing locally because the municipal council took it upon itself to wipe out the jitneys before the legislative act became effective.

The only possible loophole by which jitney operators may possibly institute contention is found in Section 7 of the act which says that any ordinance adopted prior to May 1 and not adopted in accordance with the provisions of the act shall be void and of no effect. The local ordinance was adopted prior to May 1, but inasmuch as it seeks the same end as the legislative act, namely, to abolish the privilege of operating jitneys except by new legislation, it is believed that it is consistent with the legislative act and thus will continue to be in effect indefinitely.

If, by any legal technicality, it is found that the local ordinance is inconsistent with the legislative act, it will automatically become ineffective, and jitney owners and operators will then have the right to petition the municipal council to adopt a new ordinance allowing jitneys to be operated in the city.

However, the general attitude of the council when it adopted the present ordinance was to abolish jitneys for an indefinite period.

About 100 families have been leaving Winnipic, Man., for the country, each week since the first of May, due to the house shortage.

BELIEVE BERGDOLL IN HILLS OF MARYLAND

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Grover C. Bergdall and Edwin R. Bergdall, brothers and wealthy draft dodgers are reported surrounded "in the hills of Maryland." This report is received at the federal building by the department of justice officials with credence.

Capture of the motor car fugitives is expected by the federal agents who said the information of the whereabouts of the Bergdalls was the most reliable yet received.

Several government agents sent to Maryland to catch the draft dodgers were in communication by telephone with the department of justice officers here yesterday and reported the Bergdolls in a motor car in Maryland, traveling in the general direction of Washington.

A cordon of federal agents and police is blocking all roads, say reports received here.

Federal agents were sent from this city last Friday on receipt of a "tip" the Bergdolls were in a motor car at Ocean City, Md., on Thursday. This claim failed but according to department of justice officials the Bergdolls were picked up in Pittsburgh where it was definitely established that Grover Bergdall, if not Edwin, also visited the city on Tuesday.

The theory was advanced at the federal building yesterday that the Bergdolls have been or are going after the reported $15,000 "pot of gold" which Grover said he buried in Maryland, and possibly are on their way to the national capital to surrender.

SUGAR BROKERS HELD IN PLOT TO BOOST PRICES

BOSTON, June 11.—Federal officers today arrested four sugar brokers here and two at Burlington, Vt., charging a conspiracy by which the price of a lot of 40,000 pounds of sugar was boosted from 19 to 27c a pound. The men arrested here, Israel Rotstein, Louis Koritz, Henry Keshner and Morris A. Levine, pleaded not guilty, and were held in $500 bail for hearings on June 16.

It is alleged that the conspiracy began with the purchase of the sugar by Harris P. Prindle of Burlington, for 19c a pound; that he shipped it to Israel Cohen, at Burlington, to be sold at a high price but, Cohen being unable to dispose of it at the profit sought, the sugar was supposedly sold to Rotstein and by him passed along until each of the brokers had handled it each marking up the price, until the lot was disposed of to Dunn & Co. of Canaan, N. Y., at 27c a pound. The government claims to have evidence that the brokers were paid $100 each for their assistance in the alleged conspiracy.

PASTOR AND FAMILY LIVE IN CHURCH

LAWRENCE, June 11.—Unable to locate a tenement, the Rev. Clement Crawley, his wife and three young sons are residing temporarily in the parlor of the Salem Street Primitive Methodist church at Osgood and Salem streets. The situation is unpleasant, but parishioners say that it is no fault of theirs that the new pastor and his family are without a home.

Mr. Crawley was recently elected to the pastorate of the church and arrived here last Friday from Boscobel, Wis., where he served for six years. Together with church workers, he scoured the city in an attempt to locate a house for his family, but they were unsuccessful. The family arrived last evening and the church was their only refuge. The morning meal was prepared in the executive chamber just off the reception room of the church. Other meals during the day were provided through the assistance of church workers.

Mr. Crawley is not discouraged by the unusual situation. The "church home" will be abandoned just as soon as a tenement can be obtained in the vicinity of the church.

A corps of 1600 employees has been recruited to handle the clothing in which has been utilized 450,000 yards of cloth, and 4,600,000 buttons. About 75,000 yards of wrapping paper has been provided.

Cheers Sweep Big Coliseum

recounted the achievements of his candidate.

Made Crack at Bryan

When the governor made a crack at William J. Bryan's celebrated dictum about a million men springing to arms overnight, he looked down at where Mr. Bryan was sitting in the press box. But the Nebraska had his nose to his manuscript, trying to write on industriously while a plump woman writer was showing through the narrow aisle behind his chair. If he heard the reference he did not let on.

Gov. Allen worked hard at his speech and the perspiration rolled down in cataracts over his quickly wilted laundry. While the speech was going on arrangements were made for Governor Lowden's nominating delegate to follow Gen. Wood's. Arkansas delegates who answered the roll said the state would yield to Illinois.

California, next in line, was to name Senator Johnson, disposing of the "big three."

At the concluding word of the nominating speech thousands of many colored turkey feathers which have been the convention badge of the Wood people, were loosed from the ceiling of the Coliseum and floated down over the cheering delegates.

The lights were turned on to give the photographers a chance while many of those on the floor mounted chairs and waved Wood banners.

Approximately 200 delegates, perhaps more or less, were taking part in the cheering and flag waving. Many of those on the floor yelled like real Indians and they looked like real Indians, with the hair of the women and the collars of the men decorated by the falling feathers.

California, next in line, was to name Senator Johnson, disposing of the "big three."

forces, was on the platform conferring with Frank Knox, his floor leader.

When the hour makers had been at it for half an hour, they still were going strong, and the chairman was making no further attempt to put on the lid.

A few minutes later, however, Senator Lodge renewed his pounding with the gavel, but all the good it did him was the gymnastic benefit of the exercise.

At 35 minutes, the first hush was attempted by the delegates and galleries themselves. The demonstration quieted down somewhat.

The delegates cheered when Senator Lodge, at the end of 40 minutes, said the delegates all were in their seats and that the galleries would be cleared unless they quieted down.

The announcement got the desired result and at once Senator Lodge presented Frank Knox of New Hampshire, to second Wood's nomination.

Mr. Knox, a former private of the Rough Riders, told the convention that New Hampshire, the general's native state, regarded him "not as a son of the state, but as a son of the whole nation."

It looked strange to many of the old timers to see women for the first time among the marchers. Changing their elegant, the circulating Wood people took up "We want Wood" as their marching cry.

"Wood, Wood, Wood"

In the gallery behind the platform a big group of men and women started yelling "Wood, Wood, Wood," in an endless rhythm, while some enthusiasts unmasked a noise maker that kept time to the yell and sounded like a big buckaw.

When the noise had lasted for 15 minutes Senator Lodge tried again to get order but the demonstrators only tried with a renewed outburst of noise.

At the end of 20 minutes, the delegates showed signs of quivering but the galleries kept up the din, cheer leaders standing in many of the sections and whooping it up every time there seemed any possibility the demonstration would end.

During the demonstration Frank Hitchcock, supreme chief of the Wood

Roosvelt's Sister for Wood

The speaker got a lot of cheers but not so much as did Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York, still in mourning for her brother, Col. Roosevelt, when she took the platform to second General Wood's nomination.

The first woman ever to perform that function in a national convention, she got a rising ovation when she was introduced by Senator Lodge.

Mrs. Robinson declared she wanted Leonard Wood for president, "not because he was my brother's friend, but because he is his type of man."

Judge Mack said wearing apparel was clearly a necessity, but that congress by its amendment of October 22, 1915, to the original Lever act, clearly had in mind the trade significance of what cloth meant. The court added that although it held that congress had power to regulate distribution of woollen cloth, it felt that since congress did not broaden the trade meaning of the term "wearing apparel" to include a bolt of cloth, the court was unable to find any meaning in the act other than the general trade use of the term.

American Woollen shares became active in the stock market on announcement that the indictments had been quashed. The stock showed an extreme gain of four points at noon.

Of fine legal mind and training, with both legislative and executive experience, he believes in re-establishing the powers and prerogatives of every branch of the federal government as set forth by the fathers in the constitution itself and he is unalterably opposed to executive usurpation of any legislative or judicial function.

We present him to you because his records demonstrate that he has a clear and comprehensive conception of the proper relations of capital and labor

SIR THOMAS LIPTON ARRIVES

NEW YORK, June 11.—Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of the Shamrock IV., which will try to lift the America's cup in the coming yachting classic, arrived here today on the steamship Celtic.

Sir Thomas said he was confident his vessel was the superior of either Vanitie or Resolute, her American rivals, and had no doubt he would carry the coveted trophy back to England with him.

Calls Lowden Second Lincoln

were stirred to the depths, when the horizon of the republic's future was darkened by the clouds of approaching conflict, when the very perpetuity of "government of the people, by the people, and for the people" was trembling in the balance, the nation turned for leadership to the state of Illinois. Here, on the broad and fertile prairies of this great state, so open that truth could find no hiding place, was found a man of the people, a leader of leaders, the apotheosis of freedom's holy light, our Lincoln, the world's Lincoln! Grandly, nobly, sublimely he met the test. Patiently and passionately, he pressed forward in the great task that lay before him and today he stands acclaimed as America's greatest contribution to the world's heritage of great and noble men.

Illinois, the state whose soil has been sanctified by the blood of the immortal Lovejoy, our first great martyr to the cause of free press and speech, gave Abraham Lincoln to the nation in 1860, and Illinois, the state that is still the well spring of republican hope and inspiration, stands ready in 1920 to consecrate to the service of the republic another of her great sons,—one whose brilliant record of public and private achievements is the very best and surest guarantee that under his leadership, our beloved country will be raised from the obliquity into which it has fallen and again placed on the road that leads to national honor and national glory.

We present him to you because we believe in his rugged Americanism, the Americanism that comes from the close contact with the plain people. Born of humble parentage in the state of Minnesota, his early youth and young manhood were spent on a farm in the state of Iowa. It was there, close to nature and nature's God, the great school of human to each other. His work as member of congress and as governor of a great industrial state, with all its complex and diversified interests, stamps him as the living embodiment of the doctrine of the "square deal." He believes in the interdependence of employer and employee and in all of his official acts he has accorded to each exactly the same measure of protection under the law. We present him to you because he typifies more than any one of the distinguished gentlemen who will be placed in nomination before this convention the great, vital issue of economy in the administration of public affairs. He believes in the application of sound and practically business principles to the conduct of government and as proof of that belief we point to the decreased tax rate and the increased administrative efficiency of the state over whose destinies he presides today.

We present him to you because he is in full accord with the true spirit of America which still prefers the nationalism of Theodore Roosevelt to the internationalism of Woodrow Wilson. He believes that the sovereignty of the United States must be kept free and inviolate from European influence or dictation and that, while maintaining a friendly attitude toward all nations, we owe it to those who have gone before and to those who are to follow us to enter into partnership with none.

We present him to you because to him the American flag, whose stars and stripes have been baptised in the best blood of American patriotism, symbolizes the strength and the power and the majesty of a mighty nation and he believes that the flag should command respect at home and abroad and give full and ample protection to the humblest American citizen, wherever it may be unfurlled to the breeze.

Delegates, a solemn responsibility rests upon the republican party today. Many difficult and perplexing problems, social and economic and industrial, growing out of the world war are pressing for solution. The best constructive ability of our great constructive party must be utilized in the solution of these problems. In the crucial and critical period upon which we have now entered the nation demands as its chief executive a man of clear brain and steady nerve, a man of vision but not a visionary, a man of ideas but not an idealist, a man of works and not of words.

Illinois has such a man.

We present him to you as our candidate for president.

We present the patriotic governor of a patriotic state, Frank Orren Lowden.

PLUMB MAKES CHARGES

Declares Managements of American Railroads Are "Dishonest"

MONTREAL, June 11.—Charges that managements of American railroads are "dishonest" were made today by Glenn Plumb of Washington, originator of the Plumb plan for public ownership of the railroads. In addressing the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, they cannot be otherwise, he said, under the present system in the United States which surrounds them with legislation.

The Plumb plan, the speaker asserted, was the solution of the problem as it would relieve the managements of railroads of the enormous temptation and give them an opportunity to be honest as they would be under the democratic control of the public.

DISCUSS COAL SHORTAGE

Home Rule Committee Members in Regular Session at City Hall

The street railway home rule committee at its regular meeting late yesterday afternoon voted to ask the two senators from Massachusetts to give their consideration to the present coal shortage confronting the country and which is daily proving more serious to the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co.

The committee also discussed the earnings of various local lines during the month of May, as shown in a report submitted by Manager Lees. The report indicated a decided increase in revenue on those lines on which one-man cars have been put in operation.

The meeting was called at 4:25. Chairman O'Rourke, Mr. Carney and Mrs. Burke were absent. Mr. Sullivan was appointed temporary chairman.

Manager Lees said that Chairman Loring of the trustees of the road had been in Lowell recently and said that the company was now paying over $14.50 a ton for coal that before the war cost $3.10. So serious had the situation become, he said, that the company's purchasing agent had been sent directly to the mines in an endeavor to get enough coal to continue operation.

At the present time the Lowell division is using about 34 tons of coal per day.

Speaking of one-man car service in Lowell, Manager Lees said that the use of this style of car on the Varnum-avenue-Christian Hill and Pawtucket-village-Oaklands routes had increased revenue $300 for the last two weeks of May in comparison with the first two weeks.

Mr. Lees replied to a complaint made by Mrs. Burke at a previous meeting relative to a passenger on the Varnum-avenue line being carried beyond her stop. The case had been investigated and it was found that the passenger in question had not attracted the attention of the conductor until she had passed her stop. The conductor had been in the service for many years and said that he had no intention of being discourteous.

A letter from the vice president of the road relative to the serious coal shortage confronting the road was read. Mr. Sullivan believed the committee should write to the Massachusetts senators at Washington asking that they give their consideration to the matter. Mr. Durfee made a motion to this effect and it was so voted.

The receipts for the month of May, approximately, and without the adjustments with other cities' lines, which may make a few hundred, more or less of difference, were presented by Supt. Lees as follows:

Moody-Anderson st., $1965.46; Highlands-Draught Centre, $1214.15; Broadway-High st., $2508.91; Moody st.-Hovery sq., $3053.25; Chelmsford Centre, $5729.32; Westford st., $3241.31; Lawrence st., $3779.19; Pawtucketville-Christian Hill (May 1 to 13, inclusive), $1526.59; Pawtucketville - Oaklands (May 15-31, inclusive), $1635.21; Varnum ave.-Oaklands (May 1-15, inclusive), $1491.48; Varnum ave.-Christian Hill (May 15-31, inclusive), $2154.53; Billerica Centre, $12555.64; Tyngsboro, $1159.48; Lowell-state line, $7908.62; Lowell-Reading, $5610.24; Lowell-Lawrence, $9337.44; Lowell-North Chelmsford, $12,657.35. The total of these amounts is $51,216.50, these being cash fares paid. In addition there was received from tickets the sum of $45,017.25, making a grand total of $126,951.05. No line is credited with the tickets, because sold on one line they are, in many instances used almost entirely on other lines. The holder of a ticket is entitled to ride on any, or all, lines. It is difficult, therefore, to credit any line with receipts from the sale of tickets.

Figures, obtained by a conductor of the company at the request of Mr. Sullivan, were presented to show the amount of traffic on the Gorham street line. At the last meeting of the committee Mr. Sullivan had asked for 75-minute service on the Gorham street

They used RED PILLS and testify to their value

Very grateful

Circumstances compelled me to start working at a very early age, so that at sixteen, I was so weak that I had to stop. In reading the newspapers, I learned of the excellent results obtained through the use of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women, and decided to try my luck. I took good care of myself and used RED PILLS for two years, and soon recovered my strength. Indeed, I was then stronger than ever. To-day I am married and mother of seven children. I do all my own housework with ambition and courage, and am feeling fine in every way, thanks to RED PILLS, which I still take whenever I feel myself getting run-down.—Mrs. DIDACE LAJEUNESSE

64 Clinton St., North Side, Cohoes, N.Y.

Her only medicine

It is quite a while now since I started to take RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women, and I have always found them very satisfactory. I could do nothing without them. As soon as I stop taking them, I find that I cannot sleep regularly, I feel ill at ease, and excessively nervous. RED PILLS are the only remedy which can keep up my strength, for I am always overworked. Through seeing so many recommendations published in the papers, I got to know RED PILLS, and now, in turn, I consider it my duty to tell others what they have done for me. Trusting this may be the means of helping some other women who may be weak and suffering.

—Mrs. ESTHER POIRIER

Nervousness after "La Grippe"

I have been using RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women since last January, and am pleased to say that they have helped me wonderfully by strengthening me and by relieving me of the nervousness which had remained since I was taken ill with the Spanish Grippe last fall. I like RED PILLS so well that I intend to take them again, so as to keep myself constantly fit and in good health.—Miss ALICE DALY

Dizziness, headaches, palpitations

For over a year I had been suffering from general weakness, dizziness, headaches, palpitations, and was also coughing quite a bit. As may be imagined, I found it rather difficult to attend to my household duties in this state of health, so that all my family was suffering thereby. I was determined to do my utmost to get better, and so started taking RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women which helped me right away by toning up my system and by ridding me of the headaches and dizzy attacks which had been the cause of such worry to me. In fact, I am now feeling fine, thanks to their beneficial effects.

PUT HOME ROOF OVER EVERYBODY'S HEAD

BY EDWIN D. RIDER
(N.E.A. Staff Correspondent)

Real estate board members are agreed that a serious house shortage threatens the country, and they are convinced that little has been done within the past year to end the shortage. They make many suggestions, which, they think, will put roofs over homeless heads. Some of these—the most important—are:

Exemption of real estate mortgages from federal and state income taxes.

REALTORS THEY ARE

A few years ago when one thought of get-rich-quick boys inventing the term "real estate sharks" popped into mind.

And to down this slur, to lift the great run of real estate men out of the sphere of the "shark" the real estate dealers formed boards and a member of the board is called a "realtor." Yet it's perfectly legitimate word and you'll find it in Webster.

C. N. Chadbourn, Minneapolis, is given credit for getting the word accepted by real estate men. Four years ago while riding to his office one morning Chadbourn read in a paper an account of a St. Paul woman being defrauded out of $1500 by a "real estate man."

"I immediately called up the St. Paul real estate board and learned that the man was not a member of the St. Paul board," says Chadbourn. "Yet every member of the board was hurt by the act. I decided what we needed was some way to distinguish between a bona fide member of a real estate board and a charlatan."

From this Chadbourn struck upon the word "realtor" and it was accepted at the next national convention at New Orleans. It's pronounced "real-tor."

Building materials should be placed next to food and fuel in railroad priority by interstate commerce commission.

Loading of money by large financial institutions, such as life insurance companies, upon long terms for home building.

Back to the farm.

Keep hands off the rent question, for decreasing rentals by law stuns investment in building of renting properties.

Community house building companies.

Co-operative house building associations.

Building materials on installment plan.

Realtors believe capital is being attracted from house building because other industries offer larger returns. This they would overcome by removing income taxes from real estate mortgages, which they insist, would make it easier for the home builder to borrow money.

Freight congestion has caused a serious hold-up of building materials, and this realtors would get around by placing these materials upon a preferred standing.

Some real estate men pointed to the growing number of deserted farm houses, and dwellings in rural towns, vacated by men drawn to large cities by big wages. This, they said, reduced food production while it aggravated the city housing problem.

The convention took a firm stand against two housing solutions:

The congressional program of federal urban banks, patterned after the farm loan banks, which would furnish home building money upon long terms at low interest rates to city people, and the plan advanced in congress by Representative Nolan of California, who would take large land holdings so heavily that the owners would be forced to sell them. This, Nolan insists, would make it possible for prospective home builders to purchase land more cheaply and thus would reduce the initial cost of building a dwelling.

Real estate men believe the campaign to lower rents and to bring about legislative restrictions on leases and rentals will have a harmful effect upon home building. They declare that lowering rents will stop building except by those who desire to live in the dwelling erected; that it will keep capital out of the building industry, because as they point out, capital isn't going into building in a low rent era when it can make considerable more in other industries.

Major W. C. Piper of Detroit, former president of the national board, told of his co-operative scheme, tried in Detroit, where workers pooled their labor after hours and built homes on the co-operative plan.

"If a man can buy an automobile or a piano, or a suit of clothes on the installment plan, why shouldn't he buy material for his home on the same plan?" Piper asked.

MISS FLANAGAN WAS GUEST OF HONOR

Miss Mary Flanagan, a member of the 101st Ladies' Auxiliary, was the guest of honor at a surprise party given by members of the organization at their rooms last evening in honor of her coming marriage to Frank Merrill, former bugler of Co. M and son of Mrs. William H. Merrill, president of the auxiliary.

The affair followed a regular meeting of the auxiliary. At the close of the meeting Miss Flanagan was ushered into a darkened ante room where the other members of the auxiliary had assembled. Lights were flashed on and there appeared a beautifully decorated table on which there rested a valuable traveling bag. Miss Mollie O'Sullivan presented the bag and a purse of silver to Miss Flanagan on behalf of those present and extended the best wishes of the members of the organization. Later in the evening an enjoyable program of entertainment was carried out with Miss Margaret Flanagan and Miss Josephine Murphy acting as accompanists.

Those in charge of the affair were Mrs. George Underwood, Mrs. Winifred Burke, Mrs. John Hanley and Mrs. Michael Ready.

sickness, was asserted by Rev. Andrew J. Graham, a member of the board of trustees of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, in a lecture delivered under the auspices of the local church of the denomination last evening in Colonial hall. The speaker gave as the reason that Christian Scientists die in a physical sense that diseases have to be overcome one at a time and that the last step in the process will be the overcoming of death which, he said, is the supreme culmination of error of which there is the greatest dread. "When in the course of time," the speaker claimed, "Christ's truth is sufficiently known, even death will become a thing of the past."

IT WAS A GOOD CIRCUS

Sells-Floto Show One of the Best Ever Seen in Lowell

Giving a big show that easily ranked with the best circus performance ever staged in this city, the Sells-Floto extravaganza entertained thousands of people on the old fair grounds last in Gorkam street yesterday afternoon and evening.

Perhaps the comfortable weather had a lot to do with the feeling of satisfaction voiced on every side at the conclusion of each show, but more than that, the actual merit of the performances stood head and shoulders above any other contributing incident to a complete success.

The "big top" was not quite as high, or quite as wide as some raised by other circus combinations, but it was adequate in every way and acts of only the highest grade were shown in the three rings and on the central platform. The wide variety of animals in the menagerie tent were perfectly groomed and made up a splendid looking lot of contented beasts. The elephants might have been given more chain to allow them to come a little nearer the ropes and make pean- nut-tossing less of a matter of base-ball skill, but the zoo management undoubtedly had its good reasons for limiting the length of grazing chain and it is not for the layman to criticize.

Long before the circus arrived in town one specialty act was advertised prominently above all others—the Riding Hanneford Family—and for out and out excellence and equestrian ability, it was one of the most brilliant exhibitions of riding skill ever seen in Lowell. Long after the act finished the crowd applauded, which, in itself, is unusual, for in the main circus crowds are content to let their interest hop here and there without any particular amount of concentration on any one specialty. The Hannefords were wonderful and deserved rested.

All through the program the three rings were occupied by artists of unusual ability and running a long and varied gamut of exhibitions of skill and nerve. The light and slack wire work of LaBelle Victoria and Myrtle Beeson was particularly good, while there was some fine aerial work by the Codona family. The prancing and posing horses and ponies of Mme. Cottrell Powell were notable and beautiful to look upon and it hardly required the admonishment of the announcer—"Let all eyes be upon them"—to keep these splendid animals in the spotlight.

Never, within memory, have elephants performed so smoothly and cleverly as did a troupe of five directed by Henry Boucher and Blanche Wells. The latter did most of the trick work and as a finale perched herself on the head of one of the largest of the quintet while he marched down the tent on his two hind legs. World distinction is claimed for him because of this feat.

But, in the midst of all this pleasure and contentment, there was a discordant note, which twanged so loudly at times as to actually threaten the existence of more than one happy home. Much has been said of vampires during the past few fazed-up years, but none ever worked so cunningly as a heavily veiled young lady who paraded up and down before the reserved seat sections prior to the opening of the show. A pair of questioning eyes shone out from beneath the broad brim of a black picture hat and they were home-wreckers and no mistake. Young and old fell for her, while real wives and sweethearts tugged at the arms of susceptible males and endeavored to drag them beyond the mystic spell. The siren on the rock of Lorelei never wrecked 'em any faster than did this creature. Yes, she, or rather he, for it was Freddie Biggs, was a circus attaché, but few there were who realized it before being tricked into tying an unlaced shoe or attempting to revive her from a fainting spell.

Two boys in khaki provided the most fun for the audience last night when they actually picked "her" up in their arms and hurried toward fresh air as "she" pulled the most realistic faint imaginable.

It was new stuff, put over to perfection and just one of many features that characterized an exceptionally good circus.

G. O. P. PLATFORM FLAYS LEAGUE

Says Wilson's Covenant
Has Signally Failed

Promises to Restore Peace
Time Laws—Chief Points
of Platform

The plank of the platform adopted by the republican convention at Chicago, dealing with the League of Nations, occurring in the general section on foreign relations, reads as follows:

Foreign Relations

The foreign policy of the administration has been founded upon no principle and directed by no definite conception of our nation's rights and obligations. It has been humiliating to America and irritating to other nations, with the result that after a period of unexampled sacrifice, our motives are suspected, our moral influence impaired and our government stands discredited and friendless among the nations of the world.

We favor a liberal and generous foreign policy founded upon definite moral and political principles, characterized by a clear understanding of and firm adherence to our own rights and unflinching respect for the rights of others. We should afford full and adequate protection to the life, liberty and property and all international rights of every American citizen and should require a proper respect for the American flag; but we should be equally careful to manifest a just regard of other nations.

A scrupulous observance of our international engagements when lawfully assumed is essential to our own honor and self-respect and the respect of other nations. Subject to a due regard for our international obligations, we should leave our country free to develop its civilization along the line most conducive to the happiness and welfare of the people and to cast its influence on the side of justice and right should occasion require.

Mandate for Armenia

We condemn President Wilson for asking congress in request to empower him to accept a mandate for Armenia. The acceptance of such mandate would throw the United States into the very maelstrom of European quarrels. According to the estimate of the Harbord commission, organized by authority of President Wilson, we would be called upon to send 50,000 American boys to police Armenia and to expend $275,000,000 in the first year and $750,000,000 in five years.

This estimate is made upon the basis that we would have only roving bands to fight, but in case of a serious trouble with the Turks or with Russia, a force exceeding 200,000 would be necessary.

No Mandate in Europe or Asia

We deeply sympathize with the people of Armenia and stand ready to help them in all proper ways, but the republican party will oppose now and hereafter the acceptance of a mandate for any country in Europe or Asia.

The republican party stands for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world. We believe that such an international association must be based upon international justice, and must provide methods which shall maintain the rule of public right by development of law and the decision of impartial courts, and which shall secure instant and general international conference

CHIEF POINTS IN PLATFORM

The chief points in the republican platform, adopted yesterday, follow:

The treaty plank finally adopted declares for a League of Nations to "preserve the peace of the world," but says, the Wilson covenant signally failed to accomplish this purpose. It says the covenant repudiated the policy of Washington, Jefferson and Monroe and that the senators performed their duty faithfully in rejecting it.

The industrial relations plank recognizes the justice of collective bargaining, advocates government initiative to prevent strikes and lockouts and denies the right to "strike against the government." In private industries the principle of compulsory arbitration is not favored, but tribunals for conciliation and mediation are favored.

Platform declares for adequate farm representation among government officials and commissions, for co-operation in marketing farm products, against unnecessary price fixing, and for such use of the farm loan act as would facilitate the acquisition of ownership of farm lands.

The Mexican plank declares the policy of the administration ineffective and pledges the republican party to "a consistent, firm and effective policy that shall enforce respect for the American flag and protect the rights of American citizens."

A republican congress reduced the administration estimates for 1920 almost $3,000,000,000. Greater economies could have been effected had it not been for the stubborn refusal of the administration to co-operate with congress in an economy program.

The president clings tenaciously to his autocratic wartime powers. His veto of the resolution declaring peace and his refusal to sign the bill repealing wartime legislation deserve the severest condemnation.

Had not our associates protected us on both land and sea during the first 12 months of our participation in the war and furnished us to the very day of the armistice with munitions, planes and artillery, our unpreparedness would have been punished with disaster. It directly resulted in unnecessary losses to our troops.

Eighteen months after the armistice, with its wartime powers unabridged, its wartime departments undischarged, its wartime army of peace holders still mobilized, the administration continues to flounder helplessly.

Mandate for Armenia is condemned.

Prime cause of high cost of living is declared to be depreciation in the dollar due to "gross expansion of our currency and credit, reduced production and swollen profits."

Simplified form of income return advocated.

No definite pledge on soldiers' bonus but stands on party's generous policy of past.

Urges prompt ratification of surfrage amendment by states which have not already done so.

Irish plank dropped, fearing offense to British relations.

Whenever peace shall be threatened by political action, so that the nations pledged to do and insist upon what is just and fair may exercise their influence and power for the prevention of war.

We believe that all this can be done without the compromise of national independence, without depriving the people of the United States in advance of the right to determine for themselves what is just and fair, when the occasion arises and without involving them as participants and not as peace-makers in a multitude of quarrels, the merits of which they are unable to judge.

"Covenant Intolerable"

The covenant, signed by the president at Paris, failed signally to accomplish this purpose, and contained stipulations not only intolerable for an independent people, but certain to produce the injustice, hostility and controversy among nations which it proposed to prevent.

That covenant repudiated to a degree wholly unnecessary and unjustifiable, the time honored policy in favor of peace declared by Washington and Jefferson and Monroe and pursued by all American administrators for more than a century, and it ignored the universal sentiment of America for generations past in favor of international law and arbitration and it rested the hope of the future upon mere expediency and negotiation.

The unfortunate insistence of the president upon having his own way without any change, and without any regard to the opinion of the majority of the senate, which shares with him in the treaty making power, and the president's demand that the treaty should be ratified without any modification, created a situation in which senators were required to vote upon their conscience and their oaths according to their judgment upon the treaty as it was presented, or submit to the commands of a dictator in a matter where the authority under the constitution was theirs, and not his.

Approves Senators' Stand

The senators performed their duty faithfully. We approve their conduct and honor, their courage and fidelity, and we pledge the coming republican administration to such agreement with the other nations of the world as shall meet the full duty of America to civilization and humanity in accordance with American ideals and without surrendering the right of the American people to exercise its judgment and its power in favor of justice and peace.

Pointing to its history and relying upon its fundamental principles, we declare that the republican party has the generous courage and constructive ability to end executive usurpation and restore constitutional government; to fulfill our world obligations without sacrificing our national independence; to raise the national standard of education, health and general welfare; to re-establish a peace time administration and to substitute economy and efficiency for extravagance and chaos; to restore and maintain the national credit; to reform unequal and burdensome taxes; to free business from arbitrary and unnecessary official control; to suppress dishonesty without denial of justice; to repeal the arrogant challenge of any class; and to maintain a government of all the people as contrasted with government for some of the people, and finally, to allay unrest, suspicion and strife, and to secure the co-operation and unity of all citizens in the solution of the complex problems of the day, to the end that our country, happy and prosperous, proud of its past, sure of itself and its institutions, may look forward with confidence to the future.

The United States has only 6 per cent of the world's population and 7 per cent of the world's land.

DISCOVER KOREAN PLOT OF ASSASSINATION

HONOLULU, June 10.—The Japanese secret service has discovered a plot by Koreans against the lives of Prince Li of Korea and Princess Masako, who recently were married, and Baron Sato, according to a Tokyo cablegram to the Nippon Jiji.

The alleged plot which included the bombing of the foreign and interior offices and the Tokyo police bureau, was intended as a protest against the marriage the despatch stated. Two Japanese believed to have been implicated have been arrested.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX REGULATIONS

BOSTON, June 11.—More than $5,000,000 has been paid on the second installment of federal income taxes due at the office of Internal Revenue Collector John J. Mitchell on or before the close of business, 5 p. m. June 15, but of this amount at least $300,000 has been received from about 6000 taxpayers who sent their remittances without the bills which were mailed to them last week.

Payments on 200 different classes of tax are being received at the internal revenue office daily and when remittances are received without the bills it is necessary to go through thousands of records before the payment is properly identified and a new bill prepared. Persons who call at the office to make payments without their bills cause the same delay and duplication of accounts.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

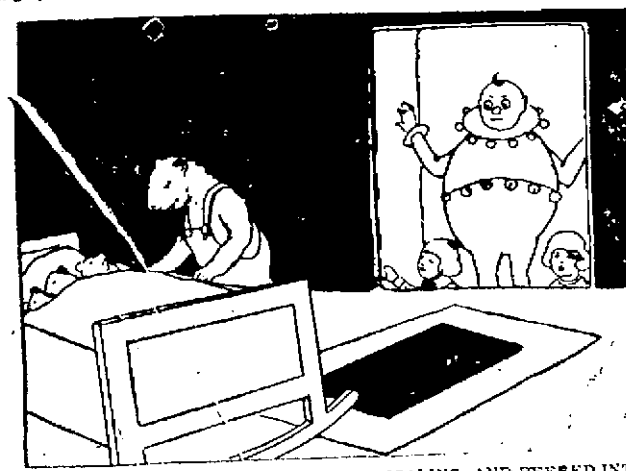

THE SURPRISE

"Wee, wee, wee!" cried Mrs. Woodchuck's children, and Tingaling and the twins (who were about the rush outside to capture Wally Woodchuck) stopped in amazement.

"Are you sure these are your children?" asked Tingaling.

"Sure!" answered Mrs. Woodchuck indignantly. "Do you think I'd go to the trouble of bringing up my neighbors' Wee-wee to do to feed ourselves?"

"No doubt that's true," said Tingaling quickly. "In fact, I may as well

SO UP TROOPED THE TWINS AND TINGALING, AND PEERED INTO THE BEDROOM.

Tell you, Mrs. Woodchuck, that my little friends and I heard only today that your husband Wally had put out the children to shift for themselves, as he wished all the food for himself!"

"You can go upstairs, and see then," answered Mrs. Woodchuck tartly. "If all four children aren't safe and sound in bed, I'll stew my new spring hat for dinner, and I like it pretty well, being the most becoming one I ever owned."

So up they trooped, all of them, and peered into the bedroom. But they were

He pretended not to see the people crowding into the room, and seemed awfully surprised when the fairmanlandlord shook his bells and said "Ahem!" quite loudly.

"Why, I declare!" pawned Wally. "Did you get tired waiting for the sassafras for your tea, folks? I heard the children fussing, so I came upstairs. I was nearly asleep myself."

Tingaling looked stern. He knew Wally was not telling the truth.

MARCH TO BECOME MAJOR GENERAL

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff, will become major general June 30, when the Army reorganization becomes a law. Every other regular army officer holding emergency rank will be in the same boat.

A provision of the bill makes it mandatory upon the secretary of war to honorably discharge all officers of the regular army from their emergency rank on that date. Consequently Gen. March's head will drop into the basket along with those of all other regular officers still enjoying advanced emergency rank.

In fact, the provision was especially designed to reach the chief of staff, who antagonized various senators and representatives by insisting during the war that military efficiency was the prime requisite.

If a senator or representative wanted any favors shown a friend he must demonstrate that the individual concerned was militarily fit, or suffer a cold turndown at the hands of the chief of staff.

The only chance that Gen. March will in future enjoy higher rank than that of major general is that Congress will pass a pending bill authorizing the appointment of three lieutenant generals. If this legislation is passed Gen. March, Bullard and Liggett undoubtedly will be given appointments at the high grade.

Lieut. Gen. Bullard, commanding the eastern department, will be Maj. Gen. Bullard after June 30, and the same will be true of Lieut. Gen. Liggett, commanding the western department.

Can't Beat "Tiz" When Feet Hurt

"Tiz" for Sore, Tired, Puffed-up, Aching, Calloused Feet or Corns

You can be happy-footed in a moment. Use "Tiz" and never suffer with tender, raw, burning, blistered, swollen, tired, smelly feet. "Tiz" and only "Tiz" takes the pain and soreness out of corns, callouses and bunions.

As soon as you put your feet in a "Tiz" bath, you just feel the happiness soaking in. How good your poor, old feet feel. They want to dance for joy. "Tiz" is grand. "Tiz" instantly draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause sore, inflamed, aching, sweaty, smelly feet.

Get a box of "Tiz" at any drug store or department store. Get instant foot relief. Laugh at foot sufferers who complain. Because your feet are never going to bother or make you limp any more.—Adv.

Such Pretty Waves and Curls—In Three Hours!

Have you tried liquid silmerine? If not, by all means do so. Within three hours you can have just the loveliest curls and waves! They will appear so perfectly natural and you will be surprised how long they will last. When the hair is combed out it will be beautifully fluffy.

Silmerine should be applied with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair. It may be used before retiring, if preferred. A few ounces of the liquid from your druggist will last many weeks. This will also be found to be a splendid dressing, keeping the hair soft and glossy. It is entirely harmless, of course, and is neither sticky nor greasy.—Adv.

ELIOT CHOSEN

Heads Committee on Plymouth Tercentenary

PLYMOUTH, June 11.—Charles W. Eliot, president (emeritus) of Harvard university, has been appointed chairman of the committee on education of the Plymouth tercentenary committee, which is planning the celebration to commemorate the landing of the Pilgrims in 1620.

Other members of the education committee as announced today are Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university; W. H. P. Faunce, president of Brown university; Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale university; David Starr Jordan, chancellor (emeritus) of Leland Stanford university; Henry Lefavour, president of Simmons college; Henry N. MacCracken, president of Vassar college; W. A. Neilson, president of Smith college; Ellen F. Pendleton, president of Wellesley college and Kenneth M. Sills, president of Bowdoin college.

Dandruff Soon Ruins the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

TO SELL LEVIATHAN
Bids to be Opened June 30—
Injunction Nullified by New
Marine Act

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Bids for the sale of the Leviathan, the largest ship in the American Merchant Marine, will be opened June 30 by the shipping board. The Leviathan, which was taken over from Germany at the outbreak of the war, was built in 1914 at Hamburg by Blohm and Boss and has a gross tonnage of 61,282. The vessel has accommodations for 285 first class passengers, 525 second class, 518 third class and 1600 stowage.
Announcing its decision to sell the giant liner the board stated that the injunction obtained by William Randolph Hearst prohibiting the sale of the former German passenger ships was nullified by the new merchant marine act which gives the board authority to dispose of its entire fleet. The ship will be sold "as is and where is." It was stated.
Forty-six vessels with an aggregate of 258,400 deadweight tons were constructed during May, according to the board's report yesterday, making a total of 2039 vessels of 11,357,603 deadweight tons constructed for the board.
During last April, the mills of the United States consumed 56,900,000 pounds of wool.

Teamster's Life Saved
Writes Letter That is Worth Reading Very Carefully

Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.: I was afflicted with a very severe sore on my leg for years. I am a teamster. I tried all medicines and ointments, but without success. I tried doctors, but they failed to cure me. I couldn't sleep for many nights from pain. Doctors said I could not live for more than two years. Finally Peterson's Ointment was recommended to me and by its use the sore was entirely healed. Thankfully yours, William Haase, West Park, Ohio, March 22, 1919, care P. O. Reitz, Box 128.
"Peterson says: 'I am proud of the above letter and have hundreds of others that tell of wonderful cures of Eczema, Piles and Skin Diseases.'"

LOAN OF $45,000,000 SEEKS HER STOLEN BABY

Additional Credit Extended to Germany by American Packing Firms

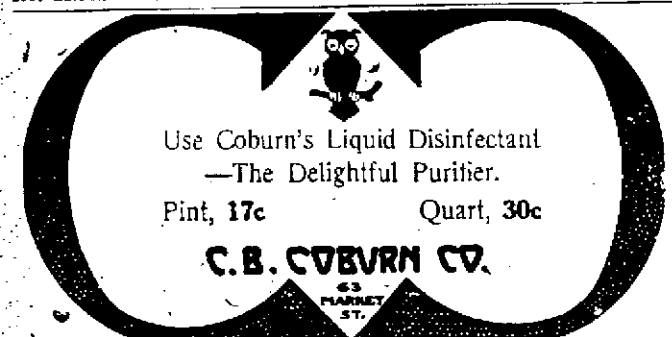

WASHINGTON, June 11.—An additional credit of $45,000,000 has been extended to the German government for the purchase of meats and other foodstuffs by large American packing firms, said a report received today by the department of commerce from the American commissioner at Berlin. This credit which is $10,000,000 more than that extended by the same firms last year will cover deliveries during the next 22 months.

The foodstuffs thus made available, together with the scheduled delivery of several hundred thousand tons of corn from Argentina, should greatly relieve Germany's food shortage, it was said.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

A special town meeting for the citizens of Chelmsford will be held this evening in the town hall, Centre village, at 8 o'clock and it is expected that various articles on the warrant will entail considerable discussion. Most of the articles have to do with school matters as a survey of the town schools was recently made by the school board and this evening the latter will make their report and offer suggestions. In order to explain thoroughly conditions in the town schools hearings were held this week in the North and Centre villages with Rev. Charles H. Ellis, chairman of the school board as the presiding officer. Interesting remarks pertaining to school conditions and the improvements needed were made by Chairman Ellis, Supl. Walter K. Putney and Dr. F. E. Varney, who in the course of their remarks explained that it was not their intention to advocate the expenditure of a large sum of money, and they stated it was up to the voters to decide which course should be adopted after giving consideration to the suggestions which the committee had made during the course of the survey.

A Wise Mother and a Good Dessert

"I wish I could find something for the children that they would like as well as cornstarch pudding or blanc munge," said Mrs. Matthews, as she and Mrs. Edmonds sat talking one afternoon. "They're such a nuisance to make, and one never knows whether they are going to turn out right."

"Why don't you make Pudding? That always turns out right," replied her friend.

"Pudding?" questioned Mrs. Matthews, with interest. "What is it? Another dessert that sometimes is a success, but generally isn't?"

"No, indeed," said Mrs. Edmonds emphatically. "Pudding is a perfectly wonderful dessert that always turns out right. You just add milk and sugar to it and boil for three minutes, and you know that when it has cooled you will have a nice, rich mold of delicious creamy dessert."

"It sounds wonderful," interrupted Mrs. Matthews.

"It is wonderful," replied Mrs. Edmonds. "You can get it in a number of flavors—chocolate, vanilla, orange, lemon—and you can use Pudding for all sorts of things. It makes the most luscious cake and pie fillings, and smooth, velvety ice cream."

"Is it expensive?" asked her friend.

"Oh, no, indeed. You can serve seven helpings from a 10c package or fifteen from a 15c package of Pudding. And then when I like about it is that I can let the children have as much as they want, because it is pure and wholesome."

"I certainly shall get some Pudding," said Mrs. Matthews. "I'm glad you told me about it."

A week later the two friends were talking together on the phone. "By the way," said Mrs. Matthews, "my whole family simply loves Pudding. I think they'd like to have it for every meal. I certainly am glad you told me about it."

THE STRAND

William Farnum in another of his vigorous roles in "The Adventurer," is pleasing large audiences at all performances at The Strand. It's one of the year's best films and may rightly be classed with the best creations of its kind shown recently. Madeline Travers in "The Iron Heart," is another commendable dramatic effort by one of the real favorites of the screen. Besides these there is a good comedy and an excellent Weekly. See it all at our new summer prices.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Clayton the Mystic, the only crystal gazing expert on the vaudeville stage, is a subject of much comment at the B. F. Keith theatre, where he is living daily demonstrations of his remarkable powers. His work is easily the smoothest ever seen here, and he is completely mystifying in what he does. He is the big feature of the week's bill, although there are several other specially good acts, including "Skeet" Gallagher and Irene Martin, who are giving a little comedy and dancing novelty. Bennee and Baird are also sure-fire comedy makers, who

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Have you views on the marriage question? Do you often wonder why couples who are as happy as possible before marriage gradually drift away from each other after the knot is tied? "Why Change Your Wife?" the production being presented at the Merrimack Square theatre all this week, is the result of the intense study of the matrimonial question by a man, Cecil B. de Mille and his picture brings out some very novel ideas on the subject. Influenced by beautiful women, beautiful costumes and beautiful settings, "Why Change Your Wife?" has elements enough to appeal to every class of theatregoers. A comedy, the interludes, songs and a travel picture round out the bill.

THE OWL THEATRE

If you like a picture that is out of the ordinary, if you like a picture that shows strange things as they are, if you like Griffith methods, and about everybody does that, then by all means, see "The Idol Dancer," now playing at the Owl theatre. For here is a picture worth seeing. Clarence Seymour as the dancer is a revelation. She is true to the type—half French, some Java blood in her, the dancing lore of centuries in her blood, she breathes the very spirit of Terpsichore in her wonderful dance between the two young men, one a beach-comber, a wreck of manhood, the other a lurid youth who later dies fighting the savages. "The picture's the thing," and the Owl has the picture this week.

All next week—a Curwood story, "The Courage of Marge O'Doone." Other critics say it's great. Very likely you'll agree.

Settlers from the United States have taken up 5000 acres of land in the Vauxhall district, Alberta.

A. F. OF L. CONVENTION

Administration Threatened by Progressive Element, Headed by Seattle Man

MONTREAL, June 11.—The administration of the conservative wing of the American Federation of Labor was threatened today by the progressive element. The progressives, headed by James Duncan, of Seattle, who yesterday overthrew two major reports of the organization committee, were prepared to again contest the Gompers forces for power.

The progressive element, including the Pacific coast delegates and those of the garment workers' organization planned today to fight for radical recommendations for the relief of the workers. They also seek the release of political prisoners, lifting of the Russian blockade, recognition of the Russian soviet government and a declaration against the League of Nations. They will, however, support the Irish resolutions.

Progressive leaders declared they would contest any mild recommendations that may be presented by the committee on the executive council's report that have to do with the high cost of living, profiteering and other economic problems.

WOMAN TO SPEAK FOR GOVERNOR COOLIDGE

CHICAGO, July 11.—Mrs. Alexander Carlisle Pfeiffer of Lexington, Mass., has been told by the leaders of the Coolidge boom to prepare her address seconding the nomination of the governor before the convention.

The decision to have her make the seconding speech came suddenly after prolonged consideration. It had been planned to place Governor Coolidge's name before the convention in a single, brief speech by Speaker Gillett. Mrs. Pfeiffer is a speaker of force and experience and it is felt that she will make an excellent impression on the assembly of delegates. One of those who has most strongly favored her appearance is former Senator Weeks.

MRS. CATT NAMED

Re-elected Despite Declaration of Retirement

GENEVA, June 11.—(By Associated Press).—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was unanimously re-elected, president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance at this morning's session of its congress here. She has agreed to accept the office, it was announced, despite her declaration in a speech yesterday that she felt compelled to retire.

Clothing Prices Busted

O'Brien's offers entire stock of spring Suits—including Stein Bloch's at Reduced Prices

Apparently, the clothing market is demoralized. Big merchants and manufacturers alike, with big stocks on their hands, and a lack of buyers, are trying to unload—to cash in. Hence the mark-down sales.

We're not overstocked, because we haven't gambled. Except for an occasional lull, caused by unfavorable weather, our business has been satisfactory. But we recognize conditions as they are, and offer our customers advantages equal, at least, to those offered by others.

So you can come here today or tomorrow, and for the balance of the season, and select any Spring Suit in our stock at a marked reduction from the first price. The fancy suits show reductions averaging about 15%—the staple blues, blacks and browns a flat 10%. These reductions are as liberal as is consistent with good business methods.

First and Only Woman Bank
President in the United States

MRS. F. J. RUNYON

"SOMEBODY SUGGESTED WE START A BANK AND WE DID"

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., June 10.—"I thing about banking. Then elected me as president."

Mrs. Runyon had posted a set of books for her husband, who is a physician, but knew nothing of finance. For two months before the bank was opened, she and the present cashier went to a neighboring town and studied in a small bank there, without stating their intentions.

All the bank stock, by agreement, is held by members of the directors' families, no one person being permitted to own over $200 worth. The women say they did this to keep any other bank from getting control of that institution.

The candidates, with instructed votes, follow:

For president, Everett True, 326; Gen. Humidity, 174; Santa Claus, 38; William Running Brook, 17; O. Gosh, 8; uninstructed, 131.

For vice president: Tom Duff, 234; Josh Wise, 235; Gen. Apathy, 42.

Latest figures obtained by the federal bureau of education show that between 300,000 and 400,000 children in the United States last year were without schooling.

SUCH IS LIFE IN A CAMPAIGN YEAR

BY O. B. JOYFUL

The delegation from the state of excitement got in this a. m., booming the Hon. Oscar Gosh for the presidency. They bore a banner upon which was inscribed:

The candidacy of William Running Brook has been re-mentioned.

Other candidates may come and go, but as the poet so aptly remarked, Brook runneth on forever.

It was to be expected that when W. Running Brook got into the race the wet-dry problem would bob up again.

A new scheme has been hatched. The militarists have gotten together and decided to run Gen. Apathy for the vice presidency if they win out on Gen. Humidity as the presidential candidate. If Apathy and Humidity are named the New Third party will select the bookworm as the party emblem.

Rural delegates arriving are saying by heck if a farmer doesn't land a place on the ticket they will start another third party and this turns the spotlight upon the Hon. Josh Wise as a likely candidate for vice president, which gets Mrs. Tom Duff all fussed up. She had the vice presidential nomination clinched for Mr. Duff yesterday. But when Mr. Wise got going Mrs. Duff called another meeting of the suits and the tide again turned Duffward.

The candidates, with instructed votes, follow:

For president, Everett True, 326; Gen. Humidity, 174; Santa Claus, 38; William Running Brook, 17; O. Gosh, 8; uninstructed, 131.

For vice president: Tom Duff, 234; Josh Wise, 235; Gen. Apathy, 42.

Latest figures obtained by the federal bureau of education show that between 300,000 and 400,000 children in the United States last year were without schooling.

AT THE CHELMSFORD STREET HOSPITAL

There are 51 less inmates at the Chelmsford Street hospital at the present time than there were at this time last year, according to Supt. Martin Conley. The present enrollment of the institution totals 232, while in 1919 at this time there were 313 inmates. In 1918 on the corresponding date there were 246.

Prohibition and the fact that a large number of the older inmates have died in the past year are given as reasons for the decrease by Supt. Conley.

The shortage of labor at the hospital has resulted in the necessity of hiring outside labor this year. The various crops are coming along in a satisfactory manner.

Nominating Speeches

First on the program came the nominating speeches. To get these swiftly out of the way, the convention met at 9 o'clock instead of 11, as on previous days. Further steps toward shortening the session and often some oratory were taken in connection with seconding speeches.

Under the rule adopted, each candidate may be seconded in two five-minute addresses. He may have as many seconders as he likes, but if he elects to have more than two, none of those who speak for him may talk more than two minutes.

Curb on Eulogists

Under this ruthless curb on eulogists the first ballot should be reached by mid-afternoon. Indications are that it will show the instructed strength of the major candidates lined up virtually solidly as the mandates the instructed delegations carry direct.

It will bring out, too, the full "favorite son" strength already discounted by the announced purpose of various delegations to thus compliment a man of their own state allegiance. It will formally enter a whole string of "dark horses" in the race, but the overshadowing interest in this first direct step toward the nomination lies in what it may disclose as to a current among the uninstructed toward one of the big three to supplement his instructed strength.

Trading and Dickerings

With the first ballot recorded and its half and quarter votes tabulated, workers for the various candidates will have material on which to work intelligently. On the next vote, favorite son strength will begin to disappear, the delegations, their duty of courtesy done, being free to join in the fight on candidates possible of nomination. Then will begin the round of quick floor conferences, the trading and dickerings that oils the wheels of a political convention toward the ultimate choice.

The second ballot is certain to show some changes, always providing that the wholly unexpected development of a nomination on the first ballot has not made further voting unnecessary. From the second on, step by step, strength of the leading candidates may be expected to wax or wane, until either a deadlock occurs or one of the trio emerges as master of the situation.

Dark Horse Movements

Dark horse movements spring out of deadlocks. Up to the time the convention assembled today, there was every indication that a triangular deadlock between Wood, Johnson and Lowden would be shown on the first counting of votes. For that reason, dark horse promoters had been busy through the night, planning and working in order to be prepared to attempt a coup when an opportunity came. Out of these activities and also of the vigorous maneuvering of leaders and lieutenants of the leading candidates came a new crop of reports over night.

Wood Claims Gains

Wood supporters affirmed that he would show strength in excess of 200 on the first ballot. Some placed it at 350 and it requires 493 to nominate. Previous Wood claims had not exceeded 250. The source of the expected additional 50 or 100 votes was not disclosed by the claimants.

Lowden supporters also were active. They asserted that they needed only the adherence of a strong eastern delegation to the Illinois governor's standard to put him over. It was an open secret that they were flirting with the big New York representation pledged to Nicholas Murray Butler at the outset and with some known Wood strength in its ranks, but with the ultimate action of the majority as yet undecided.

Johnson Forces Active

Johnson supporters were very active during the evening hours yesterday, treating the convention camp to a taste of old time methods in the way of bands and banners and stumpy oratory at the curb. What they were doing otherwise toward turbocharging rival booms without warning was not so clear.

They made no claims beyond asserting that the Californian would show a steadily growing strength as the balloting proceeded.

Dark horse activity was very deep beneath the surface. Workers for Governor Sprout of Pennsylvania, for Butler, and darkest of them all, Charles Evans Hughes, were reported as conferring and negotiating; but there was no outward evidence of their labors. One report had it that a group of men who hold important places in the party councils had expressed in preparation for putting Judge Hughes forward at the right moment with sufficient initial strength to give the movement a winning impetus. If so, they were careful to obliterate the traces of their operations.

There was a marked quiet among the avowed adherents of Herbert Hoover. In fact, doubt seemed to prevail that he would be placed in nomination at all, but plans of his supporters were not revealed.

Platform Unanimously Approved

Delegates were busy today with prescribers of the platform as it was adopted. The great majority had caught only its general drift when Senator Watson, chairman of the resolutions committee, presented the draft that was unanimously approved. Relief over the fact that an open rupture on the League of Nations issue had been averted and party harmony restored outweighed all other considerations at that time.

Undoubtedly the struggle on the League issue has had an effect on the candidacy of the chief aspirants to the nomination. It brought the party to the brink of disaster and the aftermath, the chips and shavings and discarded League planks left by the platform framers when they finished the job, has not all been swept up, but none of the candidates professed to be anything but elated by the result, radically differing as their views on the League question may be. There was no means of assessing the strength any of the chief trio may have gained or lost because of that outstanding clash of the convention.

Senator Lodge, chairman of the convention, did not expect that the presidential nominee would be selected in time to permit balloting on the vice presidency before Saturday. There are almost as many vice presidential booms as there are presidential candidates, but they have received only passing attention in convention circles at large thus far.

The question of naming a candidate for vice president is interwoven with the result of the presidential race. Political considerations, based on the part of the country from which the two candidates hail and the party's strength therein, always influences the vice presidential selection. As a rule it has been the custom of all parties to

Word has been received in this city to the effect that Rev. Bro. Chrysteil, of Montreal, who was the first director of St. Joseph's college in this city and Rev. Bro. Priscillius, of Quebec, who succeeded Rev. Bro. Chrysteil at the Lowell school, will leave next month for France.

The two brothers, who are natives of France, have not been abroad for a great many years and the voyage they are soon to undertake was planned three years ago, but the war prevented them from carrying out their plans.

It is understood that Rev. Bro. Priscillius will spend a couple of months in Europe, while Rev. Bro. Chrysteil will remain there indefinitely. Before sailing the two brothers will visit Lowell and it is believed during their stay in this city they will be tendered a reception by the members of St. Joseph's college alumni.

BRISTOL NO LONGER IN STATE OF INSURRECTION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 11.—Lieutenant and Acting Gov. Emory J. Smith today issued a proclamation declaring the town of Bristol to be no longer in a state of insurrection. The proclamation was issued upon the representations of the sheriff of Bristol county and of the president of the town council of Bristol that the town is now in a condition to warrant the withdrawal of the proclamation of insurrection issued by Gov. Blackman on May 23.

BARBERS OUT FOR MORE PAY—NEXT!

We want more money! Since more the clamor cry is being sounded in Lowell and this time the men in white coats who cut hair and wield the razor—officially known as the barbers' union, Local 323—are on the rampage.

The local barbers feel that they are underpaid, that their wages have not advanced proportionately with the high cost of living. Accordingly, at the regular meeting of their union next Tuesday evening a sub-committee appointed to consider the wage situation and to draw up a new scale to be presented to the barber shop proprietors for consideration will make its report. Its recommendations will be in substance as follows: That the wages of barbers employed in union shops in Lowell be advanced from the present scale, which provides a fixed wage of $24 per week with one-half of all receipts over $25 which the barber takes in, to a new scale providing for a fixed wage of $25 per week with half of all receipts over $33.

In discussing the situation this morning a local barber, who happens to be a member of the wage scale committee, said that the cost of living had affected the barbers as well as everybody else and they felt something should be done about the matter. He pointed out that the advent of the safety razor has reduced anywhere from 50 to 75 per cent the number of men who formerly were shaved at the barber shops, and this means a reduction of receipts. Barbers must depend mainly on haircuts for their percentage over and above their regular salary. It is also probable that some action will be taken at next Tuesday's meeting to secure a reduction in the number of hours which members of the local union are called upon to work each week. At the present time the union shops are open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. on Mondays; from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.

on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 8 a. m. to 12 noon on Thursday; and from 8 a. m. to 3.30 p. m. on Saturdays. The barbers hope to reduce the Saturday "grind" by at least half an hour and possibly bring about shorter hours on other days.

sitated outside branch offices in various parts of London to house the bank's growing throng of clerks and newly created departments.

Established in 1691, the Bank of England is the oldest national bank in Europe. Millions of people throughout the world know the outside of the low, black building which for more than two centuries has been the empire's financial centre. Its central part was erected in 1732-4 but the outer part, which one sees from adjacent streets, dates from 1783.

The present building spreads over 4 acres of what is perhaps the most valuable real estate in the world, in the heart of London's world training centre. At least once, in December, 1825, it saved the country from bankruptcy. During the Lord George Gordon riots of June, 1780 it withstood a two-days' attack by a mob which was driven off by soldiers stationed outside and clerks and bank officials who mounted the walls.

Since that date the bank has been guarded every night by a detachment of 36 soldiers who, commanded by an officer, march down from London tower and take up their positions on the walls at sundown.

A number of windows, which broke the bank's solidarity of the bank's outer walls, were closed with huge blocks of granite after the rioting, but their outline is traced by the remaining sills.

BULGARIA DETERMINED TO STAND BY TREATY

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 11.—Bulgaria will keep the peace despite the loss under the treaty of her provinces of Dobruja and Thrace, Premier Alexander Stamboulsky has told the Associated Press correspondent.

America and the allies may be assured that we shall maintain order and quiet and bear our burdens and trials stoically," he said. "We will face the harsh sentence the peace conference has imposed upon us with courage and fortitude and rely upon internal reconstruction and persevering labor to gain what we have lost in the war. Bulgaria for the moment may be crushed, but she will rise again with new strength and be an example to the world of what patience, industry and national patriotism can accomplish."

The premier referred to Bulgaria's relations with Greece, Serbia and Rumania. "We desire, of course," he said,

"to live in harmony and good-will with our neighbors, but some of their territorial demands are so excessive that any cordial and enduring relationship seems well-nigh impossible. How can our friendship with Greece be permanent while Mr. Venizelos denies us the right of a seaport on the Aegean? And how can our friendly feeling toward Rumania be anything more than artificial and transitory while she insists on holding the Southern Dobruja? With our other neighbor, Serbia, we desire to live on the most agreeable terms; but in the absence of a permanent government there we have not been able to take the necessary steps toward establishing the elements of future friendship."

Stamboulsky then discussed America's participation in the war and the peace negotiations and lamented the failure of the Peace Conference to apply President Wilson's 14 points. "It was Mr. Wilson's promise that we should gain by peace all that we were striving to gain by war that caused our soldiers to lay down their arms and to capitulate to the great powers. But what did the Peace Conference do? It trampled under foot all the high principles which your president had enunciated. And Bulgaria was thus completely misled.

"However, with all the tremendous burdens that have been imposed upon us by the allies," Mr. Stamboulsky concluded, "we have not lost hope. I look optimistically to the future. The world is in a process of regeneration and recreation. Mr. Wilson's principles which were flaunted by the allies are being taken up by the peoples of the earth, whether conquerors or conquered. Inevitably a popular movement will be created which will enforce a revision of the peace treaty. Even in the allied countries there is much dissatisfaction with it."

SUGAR PROFITEERS FINED $35,000

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 11.—The Schon-Stevenson company, a wholesale grocery concern of Huntington, yesterday was fined $35,000 upon conviction of profiteering in sugar, in federal court here.

Judge Pritchard said he was imposing the heaviest fine the Lever law permitted.

MAN FROM THE WEIRS RUN OVER BY AUTO NOT SLIGHTLY INJURED

Michael Sullivan of The Weirs, N. H., was struck and run over by a Ford automobile in Dutton street, near its junction with Merrimack street, last evening and only received minor injuries about the head and face. He was treated at the Lowell Corporation hospital. The automobile that figured in the accident is owned and was being operated by Omar Descoiteaux of 465 Moody street.

JUNIORS OF THE GIRLS' VOCATIONAL SCHOOL HOSTS TO SENIORS AND TEACHERS

On invitation of the juniors of the Girls' Vocational school the seniors and teachers of the school accompanied them on a picnic to Lakeview on Wednesday. From Lakeview at about 10 o'clock the party hiked around to Willow Dale, where various races were held. After the sports, the girls returned to Lakeview for lunch and remained there for the rest of the afternoon, taking in all the amusements. Merrimack square was reached on their return about 5 o'clock.

$100,000 FOR AROUND THE WORLD AIR DERBY

BOSTON, June 11.—A first prize of $100,000 for the fastest time made in circling the globe by aircraft will be offered in the first aerial derby around the world, by Maj. Charles J. Glidden of the commission organizing the contest. Other prizes are expected to bring the total of awards to $1,000,000.

The announcement was sent by Maj. Glidden from Ceylon, where the commission was stopping during April. Members of the board have since traveled through Europe to London, where at their suggestion the world's board of aeronautical commissioners is to be organized for promoting aerial navigation throughout the world. This world board will be composed of leading men from the colonies and countries.

It is expected that all of these countries and colonies will be represented in the aerial derby, the dates for which appear to have been changed. Whereas originally it was intended to start the contest July 1 and continue it until Jan. 3, 1921, it is now announced that the derby will take place in 1921 and contestants will be allowed the entire year in which to make the flight.

In its organizing journey the commission will have traveled 40,000 miles when it returns to New York. It has been instrumental in the appointment of many special commissioners for the derby; in the organization of foreign aero clubs and the establishment of aerial transportation lines. Its members predict that by the end of 1921 aerial service will have been established to all the principal and many of the remote parts of the world.

SEMI-EVENING DRESS OF NET AND TAFFETA

New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, June 11.—At the opening performance of a new play recently, this very attractive gown of black taffeta, net and jet was worn by a pretty blonde. The skirt was wired to a moderate bouffancy at the hips and enclosed a front panel composed of ruffles of black net two and a half inches wide set across. The shoulder lines as shown in the sketch, decorated along the edge with small ball buttons of cut jet were held up by straps of silver ribbon. Two rows of the jet buttons sewed to a ribbon band, served as a belt.

1 KILLED, 8 INJURED IN NEW YORK "L" CRASH

NEW YORK, June 11.—George H. Adams, motorman of a northbound Lexington avenue subway express, was killed and eight persons were injured yesterday when the express crashed into another Bronx train standing at the Freeman street station of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, which last Monday began celebration of "no accident week."

Ambulances and fire apparatus were rushed to the scene of the accident, which occurred on the elevated structure a short distance from the point where the subway comes to the surface. Ladders were raised and the injured removed from the wreckage with difficulty.

Herman Hannot, a waiter, with his left leg pinned down, made a brave effort to aid firemen in removing him but his pain was so great the doctors had to administer an anesthetic before he could be removed.

Officials of the road, after a preliminary investigation, said they were unable to account for the collision as signals were set against the express.

A screen of sparks and smoke billowed up when the two trains crashed and the first car of the Lexington-avenue express telescoped the rear of the standing train, a distance of 20 feet.

Adams was not instantly killed and the Rev. Hugh Cronin climbed over the wreckage and administered the last rites of the church before the motorman died.

Those who entertained with musical or literary numbers were Miss Janet Hersey, Pietro Mordella, Miss Jane Golding and Miss Lorman, all members of the Venetian Musical Co. of Boston, and Miss Louise Donan of this city. The committee in charge of the event consisted of Richard Durkin, Fred E. Jones and Oscar Phinney.

MRS. BABE

NO WONDER SHE SMILES

Mrs. Babe Ruth Says That King Swatter is Some "Home Boy"

N.E.A. Staff Special
NEW YORK, June 10.—This story is about the side of Babe Ruth's life you seldom hear mentioned.
But it's the side that comes first with Babe, nevertheless.
Every time Babe steps up to the plate there's a woman back in the grandstand who's pulling just a little harder than anybody in the park for another one "over the fence."
You guessed it—Mrs. Babe.

Calls Him "Hon"
She calls Babe "Hon"—short for "Honey"—and Babe calls her "Hon" sort of a mutual agreement.
She is the wife of the man who is more talked of today than the president of the United States.
She has two big interests in life—to see Babe hit home runs and to preside over their home life.
She's so ardent a fan that she goes home after a game just as tired as Babe. But she and Babe are both "home folks" and their home life comes first. In spite of all the glory and the excitement and the success of Babe's 1920 performance.

She Wants to Cook
Hotels—Babe doesn't care for 'em.
He's strong for the home brand of living.
The Ruths want to get settled down.

In some quiet little apartment home where Mrs. Babe can broil Mr. Babe's steaks, fry his potatoes and fix just the kind of fancy dishes she knows he likes best.

They are to take an apartment on Riverside Drive soon and settle right down to real old-fashioned housekeeping like they used to live before Ruth became a celebrity and was just a common every-day ball player.

Babe's a Homebody
"Babe's going on the road," says Mrs. Ruth, "and when he comes back I'll have a little place all fixed up for him. He certainly is a homebody if there ever was one."
"Of course, I realize that Babe's interests are divided just like any other man's must be. Half of his life is baseball and the other half is me."
"I go to every game at the Polo grounds and work just as hard as he does. Then, when it's over, we are both worn out and tired. It is going to be great when we get settled in a little home," she says.

Ruth's slugging example has not only converted the Huggins' crew into a gang of errors with the bludgeon, but has plunged the whole Ban Johnson orchard into a clouting "cousin."
More long-distance hits are being recorded this season than modern baseball is used to tasting. The only answer to it is that the home-run psychology, which has been introduced so potently by Ruth, is having its effect on all other players.

"Sweet" Letters Amuse Mrs. Babe
Like all idols of the public Ruth's mail has grown to be a regular feature service. Among the daily "income" are many "sweet notes" from admiring young girls. Babe and Mrs. Babe have lots of fun reading them.

on the school grounds in Broadway tomorrow, include Miss Dorothy Riordan, president; Miss Alice Dacey, vice president; Mrs. Irene Gauthier, Cashier, secretary, and Miss Blanche Marshall, treasurer.

Soon after the high school session today about 25 of the teachers dashed away in automobiles for an outing to Marblehead. The drive to the shore was made through Reading, the Pelham and thence to Revere and along the North Shore. A delicious fish dinner was served at the Adams house at Marblehead.

OBSERVE FEAST OF THE SACRED HEART

A pretty ceremony in observance of the feast of the Sacred Heart was held at the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street this afternoon. It consisted of a procession through the spacious grounds of the home, followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at the grotto.

The procession was formed in the chapel of the orphanage at 3 o'clock and those who participated, the clergy, altar boys, children and sisters of the orphanage, marched through the grounds of the institution as far as the grotto, where benediction was held. Rev. Eugene Turcotte, O.M.I., pastor, officiating. During the procession and service appropriate hymns were sung by the children. The grounds were handsomely decorated for the occasion with the papal colors and red, white and blue bunting, while here and there hung banners of the Sacred Heart. The altar at the grotto was beautifully decorated with flowers and incandescent lights.

LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL FRATERNITY BUYS HOUSE IN MT. VERNON STREET

The property at 115 Mt. Vernon street, consisting of a 12-room house and 2173 square feet of land, was recently purchased by the Lowell Textile School fraternity. The building was formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. Salois, who occupied it as their residence. They have vacated the premises and it is expected that within a short time or after five or six rooms have been added to the house, the students of the school will occupy it. The property is assessed for $5000 and the land at $2500. It is understood the price paid for the property was $7500.

THE FIRST REAL TOUCH OF SUMMER

A high temperature record for 1920 was reached in Lowell today when a majority of downtown thermometers hung just a fraction under the 90 mark at 1 o'clock. Only a slight breeze stirred to temper the exceedingly hot and sultry air. It was the first real blast of summer and was generally welcomed as preferable to unreasonable chilliness and lowering skies.

JUVENILE COURT

There were no cases in the open police court today, but 13 minors appeared before Judge Enright in the juvenile session. Out of the entire number one boy received a direct sentence to the Lyman school, five were put on probation for one year with the agreement that they make restitution of $12 each. One of the two boys, who were charged with breaking and entering the bakery of Hart & Co. on Merrimack street two nights ago, was given a probationary sentence to the Lyman school while the other, on parole from that institution, had his case placed on file.

NO RECOUNT OF BOSTON CENSUS

BOSTON, June 11.—The federal census bureau at Washington is satisfied that no mistake has been made in tabulating the population of the city of Boston. In a letter to the chamber of commerce Director Samuel L. Rogers declares: "The bureau considers itself justified in the belief that the census of Boston was taken with a reasonable degree of accuracy and completeness."

He further writes that no recount will be ordered, although the bureau will correct any obvious errors that might be called to its attention.

Mr. Rogers adds that his investigation shows few if any errors in the tabulation which gives Boston a population of 747,923.

If lower shoe prices had not been promised so many times during the last six months, the public might have more confidence in the truth of the stories now being printed that at last a cut is to become an actuality.

"Drop in the price of sugar," says a headline and as we read it hopes begin to rise. Then we come to the date line, "San Francisco," and enthusiasm ceases. Why do all the good things seem to happen so far away from home?

Factional fighting, big shush funds, and the rule of big money interests as they have been shown to exist in connection with the republican party during the Chicago convention will be not least among the assets of the democrats in the coming campaign.

JOHNSON VICTORY

On the League of Nations issue, which threatened to split the republican convention a compromise has been effected which is satisfactory to Johnson and Borah, the two extreme opponents of ratification in any form. The platform, therefore, in reference to the league is a plain evasion of the issue.

Nevertheless it is regarded as a great victory for the irreconcilables. Just how it will strike the party in general is another question. Senator Lodge and Murray Crane wanted a plank favoring the league with the Lodge reservations. Nothing but the prospect of an inevitable split could induce either to agree to such a compromise.

After the disposal of a few other controversial questions, the convention will proceed to the work of selecting a candidate. That may take many ballots or few. The probability is that it will require quite a number to permit the delegations pay due respect to the candidates to whom they are pledged before uniting on one of the dark horses as the standard bearer.

The Wood forces, however, are very confident of victory. If they show increased strength, they may end the fight suddenly by nominating their candidate.

Apparently the party leaders have averted a bolt by Senator Johnson and believe they have prepared the way for his defeat which is the main object. It will hardly be consistent, however, to nominate a man who is strongly committed to the League of Nations even with reservations on a platform that practically repudiates the league.

It is creditable perhaps to ex-Senator Root, who is in Europe, that his draft of a resolution on the league should have formed the basis of compromise and averted a split of the party perhaps as bad as that of 1912.

HOUSING PROBLEMS.

With no improvement in the housing situation, cases of extreme hardship are daily coming to light and the families ordered out with no place to move to, find no public body to lend them a helping hand. Thus far there has been no organized effort in any quarter to aid such families. Thus it appears, that families however badly treated, are left to shift for themselves and to fight it out, so to speak, with the landlord or real estate speculator who makes his money by buying property and jumping the rents far beyond what is fair or reasonable.

In such extremities, any family thrown into the street should notify Mayor Thompson. His Honor has no scarcity of work; but it seems, he would readily interpose to prevent, or else expose any case of unfair treatment or of rent profiteering.

Sometimes the rent charged is not so bad as the arbitrary eviction in order to prepare for the sweeping increase in the rent. The usual course is to order out the old tenants, repaper some of the rooms, make other slight repairs, and then put up the rent from 15 to 20 per cent. This plan of operation is quite frequent in some quarters and is intensifying the worst features of the housing shortage.

The legislature passed a number of bills touching on the housing problem, one of which authorizes municipalities to seize land on which to erect temporary or permanent dwellings for the people. In view of the high cost of building material as well as of labor, such an enterprise is now impracticable except as a means of incurring enormous expense. Few if any of the cities in the state will take advantage of this act. Meanwhile the housing conditions continue to become worse with no prospect of relief before the far off return of normal conditions.

CRIMINAL YOUTH

In New York city 1500 boys and girls under 16 get into court every year as delinquents. A medical investigator, Dr. Sanger Brown, has tried to find out why, and he shows how easy it is for a child to become a criminal if there is anything about him that makes it hard for him to fit in with others.

To have "got in bad" with parents or teachers or to feel disgraced before his natural playmates easily drives a boy to the companionship of other "outlaws," and when he is once in such a gang at odds with the world about it, it is easy for rather innocent mischief to lead on to serious offenses, as petty thieving may lead to burglary.

But what gets a child "in bad" in the first place?

A third of Dr. Brown's cases had nervous symptoms—they were sleep-walkers, overactive, listless or emotionally unstable. Often there was a pressure of activity which kept them wearing themselves out. Or they were irritable and quarrelsome. Or they had fears and anxieties, and perhaps they stammered. Or possibly they had merely been kept from learning how to play with other children, or there was something about their clothes or their homes and parents that they were ashamed of.

Anything that makes a child a laughing stock or a nuisance in a school where things have to go by rule, anything which makes him over-sensitive, is enough to destroy his self-respect; and when that is gone he feels that he may as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb, and is glad to be with others as bad as himself, who will not despise him.

The way to treat such delinquents is to find and remove the cause of the original nervousness or whatever it may be that makes them seem "different," and to restore their self-respect.—N. E. A.

FARM LABOR BUREAU

Here is a chance for the Chamber of Commerce to render a real service which will benefit this city and the farmers in the vicinity. The people of Lowell cannot be indifferent to the fact that the farmers in the suburban towns are badly handicapped by the labor shortage. The prospect is, that the area under tillage will be less and the crops less abundant than usual. To aid the farmers in meeting the adverse conditions, it seems that school boys and others who want a few weeks' healthful exercise in the open air, might avail themselves of the opportunity to help the farmers in cultivating and weeding.

Few farmers can afford to pay men five dollars a day for eight hours' work; but they will pay school boys perhaps upwards of two dollars a day for light work such as weeding which the boys can do just as well as men. The time for closing the schools is at hand and some of the boys would like to engage for farm work for the summer. They do not know where to apply, however, except to strike out into the country in hobnob style, looking for work.

To remedy this situation and to aid the farmers and the boys, it would seem that the Chamber of Commerce might open an employment bureau to serve as a connecting link between the farmers who want help and the boys who want work for the summer.

Such a service would aid the farmers and the boys as well and could be conducted at slight expense. We venture to predict that there would be 500 boys registered there before the time for closing the schools arrives.

We would earnestly advise the chamber to take up this matter in order to help the farmers to overcome the labor shortage.

NEIGHBORS' DAY

The governors of four states have issued proclamations setting aside tomorrow, June 12, as Neighbors' day, and Cardinal Gibbons has given his endorsement to the movement is a statement in which he commends it as being "an excellent means of breaking down racial and other prejudices, and of teaching men and women in a practical way their duties of Christian charity and helpfulness toward their fellows; it should be effective in promoting genuine and sympathetic Americanization."

We probably shall not have any official proclamation setting aside the day in Massachusetts, but that need not hinder anyone from entering into the spirit of the movement not only tomorrow but on every other day of the year.

A good many of our troubles as a people are due to the fact that we have forgotten, if indeed most of the present generation ever knew, how to be neighborly. By barriers of many kinds we are separated from each other as by a great gulf. We roughly divide ourselves into natives and foreigners and we look at each other across a dividing fence as though each belonged to a different order of humanity.

Furthermore, we are nearly all of us kept confined within the little circles of our families, our friends, our societies and clubs, and it is rare indeed that we get outside these boundaries and rub elbows with those not of our own immediate circle and class.

Capital and labor are playing more or less at cross purposes because of a lack of neighborly spirit—the spirit of kindness, of regard for the welfare of others and a genuine desire to be helpful and friendly.

Here in grim, conservative, old New England, it is likely to prove a difficult task to secure a re-enthronement of the old ideals of neighborliness. In other parts of the country organizations have been formed and programs formulated to make men more neighborly. It would be well if something of the kind could be undertaken here as a movement, in the words of the aged prelate of Baltimore, that "should prove effective in promoting genuine and sympathetic Americanization."

LABOR'S DEMANDS

The terms of the "demands" made upon the committee on resolutions of the Chicago convention by Samuel Gompers and associates, speaking for the Federation of Labor, for the inclusion of certain planks in the party's platform, are not likely as a whole to meet with any very cordial reception from those who are responsible for outlining the principles of the G. O. P. The demands are interesting, however, as they give an idea of what labor is to stand for in the coming campaign in which it has been announced it intends to take a prominent part.

Some of the demands are in the line of necessary reform while others trench upon debatable ground. Two of them, however, if they are ever realized in actual legislation, will touch very closely the fundamentals of the system of government under which we have lived and prospered for a good many years. These are:

Action to prevent federal legislation being declared unconstitutional.

Neither of these propositions is likely to be looked upon with favor by the great majority of people at the present time. Under our present system of appointing judges it is undoubtedly true that we sometimes get men who are better fitted to ornament private life than the bench. Such instances are extremely rare, however, and there is no general complaint that men who preside in the federal courts are not of the highest type, or that they do not endeavor to deal out justice as fairly and impartially as it is possible for fallible human beings to do.

In demanding the election of judges by the people, members of the federation might well remember what has recently happened when millions have been spent by big business interests to capture the republican nomination for the presidency. That the same methods might be used in connection with the popular election of judges is not impossible. We believe the interests of labor will be better served by keeping the federal judiciary out of politics.

The taking away from the supreme court of the right to decide on the constitutionality of legislation is not at present a question that is within the field of practical politics. It is by no means certain that labor would in the end be the gainer if the proposed change were made.

SEEN AND HEARD

Swat the bug! Yesterday produced perfect circus weather after a precarious start in the early morning hours.

Fifty the woman at the pageant who told her companion that the girls in the Candle Light ball portrayal carried the lighted candles to drive mosquitoes away.

May we suggest Windsor street for re-building? The mere fact that it was made one-way is evidence that it is heavily traveled and at present its condition is little short of frightful.

Sure of Reward The workman was dragging. The wayfarer of inquisitive turn of mind stopped for a moment to look on.

"My man," said the wayfarer at length, "what are you digging for?" The workman looked up. "Money," he replied.

"Money?" ejaculated the amazed wayfarer. "And when do you expect to find it?"

"On Saturday," replied the workman, as he resumed operations.—Los Angeles Times.

Lack of Poetic Soul At the local club, the conversation got on the topic of the English language, its uses and abuses.

"Have you ever noticed," said one man, "how fond people are of using phrases when speaking of a woman?" Her cheeks are always "rosy," her hands are "pale-white," her eyes are "dewy violets," and—

"You've forgotten one," broke in the man with the sour face, who had hitherto been silent.

"Which one?"

"Her tongue. It's a scarlet 'run-ner'!"—Houston Post.

Some Slide, Well Say Like a flying saucer Uncle Flop projected himself from the moving bus to the pavement. Mud was everywhere.

Poor old Uncle Flop's feet touched the pavement for a second, but he proceeded for the next 10 yards of his way face downward, his white waistcoat churning a neat furrow in the street.

Then a lamp post brought him to a halt. He was still clinging to it when a Samaritan voice exclaimed:

"O dear! Have you hurt yourself?" Flop considered the question ridiculous.

"Hurt myself? Of course not! That sliding business is the first figure of a new dance—the walrus slide. Supposed to be a walrus sliding off a block of ice into the sea. Did it rather neatly, I think, don't you—your idiot?"

New Musical Instrument

The greater part of the circus parade has passed. Animals of every size, vintage and previous condition of servitude had made their way past admiring hundreds of Lowell men, women and children. Finally, that vigorously toned instrument—or, perhaps, more correctly, machine—the callopie, was approaching, and its burly sounds were wafted far in advance of its actual arrival.

Reminding one of a series of mill whistles which in some unaccountable manner had been harmonized. A little girl and her mother were standing on the sidewalk and both had viewed the passing spectacle with proper awe and wonder. However, when the calliope came trundling along, the little girl asked:

"Mother, what is that thing that makes the loud noise?"

With a touching air that combined motherly superiority and motherly love, the little girl's mother answered:

"Why, my dear, that is the heliotrope!"

And indeed you all unfairly. Because your brow is unshaven. Because your dreams are all unfulfilled. Because you face the world so decorously.

If your fresh faith in life be halted. There is no savior to be faltered.

We who have ruled the world so well. It trembles on the slopes of hell. And knows no god but Mammon.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

It is interesting to note the amount of excitement and air of expectation which circus day brings to city hall year after year. Bright and early yesterday morning a representative of the circus which played Lowell yesterday afternoon and evening made his way into the city clerk's office and asked for that official. When Mr. Flynn responded, the circus official announced who he was and said that he wished to procure the necessary license to stage the big performance on the Fair Grounds. Evidently he was new to Lowell ways, for Mr. Flynn informed him that the license commission was the body to grant such permission. Then a little later in the forenoon Mayor Thompson was interviewed by one of the circusmen for permission to conduct the usual street parade. This was readily granted and then the police department officials were sought so that adequate police protection might be had during the day. And behind him the busy circus man left a trail of free passes which made his visit a welcome one to the officials with whom he had dealings.

About 10 o'clock city hall began to take on an air of unrest. Crowds were gathering in the street outside and every few minutes the word was passed that the "parade was coming." One by one, the clerks began to steal out and at 11 o'clock the building was almost deserted except for the few faithful who stayed to answer telephone calls. But as soon as the parade was over, everything resumed its normal tenor and officials and clerks again busied themselves with the routine work of the day.

In the sorting room of the local postoffice, attached to the bulletin board with a string is a green pasteboard box about five inches square. In the top of this box there is a slot for the insertion of coins and on one side is a notice reading: "Help the postal wage commission who worked for 15 long months without rest to award a little increase to the poor letter carriers." The box is quite heavy with contributions; but if one were to shake it to hear the clinking of coins he would be disappointed, for it contains only old buttons, pins, nails and such trumpery. Evidently the postoffice employees have a soft spot in their hearts for the members of that commission!

A circus comes as near to perpetual motion as anything in the world aside from running water. Occasionally, in fact every year, all circuses on the road go into winter quarters but during the summer barnstorming trips it's a case of touch and go and an excellent example of perpetual motion. Another circus peculiarity, or, rather, an asset, is its superlatively fine organization from the standpoint of efficiency. Under the most trying conditions in a new city or town almost every day, rarely is a circus parade ever late or a performance tardy in starting. Everything is done according to system and while there is no doubt that this smooth working piece of machinery has gained its efficiency through years of experience and work, it nevertheless is a wonderful achievement and a thing hundreds of smaller and more stable corporations strive for in vain. Every man and thing in his and its place at the right time probably is the secret and it is worthy of pattern.

Boys and girls from the high school, eating their luncheons in Merrimack street while viewing the circus parade.

An old beer delivery wagon freighting papers for a local printing establishment.

A congestion of vehicles in Palmer street caused by a pair of green horses that became balky.

Boys catching on to autos and other vehicles in violation of the city ordinance forbidding such offenses.

"The part played by fear in the lives of some people afflicted with 'nerves' is curious," said a Lowell physician a few evenings ago. This physician has had a more than usually wide experience in treating disorders of the nervous system. "There is a man here in Lowell," the doctor continued, "who has an obsession that is typical of many others. It seems almost absurd when it is described, but the trouble is a very real one to the person afflicted. This man has an abnormal fear of going near the pumping station of the water works in Centralville. Why this is true, neither he nor anyone else can tell. I do not suppose that any amount of money would tempt him to walk along the street past the station alone. Then there is a Lowell woman whose home is the most readily approached from the nearest car line by passing through a street that runs slightly up hill. The woman I have in mind can walk down this small hill without difficulty, but so serious is her fear of climbing up the incline that I am not sure that her heart would not actually stop beating if she should undertake it. To avoid climbing the hill the woman always makes a long detour in reaching her home, having been away. The cause of the strange fears is more or less of a hidden mystery to physicians, although a number of theories have been advanced to account for them. It should be understood that the persons who have these fears are wholly normal mentally in other ways."

Austrian Cabinet Has Resigned

VIENNA, June 11.—(By Associated Press)—The Austrian cabinet headed by Dr. Karl Renner as chancellor, which has been administering the country's affairs for the greater part of the time since the armistice, has resigned office. Dr. Renner presented the resignation shortly after midnight, following a meeting of the cabinet with representatives of the social democrats. The break came unexpectedly over the minister of war's decree on army discipline, which question was raised in the national assembly yesterday by the christian socialists. It is believed a new coalition cabinet will be formed pending the elections.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY

TRAINING SCHOOL

At present there are 121 boys in the Middlesex County Training school in North Chelmsford and their ages range between 7 and 14 years. For many years this number has been approximately, although from Jan. 1, 1919, to December 31, 1919, there was a slight increase of 13 from 112 to 125. Whether the figures this year will differ greatly cannot be judged from the records so far, for they still cling to the normal level. The average age for the boys in the school for the past year was 11 years and three months at the time of commitment. There is one girl assigned to the school, but she is now out on parole. It is unusual to have a girl sent there and the facilities of the school are not suited to accommodate girls, but the method employed is to assign a girl truant to room out with some family nearby and to oblige her to spend all her time at the school. In regard to the establishment of a girls' division, Supt. Rufus Corlew said that there are so few girls sent there that it wouldn't pay.

The reason for commitment to the institution must go under one of three heads: Truancy, habitual absenteeism or habitual school offending. The difference between habitual absenteeism, and truancy is that in the latter the boys remain away from school of their own accord while in the other case they are kept away either by their parents or by some other cause for which they are not responsible. Out of the total number of cities in this county privileged to send boys to the school, 13 cities sent one or more during the past year.

Each year 40 or 50 are let out on parole with the opportunity of remaining if their behavior is good, but reports and figures show that out of those put on parole an average of from 12 to 13 are returned for violation of their probation. This, however, according to the superintendent, must not always be charged to the boys, but frequently to the inability of the parents to look after them. Many parents work from early morning to late at night and thus leave their children at home so that a return of a boy to the school in such instances simply means neglect.

Greater Production

During the war the farm work of the school followed the slogan of the country, "Produce more!" Several acres were plowed up, much more to fill the war cry, and for three years that increased cultivation has been kept up and will be similar in extent this year. All the farm work is done by the masters very ably assisted by the boys who worked in teams under their direction. The aim of the masters is to make the school self-sustaining. They have succeeded, although at different times some of the crops have been injured by the current plagues. One or two years ago the tomato section was infested with cut worms which destroyed hundreds of the plants, but so far this year only a few have been lost. Fifteen hundred tomato plants are being nurtured on the grounds, receiving special care from the boys, and most of them are protected around the roots with tarred paper. The large number raised allows for loss. Although the tomatoes are delicious during the summer, a great quantity of them are canned each year for winter use by the matrons of the school who are assisted by the boys.

Other large crops of beans, rhubarb, asparagus not only supply the table needs, but also the winter larder. Vegetables such as carrots, turnips, onions, and potatoes are stored in the cellars for winter use.

Besides the main farm every boy in the school has a garden of his own

VERMONT GOVERNOR TO CALL LEGISLATURE

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 11.—Gov. Percival W. Clement announced last night his willingness, under certain conditions, to call a special session of the Vermont legislature for the purpose of voting on ratification of the suffrage amendment. In a telegram to Alexander Dennett, chairman of the Vermont delegation to the republican national convention, he said he would take this action if the convention should adopt a plank embodying a suggestion made by the governor, which would favor a popular vote on all future amendments to the federal constitution.

The governor's telegram was sent in response to an appeal from Will H. Hays, republican national chairman; Gov. Sprout of Pennsylvania, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. and Mr. Dunnett that he call a special session. The telegram was as follows:

"Your telegram. Changes made in the federal constitution without being referred to the people of several states are a menace to state rights and free institutions. The resolution proposed by me will correct this and be immensely popular. If the republican party sees fit to adopt this resolution I should be justified in calling a special session and I will do so. Of course this resolution would not be retroactive and would in no way change what has been done."

FRISCO PREENING FOR BIG CONVENTION

(N.E.A. Staff Special)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—If you're going to be one of the 40,000 at the coming democratic national convention in this town the week of June 29th, there are certain things you ought to know. Charles W. Fay, postmaster of San Francisco and general head of the local reception committee, is trying to make the little party worthy of the occasion of the Pacific coast's first national convention in history, and he wants the east to know just what the west is doing to make the visitors comfy.

"Bring your light wraps and overcoats," is his only request. He'll attend to the rest. California summers about San Francisco bay are not the sweltering things they are in eastern cities. The bay breezes often make it very cool and the evenings far from balmy.

Don't fear the profiteering landlords, is his confident assurance. The hotel men's association is going to show the delegates what western hospitality means, and they have agreed on a one price program. This means that a room with a bath can be had for from $5 to $15 a day.

The railroads have arranged for a one-and-a-third fare from eastern points. For instance, the round trip from Chicago will be $89. There will also be excursions from here to other California points so that delegates and their families can combine the occasion with a sightseeing tour.

At three big hotels of San Francisco the activities of the week will centre. The Palace will be the executive centre, and much of the lobbying will go on in the big corridor of this hostelry. The celebrities will stay at the Fairmont and St. Francis.

There will be over 20 governors and at least seven members of the president's cabinet here. Bryan, who is sure to be the storm centre of the week, will be at the St. Francis. So will Gov. Edwards, the "wet" candidate of New Jersey, Gov. Cox of Ohio, and Vice President Marshall. The 35 United States senators and 150 members of the lower house who are expected will be divided between these two hotels, while the state delegates will be scattered over the city in other hotels.

There will be 1092 delegates, of which about a fourth will be women.

The largest delegation will of course be New York's, of 96 delegates and alternates and over 200 members. Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona will have but three apiece. Porto Rico, Hawaii, District of Columbia, the Philippines and Alaska will each send three. Besides the delegates and their alternates, there will be 510 members of the press, whose comforts will be cared for by "Jim" Preston, who presides over the congressional press gallery at Washington. The big meeting place of the convention is the Civic Auditorium, which holds 12,000 people. The Coliseum in Chicago and Madison Square garden in New York are said to be the only two larger halls in America. Seats for 5500 are being arranged on the ground floor and the rest will be seated in the galleries. The convention is likely to last the entire week. Unlike the republicans, the democrats require two-thirds to nominate, or 721 votes. The republicans need only a majority out of their smaller representation of 492, or only 105 votes. It is doubtful whether the democrats will mean their candidate before July 3rd.

the great war. Old ways are lost and leadership, hesitant and indecisive, drifts upon an uncharted sea.

Fortunate to Have Such a Man

"The unchecked encroachment of sinister greed, the appalling waste of public money, the immoral pandering to class interest and class prejudice have brought us to a point where the nation demands and the world expects from this great council a leader chosen out of the great need and not through the cunning of political expediency.

"In seeking for the initiative and the prophetic wisdom to guide us in an hour that must be wholly constructive, we are fortunate in a candidate whose record reveals the qualities needed for the task.

"It is not necessary to ask for assurances from General Wood. There is the witness of his service.

Points to Record in Cuba

"You ask for a business man. We present to you a record of four years as governor of Cuba, a record which gained him international fame as the most successful civil administrator the country has known. Leonard Wood's services in Cuba constitute a page of history which records the cleanest and most unselfish thing one nation ever did for a needy people. Chosen to work out the benevolent policy of McKinley toward the people of the island for whom we had sacrificed our sons, he was given a free hand.

"He reorganized the island and framed a model of government which stands today as proof of his sanity and constructive genius. His wisdom encompassed all the activities of the people. He touched with his vital interest its dead agriculture, developed its railways, taught the Cubans how to make just laws relating to everything from municipal administration to general taxation. He built American intelligence into a school system, reorganized the struggling forces of civil life into orderly government, made roads, introduced sanitation and hygiene, stamped out yellow fever and pernicious malaria and fashioned it all with humaneness and a stability that has withstood the strain of the changing

Work of a Statesman

"Possessing the highest degree of business capacity, it was something more than the work of a business man. It was the work of a statesman who had not narrowed his vision to the purely business life. It was the accomplishment of a great national organizer.

"A president must be a business man and more. He must be a statesman. He must have a broad view of the internal situation. He must know politics for politics is what gives us our government, be it good or bad. Government is not better than its politics and to improve the one you must improve the other.

"The vague longing for a business man for president will not be satisfied by one who knows only business. The president must understand world affairs and the crossing and recrossing currents of social and economic aspirations. It was the possession of this broad capacity that brought to Leonard Wood at the conclusion of his work in Cuba the commendation of the leaders of the period.

Wood's Great Foresight

"A president must be able to interpret the shadow of coming events. We do not need to speculate concerning Leonard Wood's foresight.

"When the great war broke upon the consciousness of the American people with a terrific shock, it found that Leonard Wood had been preparing. We heard from him no platitudes about a million men springing to arms overnight. On his own initiative he established the Plattsburg training camps; created the first line of the national defense and gave it to the thousands of magnificent young American men who volunteered a new definition of loyalty, a new opportunity for service, a new vision of their national obligation.

"We saw him accepting whatever task was given into his hands with the cheerful obedience of those who submerge self in service. In our state, where he trained many of our splendid young men, inspiring them with his spirit, fashioning them into the 80th Division, the people witnessed his work with such pride that when the governor of our state, my honored predecessor, made him by proclamation a citizen of Kansas, every other citizen applauded.

Best Known American

"We watched him go away to the point of embarkation and then at the last moment we read with consternation that his great desire to take his division to the field was not to be granted.

"This may be no whimper. Not an hour was lost in sulking. Not a word was wasted in criticism. Not an instant spent in mourning over his personal disappointment. We see him coming back to train another division. 'If we can't he said, 'we'll make it even better than the one with which I had hoped to serve in France.'

"The American soldier is a citizen soldier. Leonard Wood holds fast to the traditions of the great citizen soldiers of the republic. A plain, blunt man, with blunt belief in facts, he is today the best known American. In the frank expression of his beliefs there is no hidden motive. No candidate for high office has ever gone to the people of this nation with soul and mind so frankly revealed as Leonard Wood.

Great Achievement at Gary

"No endeavor of his life presents in truer colors his calm and steady strength than the work at Gary. It was the old quarrel that took him there—the struggle between those who hire and those who toil, the only form of civil strife which government still allows to menace a helpless public. He carried to that district the guarantee of fair play. He had been advised not to go to Gary. He was told the situation was full of dynamite. He could have sent a subordinate, but he went in person and dominated the situation by the force of absolute justice. Not a shot was fired or a bayonet used. His calm decision at that hour not only brought security to Gary, but assurance and profound relief to the wailing country. The success of his sane and just endeavor brought back to men their faith in government.

"Again at Omaha, in the racial riots, in West Virginia, in the labor troubles, he visualized not military power, but the peculiar determination which should be always the American pledge to protect the rights of all by firm and righteous government.

Hospitable to Advice

"No man can know him without recognizing the liberality of his mind, his openness to conviction. As Root once said of him, 'He is hospitable to advice.'

"As president he will not seek to create for himself a neutral background out of mediocre men. The nation will have that to which the people are entitled in its councils—the united brain power of real leaders.

"The sum total of preferential expressions marks him as the outstanding candidate in the minds of the whole people.

"The choice that is made now may mould the character of the nation for 50 years and perhaps longer, for festive minds are plastic and the leadership that comes now will go far to determine the character of our government henceforth.

Wood 'Man of the Hour'

"There isn't an American worthy to be here who does not believe in the future leadership of this country. We'll have that leadership when we are worthy, and that leadership will not depend upon any international society we may join. It will depend upon the success which we make of the experiment of human government

The Choice of Hat Is Matter For Very Earnest Thought

JANE COWL

BY CORA MOORE
New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, June 9.—To Jane Cowl, star of "Smilin' Through" at the Broadhurst theatre, spring and hats are synonymous.
Every woman anticipates with eager joy the acquisition of summer headgear—a hat or two, or maybe three. If she's reckless. But to Miss Cowl it means 50 or 40 millinery creations, for hats are her great obsession. They are the one extravagance she indulges without reason.

"I do think," Miss Cowl confides, "that the choice of a hat is a matter for most earnest consideration. The line of it can bring nondescript features into a clear, definite profile, or vice versa; transform too pronounced features into a most becoming indefiniteness; the color of it can bring out or subdue complexion tints and brighten or detract from the beauty lights in eyes.

WALSH SOUNDS WARNING

Revolution Unless Prices
Come Down

BOSTON, June 11.—The Massachusetts State Association of Elks' convention in Cambridge Wednesday and yesterday, closed last evening with a brilliant ball in the Elks' ballroom at Central square, Cambridge. More than 1200 attended.

More than 300 visiting delegates from up-state were the guests of the Cambridge board of trade at a luncheon, held in the board of trade headquarters, at which Senator David I. Walsh was the speaker.

Senator Walsh gave a solemn warning that the United States will face a revolution unless the government acts at once to prevent continued price-raising and high prices; that governments in Europe had been overthrown through the hatred of the people toward public officials who failed to keep their oaths, and that the rule would work here.

"President Wilson," said Senator Walsh, "could relieve the coal shortage facing the country in one hour by placing an embargo on the exportation of coal. But he hasn't done so and the coal supply of this country is on the auction block as a result of inaction."

"It is the duty of this country to take care of its own people and stop the exportation of coal. Our business men are making big money now, but in a short time they will be faced with a serious situation."

In speaking of the newsprint paper shortage, Senator Walsh said every small paper in the country is facing ruin within the next six months, unless the government intervenes and such intervention, he said, is opposed by the business men of the country. "The only reason for this trouble," he said, "is the fact that this country came out of the war without a reconstruction policy, imagining that the country could resume peaceful operations where it left off in 1911."

"Instead we have gone from bad to worse. Executive departments and congress are spending too much time trying to settle the troubles of other people rather than our own."

Dr. Frederick J. Hayer, D.M., Brookline lodge, was elected state president; Dr. Thomas Tierney, D.M., Hudson lodge, John P. Brennan, E.R., Cambridge lodge, Col. John H. Dunn, E.R., Boston lodge, vice presidents; Jeremiah J. Hourin, Framingham lodge, secretary; Bernard E. Carlin, P.D., Lynn lodge, treasurer; Dr. William T. McFee of Haverhill lodge, Henry W. Clark of Melrose lodge and Henry C. Hoyt of Somerville lodge, trustees.

The women friends of visitors were taken on an automobile trip to points of historical interest in Cambridge, Arlington, Lexington, Waltham and Belmont.

MRS. CATT RESIGNS

Quits as President of Suffrage Alliance

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 11.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt resigned the presidency of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance at the session of that body held yesterday afternoon. She delivered a sympathetic speech, saying that though she felt like a mother to all after 16 years as president of the alliance her age and her diminished, energetic, compelled her to relinquish the task.

which, in her opinion, required a younger woman.

The delegates, on proposal of a British delegate, protested against Mrs. Catt's withdrawal and asked him to reconsider her judgment. Her decision however, appears to be final.

REACHES BUENOS AIRES

Arrival of U. S. Shipping Board Steamer Celebrated With Luncheon

BUENOS AIRES, June 10.—The arrival of the United States shipping board steamer Huron on June 4, after a voyage of 19½ days from New York, was celebrated today with a luncheon aboard the vessel which was attended by representatives of the North American colony and prominent Argentineans.

The Huron, which is under allocation to the Munson line, beat the liner Vasaris time for the trip from New York by five days. American Ambassador Frederic J. Timson declared that now the North and South American passenger line had been established under the Stars and Stripes it was important to accentuate the advantage of travel in the United States in order that the ships of the line might carry a stream of South Americans to the United States to get acquainted with the country, where formerly they only went to Europe. The culture, scenery, art and music in the United States were equal to those of Europe, he asserted.

The Huron which is described as the finest merchant ship under the flag of the United States that ever entered Buenos Aires harbor, will sail for New York Saturday. The passengers will include Manuel Gándara, president-elect of Paraguay, who is going to Washington to bring back his family.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC TOMORROW

Members of the Sunday school class of the Immanuel Baptist church will go on their annual picnic outing tomorrow afternoon to Mulligan's grove in Wilmington. Special cars will leave the corner of Blossom and Gorham streets at 1 o'clock and will make the return from the grounds about 5 o'clock in the evening. Most of the Sunday school pupils have planned to go. Sports and games will be enjoyed. Supt. Harold R. Entwistle of the Sunday school will be assisted in the arrangements by an able committee.

The same Sunday school students will assist in the special services in the Immanuel church on Sunday morning when the subject of the sermon will be "The Children's Day Message." The bible school will assemble in the church at 10:30. In the evening the children will participate in the annual children's day concert.

The Sunday school class of the All Souls church will leave Merrimack square tomorrow morning at 9:45 en route for Nabunasset where it will spend the rest of the day.

STILL WAITING FOR THE INSPECTOR

The inspector which United States District Attorney Herbert J. Boynton was to have sent to Lowell several weeks ago to investigate the local sugar situation and to collect evidence relative to "combination sales" of sugar and other articles has not yet put in an appearance, according to Warren P. Riordan, secretary of the Lowell fair price committee, the organization which requested some action in the matter.

Numerous cases of merchants compelling customers to buy various other articles in order to get a small quantity of sugar were brought to the attention of Mayor Thompson about a month ago and he immediately called the fair price committee into session. At its meeting the committee authorized Secretary Riordan to communicate with Mr. Boynton and also asked that the general public report all such combination sales. Mr. Boynton promised to send an inspector and a few cases of alleged combination sales were reported by the public, but there the matter has rested.

FOR CONTROL OF ALCOHOLISM

MONTEVIDEO, June 10.—Agitation of the liquor question in Uruguay has resulted in a committee of the senate undertaking a study, with the minister of the interior, of two proposals for the control of alcoholism. One proposal would limit purchases of alcohol, while the other would prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of distilled liquors, allowing four years for their complete suppression.

Hottest Day of Convention

pick a man for the strength he would add to the ticket at a crucial point, so leaders generally were not inclined to attempt to cross the vice presidential bridge until they came to it and knew what river they wanted to cross.

delegates began to file into their places a full hour before today's session was to begin. All seemed anxious to have it over and the possibility that the nominations might be made today and the convention ended seemed to take some of the edge off their distress from the heat. It gave promise of being the hottest day of the convention in all respects. The sun got to work with a vigor exceeding even the feverish efforts of candidates' managers in their eleventh hour efforts to line up a winning combination.

Most of those on the convention floor and in the galleries came with fans and many of the delegates stripped off their coats before they took their seats. For the time being at least, the hot weather was the big feature in the convention picture.

Delay in Starting

At 9:30 o'clock, however, when the convention should have been called to order, there still were great patches of empty seats in the delegates' section, and the platform was almost empty. The crowd sent up an ever-growing rumble of conversation while it was waiting for the party leaders to get through with their conferences in their hotels, a mile away.

During the wait, the delegates still were wondering who would be nominated. The managers for all the candidates tried to outdo one another in confidence over the result. The Wood people were claiming a victory by the third or fourth ballot. The predictions of the others were less definite.

The Wood managers who had planned to have a string of "second speeches" for their candidate, revised their program at the last minute so that only Frank Knox, of New Hampshire, and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, of New York would second General Wood's nomination.

When 9:45 passed, the delegates' space was pretty well filled, but not a single one of the first line leaders had put in his appearance.

For the first time since the convention began, candidates for the presidency were missing from the floor.

The friends of Senator Johnson said they did not expect their candidate to show himself in the Coliseum.

Delaware delegates said the plan to nominate T. Coleman Du Pont had been abandoned, but the delegation would vote for him on the first ballot.

Session Opened

Two minutes before 10, Senator Lodge, the chairman, and Will H. Hays appeared on the platform. The band was choked off and a minute later the convention was called to order. Rev. John Meyer of Chicago offered prayer.

By a rising vote and in a roar of applause the convention then adopted a resolution offered by Alexander P. Moore of Pittsburgh, expressing "inexpressible loss" over the death of Theodore Roosevelt, "loved unutterably now and to be loved as long as our nation cherishes its noble patriots."

DRY PLANK GOT LOST IN SHUFFLE

CHICAGO, June 11.—The republican platform plank designed to deal with prohibition, which got lost in the shuffle yesterday, furnished a new thrill for the "wets" and "drys" and raised some question of its legal status.

The plank does not mention prohibition, but is a "law and order" declaration for impartial enforcement of all laws.

In a mixup from confusion of platform work, the plank was left from the great pile taken to the Coliseum and read by Chairman Watson of the resolutions committee. It was not read to the convention and was not in the platform as officially adopted, but Chairman Watson, Senator Smoot and others in charge of the document, declared it was adopted by the resolutions committee and is a part of the platform.

The "law and order" plank, members of the committee explained, was designed to fill the gap caused by overwhelming rejection by the resolutions committee of the proposal of William Allen White of Kansas for a plank specifically pledging enforcement of the Volstead law.

HELD JOHNSON RALLY

Johnson Urge Delegates to Vote for Him

Lowell supporters of Senator Hiram Johnson endeavored to bring to bear such influence as possible in favor of the nomination of their candidate for the presidency by voting to send immediately by wire to the Massachusetts delegates at Chicago a strong endorsement of Johnson's candidacy at a meeting held in Carmen's hall in the Russell building last evening. The delegates were urged to vote for Johnson for the country's and for the party's sake.

The meeting was highly enthusiastic and the qualifications of the California senator for the presidency were set forth in glowing language. Some of the speakers even went so far as to predict that Johnson would be the man to secure the largest number of votes at the November election regardless of whether he obtains the Chicago nomination.

Smith J. Adams called the meeting to order. He announced that the purpose of the gathering was to form a tremendous organization that should work for the election of Johnson in the fall. Charles H. Hobson was introduced as chairman of the evening.

Mr. Hobson made an address in which he recounted some of the outstanding features in the history of the republican party during the last ten years. He referred particularly to the steamroller methods that resulted in the party being snowed under at the polls eight years ago. He said that if Theodore Roosevelt were alive the nomination would go to him without serious opposition today. Roosevelt, the speaker said, was the greatest American of his day, and Hiram Johnson is worthily following in his footsteps. He expressed the hope that Johnson would be nominated before many hours had elapsed.

Daniel Cosgrove told of the experiences of a friend who had campaigned with Johnson in 1912. He said that this friend found Johnson to be a plain, democratic man whose platform of "pure democracy" was good enough for the American people. America, the speaker continued, has prospered under its isolation for over 110 years and he saw no reason why it could not get along under that same isolation today. He said that he was glad to stand for a man who supported the principles of Washington, Monroe and Lincoln, and who would favor governments chosen by their own peoples, and would help Sinai Feinberg to govern their own country. In conclusion, he said, that he could see no old-time Americanism in the acts of the present occupant of the presidential chair.

James O'Sullivan presented the resolution endorsing the candidacy of Senator Johnson. The motion to adopt the resolution was seconded by Daniel Cosgrove.

In his remarks advocating the adoption of the resolution, Mr. O'Sullivan said that he considered the meeting a timely one as the result of the convention at Chicago was still in doubt. "Since the convention of 60 years ago," when Abraham Lincoln was nominated there has been no situation so serious as that which confronts us now. It is possible for the delegates making up this convention to make a mistake and it is possible for them not to make a mistake. They are there to give the American people the representation that they desire and that representation, in my belief, is Hiram W. Johnson, who will be our next president.

There is no man in this meeting or in this state who has the best interests of the republican party at heart that wishes to see a split in the convention because we all want to get rid of the present dynasty, as Senator Lodge called it in his speech at Chicago. The people are looking to the Chicago convention to nominate the next president. To accomplish that is as simple as falling off a log—give the country Hiram W. Johnson and then go home and wait for the result when the ballots are counted.

Other speakers during the evening were William P. Cox, John F. McCoy, and P. J. Mahoney.

HURLED TO HIS DEATH

Aviator Instantly Killed at
Seriously Injured

BOSTON, June 11.—Thomas H. Havey, of 23 Malden street, Everett, an experienced and capable airplane pilot, was almost instantly killed, and Henry A. (Daredevil) Smith, a parachute jumper, of Beacham avenue, Cliftondale, was seriously injured, when the Curtiss biplane which Havey was driving, in order that Smith might make a parachute jump, crashed to the Revere beach boulevard, near the West Lynn narrow gauge station, late yesterday afternoon.

Thousands See Fall

Havey was pronounced dead upon arrival at Lynn city hospital and Smith was immediately placed upon the danger list with a possible fracture of the skull and multiple injuries. Havey was a pilot and partner in the Johnson Aeroplane company in Lynn.

way, and Smith had been engaged to make exhibition jumps during the season. The two men made a trial trip earlier in the afternoon and climbed to an altitude of about 1000 feet. Thousands of spectators were on hand to witness the jump. The plane circled in a slow glide with the engine throttled down, but they landed without making the jump.

Think He Lost Control

While Smith was adjusting the parachute paraphernalia Havey took three passengers for flights and the machine worked perfectly. Shortly after 6 o'clock Smith and Havey again went up for a parachute jump. They climbed steep, and at an altitude of 1200 feet the plane seemed to stall, hung for a second and then whirled into a nose spin.

After a drop of 300 or 400 feet Havey managed to straighten the plane. Almost immediately, however, the plane dove into another nose spin and crashed into the centre of the boulevard.

To spectators, several of whom were experienced aviators, it seemed as though the plane invariably started to dive when Smith started to climb out to make his jump, and that eventually the parachute became entangled with the control wires, and Havey lost all control of the machine.

Havey, seated in the front seat of the plane, crashed head first into the motor, and it was obvious he was mortally hurt when he was dragged out by Melvin Hodgson of Somerville, a licensed pilot. Smith, in the rear seat, did not suffer so badly, and at the Lynn hospital late last night hope was held out that he might recover.

Havey, who lived with his mother, Mrs. Sarah Havey, in Everett, joined the Tufts Ambulance Unit when war was declared, but after six months overseas' service with this outfit, was transferred to the air corps and served throughout the remainder of the war in the United States air service. He was one of the few non-college men who received aviation commissions.

Smith has been parachute jumping for the past nine years, but for the most part from balloons, and was practically non-experienced in jumping from motor driven planes. He had been engaged to make exhibition jumps by the Johnson people this coming summer. Smith has thrilled thousands of people at Nantasket beach with his jumping from balloons, one of his most famous stunts at that resort being his leap from a burning balloon in the summer of 1915. Although he has figured in several mishaps, he has never before been seriously injured.

CARD. O'CONNELL STARTS HOME

BOSTON, June 11.—The steamship Canopic of the White Star Line left Genoa on Monday and is scheduled to take her departure from Naples today for Boston. Cardinal O'Connell, returning home from his visit to Rome, will be a passenger on the liner. He will join the vessel at Naples.

The steamer will call at Palermo, Gibraltar and Ponta Delgada, and will have a total of nearly 2000 passengers when she leaves the latter port.

SUPERIOR COURT

No cases were ready for trial by the jury this morning in the civil session of the superior court presided over by Judge Foadick. Some time was devoted, following the opening of the court, to conferences at the bench between judge and attorneys. Later arguments were heard on a motion to set aside the verdict in the contract case of Polakus vs. Johnson.

PUMP FOR WEST SIXTH STREET STATION

John Dayer, an erecting engineer of the Worthington Pump and Machinery corporation, has arrived in Lowell and was in conference with Commissioner John P. Salmon of the water department this morning, planning for the erection of the new 10-million gallon screw cross-compound pump at the West Sixth street pumping station. Three cars containing sections of the new pump have arrived here from Buffalo, N. Y., and they will be transferred as soon as possible to the pumping station where the erection of the pump will be supervised by Mr. Dayer. The work is scheduled to last several months. Mr. Dayer has had extensive experience in the work, having supervised the erection of pumps in all parts of the country. He is accompanied by his wife.

FOR BRITISH GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

B ID FOR BRITISH CHAMPIONSHIP. MURFIELD, Scotland, June 11.—Robert A. Gardner, of Chicago, began his battle with Cyril Tolley of the Oxford university team for the British amateur golf championship today by taking an early lead, being two up on the fourth hole. Thirty-six holes will be played today.

Tolley squared the match at the turn, holding long putts on the 8th and 9th for two fine fours. The American took one stroke more in each case. Gardner was 1 up on the 15th hole, however, and two up at the end of the first round.

Last year, there were 361,453 sheep in Alberta, which produced 2,115,000 pounds of wool valued at $2,250,000, leaving proceeds.

Wheeler Pleads for Johnson

untouched as he sketched the senator's career.

Mr. Wheeler attacked the argument of political geographers against candidates from the far west.

"California," would say to such men: that this progressive world of ours has been moving right along," he said, "that the course of empire has steadily pursued its westward way; that the hand and brain of men have not only spanned rivers and levelled hills, but they have now leaped athwart the ether and low highways through the very heavens themselves, until the east and the west are gone."

"The California delegation claims the right to speak authoritatively for the rank and file of the republican party. It bases that claim upon the fact that it was sent to this convention by the stupendous majority of 160,000 American citizens, who in literal truth, hailed from every nook and cranny corner of this nation.

Defeat If Wrong Man Is Named

"By every sign of the zodiac, this should be a republican year. The disgust for the party in power is universal. But notwithstanding all this, there has never been a time in the history of the republican party when a failure to name the right candidate would so surely spell party defeat.

"This proposition may be laid down with axiomatic certainty. The November election will not be won by the platform of either political party. The personality of the candidate—and not the party affiliation—is going to elect the next president of the United States.

"The man who will enter the White House on the 4th of March, 1921, will be that republican or that democrat in whom the average American voter

BELIEVE BERGDOLL IN HILLS OF MARYLAND

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Grover C. Bergdoll and Erwin R. Bergdoll, brothers and wealthy draft dodgers are reported surrounded in the hills of Maryland. This report is received at the federal building by the department of justice officials with credence.

Capture of the motor car fugitives is expected by the federal agents who said the information of the whereabouts of the Bergdolls was the most reliable yet received.

Several government agents sent to Maryland to catch the draft dodgers were in communication by telephone with the department of justice officials here yesterday and reported the Bergdolls in a motor car in Maryland, traveling in the general direction of Washington.

A cord of federal agents and police is blocking all roads, say reports received here.

Federal agents were sent from this city last Friday on receipt of a "tip" the Bergdolls were in a motor car at Ocean City, Md., on Thursday. This news failed but according to department of justice officials the Bergdoll trail was definitely established that Grover Bergdoll, if not Erwin, also visited the city on Tuesday.

The theory was advanced at the federal building yesterday that the Bergdolls have been or are going after the reported $15,000 "pot of gold" which Grover said he buried in Maryland, and possibly are on their way to the national capital to surrender.

SUGAR BROKERS HELD IN PLOT TO BOOST PRICES

BOSTON, June 11.—Federal officers today arrested four sugar brokers here and two at Burlington, Vt., charging a conspiracy by which the price of a lot of 40,000 pounds of sugar was boosted from 19 to 27c.

The men arrested here, Israel Rutenberg, Louis Koritz, Henry Keshner and Morris A. Levine, pleaded not guilty, and were held in $500 bail for hearings on June 16.

It is alleged that the conspiracy began with the purchase of the sugar by Harris P. Prindle of Burlington, for 19c a pound; that he shipped it to Israel Cohen, at Burlington, to be sold at a high price but, Cohen being unable to dispose of it at the profit sought, the sugar was supposedly sold to Rutenberg and by him passed along until each of the brokers had handled it each marking up the price, until the lot was disposed of to Dunn & Co. of Canada, N. Y., at 27c a pound. The government claims to have evidence that the brokers were paid $100 each for their assistance in the alleged conspiracy.

PASTOR AND FAMILY LIVE IN CHURCH

LAWRENCE, June 11.—Unable to locate a tenement, the Rev. Clement Crawley, his wife and three young sons are residing temporarily in the parlor of the Salem Street Primitive Methodist church at Osgood and Salem streets. The situation is unpleasant, but parishioners say that it is no fault of theirs that the new pastor and his family are without a home.

Mr. Crawley was recently elected to the pastorate of the church and arrived here last Friday from Boscobell, Wis., where he served for six years. Together with church workers, he scoured the city in an attempt to locate a house for his family, but they were unsuccessful. The family arrived last evening and the church was their only refuge. The morning meal was prepared in the executive chamber just off the reception room of the church. Other meals during the day were provided through the assistance of church workers.

Mr. Crawley is not discouraged by the unusual situation. The "church home" will be abandoned just as soon as a tenement can be obtained in the vicinity of the church.

Cheers Sweep Big Coliseum

recounted the achievements of his candidate.

Made Crack at Bryan

When the governor made a crack at William J. Bryan's celebrated dictum about a million men springing to arms overnight, he looked down at where Mr. Bryan was sitting in the press box. But the Nebraska had his nose to his manuscript, trying to write on industriously while a plump woman writer was shoving through the narrow aisle behind his chair. If he heard the reference he did not let on.

Gov. Allen worked hard at his speech and the perspiration rolled down in cataracts over his quickly wilted laundry. While the speech was going on arrangements were made for Governor Lowden's nominating speech to follow Gen. Wood's. Arkansas delegates who answered the roll said the state would yield to Illinois.

California, next in line, was to name Senator Johnson, disposing of the "big three."

At the concluding word of the nominating speech thousands of many colored turkey feathers which have been the convention badge of the Wood people, were loosed from the ceiling of the Coliseum and floated down over the cheering delegates.

The lights were turned on to give the photographers a chance while many of those on the floor mounted chairs and waved Wood banners.

Approximately 200 delegates, perhaps, more or less, were taking part in the cheering and flag waving. Many of those on the floor yelled like real Indians and they looked like real Indians, with the hair of the women and the collars of the men decorated by the falling feathers.

"It's Wood, let's go!" seemed to be the motif running through the confusion of shouting.

"It's Wood, let's go!" also was printed on many of the blue and white banners waving over the Wood groups. When the demonstration had been on about 10 minutes the inevitable procession started. It was led by delegates from Minnesota and it started skanking its way about the convention hall just as Senator Lodge had come to the front of the platform and rapped for order. He went back again and sat down as the parade gathered momentum.

It looked strange to many of the old timers to see women for the first time among the marchers. Changing their slogan and the circulating Wood people took up "We want Wood" as their marching cry.

"Wood, Wood, Wood"

In the gallery behind the platform a big group of men and women started yelling "Wood, Wood, Wood." In an endless rhythm, while some enthusiast unmasked a noise maker that kept time to the yell and sounded like a big backswab.

When the noise had lasted for 15 minutes Senator Lodge tried again to get order but the demonstrators only tried with a renewed enthusiasm of noise.

At the end of 25 minutes the delegates showed signs of quitting but the galleries kept up the din, cheer leaders standing in many of the sections and whooping it up every time there seemed any possibility the demonstration would end.

Roosevelt's Sister for Wood

The speaker got a lot of cheers but not so much as did Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York, still in mourning for her brother, Col. Roosevelt, when she took the platform to second General Wood's nomination. The first woman ever to perform that function in a national convention, she got a rising ovation when she was introduced by Senator Lodge.

Mrs. Robinson declared she wanted Leonard Wood for president, "not because he was my brother's friend, but because he is his type of man."

Declares Managements of American Railroads Are "Dishonest"

MONTREAL, June 11.—Charges that managements of American railroads are "dishonest" were made today by Glenn Plumb of Washington, originator of the Plumb plan for public ownership of the railroads. In addressing the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, they people, Plumb said, "the present system in the United States which 'surrounds them with temptation' is the solution of the problem, as it would remove the management of railroads of 'the damaging temptation and give them an opportunity to be honest' as they would be under the democratic control of the public."

forces, was on the platform conferring with Frank Knox, his floor leader.

When the noise makers had been at it for half an hour, they still were going strong, and the chairman was making no further attempt to put on the lid.

A few minutes later, however, Senator Lodge renewed his pounding with the gavel, but all the good it did him was the gymnastic benefit of the exercise.

At 35 minutes, the first hush was attempted by the delegates and galleries themselves. The demonstration quieted down somewhat.

The delegates cheered when Senator Lodge, at the end of 40 minutes, said the delegates all were in their seats and that the galleries would be cleared unless they quieted down.

The announcement got the desired result and at once Senator Lodge presented Frank Knox of New Hampshire, to second Wood's nomination. Mr. Knox, a former private of the Rough Riders, told the convention that New Hampshire, the general's native state, regarded him "not as a son of the state, but as a son of the whole nation."

SIR THOMAS LIPTON ARRIVES

NEW YORK, June 11.—Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of the Shamrock IV, which will try to lift the America's cup in the coming yachting classic, arrived here today on the steamship Celtic.

Sir Thomas said he was confident his vessel was the superior of either Vanitie or Resolute, her American rivals, and had no doubt he would carry the coveted trophy back to England with him.

were stirred to the depths, when the horizon of the republic's future was darkened by the clouds of approaching conflict, when the very perpetuity of "government of the people, by the people, and for the people" was trembling in the balance, the nation turned for leadership to the state of Illinois. Here, on the broad and fertile prairies of this great state, so open that truth could find no hiding place, was found a man of the people, a leader of leaders, the apotheosis of freedom's holy light, our Lincoln, the world's Lincoln! Grandly, nobly, sublimely he met the test. Patiently and passionately, he pressed forward in the great task that lay before him and today he stands acclaimed as America's grandest contribution to the world's heritage of great and noble men.

Illinois, the state whose soil has been sanctified by the blood of the immortal Lovejoy, our first great martyr to the cause of free press and speech, gave Abraham Lincoln to the nation in 1860, and Illinois, the state that is still the well spring of republican hope and inspiration, stands ready in 1920 to consecrate to the service of the republic another of her great sons,—one whose brilliant record of public and private achievements is the very best and surest guarantee that under his leadership, our beloved country will be raised from the obliquity into which it has fallen and again placed on the road that leads to national honor and national glory.

We present him to you because we believe in his rugged Americanism, the Americanism that comes from the close contact with the plain people. Born of humble parentage in the state of Kentucky, his early life was spent on a farm in the state of Iowa. It was there, close to nature and nature's God, the great school of human experience, that school that has given to the nation its best and truest men, that he formed those sterling traits of character that have ruled his life and have left their impress upon his every act.

We present him to you because we know him to be a manly man of courage and conviction, endowed with the genius of common sense, faithful and fearless, whose every heart beat is in full sympathy with the noblest aspirations of his fellow men.

We present him to you because he stands for law and order and constitutional government. Of fine legal mind and training, with both legislative and executive experience, he believes in re-establishing the powers and prerogatives of every branch of the federal government as set forth by the fathers in the constitution itself and he is unalterably opposed to executive usurpation of any legislative or judicial function.

We present him to you because his records demonstrate that he has a clear and comprehensive conception of the proper relations of capital and labor to each other. His work as member of congress and as governor of a great industrial state, with all its complex and diversified interests, stamps him as the living embodiment of the doctrine of the "square deal." He believes in the interdependence of employer and employee and in all of his official acts he has accorded to each exactly the same measure of protection under the law. We present him to you because he typifies more than any out of the distinguished gentlemen who will be placed in nomination before this convention the great, vital issue of economy in the administration of public affairs. He believes in the application of sound and practically business principles to the conduct of government and as proof of that belief we point to the decreased tax rate and the increased administrative efficiency of the state over whose destinies he presides today.

We present him to you because he is in full accord with the true spirit of America which still preserves the nationalism of Theodore Roosevelt to the internationalism of Woodrow Wilson. He believes that the sovereignty of the United States must be kept free and inviolate from European influence or domination and that, while maintaining a friendly attitude toward all nations, we owe it to those who have gone before and to those who are to follow us to enter into partnership with none.

We present him to you because to him the American flag, whose stars and stripes have been baptized in the best blood of American patriotism, symbolizes the strength and the power and the majesty of a mighty nation and he believes that the flag should command respect at home and abroad and give full and ample protection to the humblest American citizen wherever it may be unfurl to the breeze.

Delegates, a solemn responsibility rests upon the republican party today. Many difficult and perplexing problems, social and economic and industrial, growing out of the world war are pressing for solution. The best constructive ability of our great nation must be utilized in the solution of these problems. In the crucial and critical period upon which we have now entered the nation demands as its chief executive a man of clear brain and steady nerve, a man of vision but not a visionary, a man of ideals but not an idealist, a man of works and not of words.

Illinois hys such a man.

We present him to you as our candidate for president.

We present the patriotic governor of a patriotic state, Frank Orren Lowden.
